LORIMER SWEARS FRIENDS WON OVER PLOT AND TREASON

Testifies He Broke with Hopkins Because Latter Joined Busse to Fight Him.

DENIES SUPPORT OF HINES

Browne's Admission of Aiding Election Also Held False in Senator's Talk.

ATTACKS INTRIGUE BY THE PRESS

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Friendship and treachery, the "villainous conspiracy" of powerful newspapers, and the story of how a newsboy and bootblack came to the United States senate were the prominent elements of the story told by Senator Lorimer today to the senate investigating committee.

The friendship was displayed by the members of the legislature who elected him United States senator.

The treachery was committed by Albert J. Hopkins, former United States senator, and Fred Busse, former mayor of Chicago, as a result of which Hopkins lost Lorimer's support for reelection.

The conspiracy of the press, involving THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the Chicago Daily News, and the Chicago Record-Herald, was directed at the political and financial ruin of an honest, aspiring young man.

The newsboy and bootblack who acquired senatorial togs is Mr. Lorimer.

Denies Any One "Put Him Over."

Mr. Lorimer's testimony today pricks the boast of Lee O'Neil Browne and other members of the legislature, who swore they had at least a little to do with the making of the present senator, and of Edward Hines, who boasted he "put Lorimer over."

The witness completed, on direct examination, his statement of the reasons which actuated every member of the legislature who voted for him in so casting his ballot. Fifty did so solely because of personal friendship; forty-six because of the intervention of friends; seven to break the deadlock; seven at least Hopkins; six because of Lorimer's advocacy of the deep waterway; one because Lorimer discussed postoffice appointments with him and because he said Lorimer was a "square man," and one because he was a street car man and knew that Lorimer had occupied a similar position.

Lee O'Neil Browne testified he either saw or knew one saw every member of his Democratic faction. Representatives McLaughlin and Kannally handled the Tippit crowd.

How Ballots Were Won.

According to Mr. Lorimer's testimony, however, this was not at all necessary. His views of the reasons which controlled members in voting for him may be summarized as follows:

PERSONAL FRIENDSHIP—Fifty, as follows: Senators Ball, Broderick, Clark, Culkshank, Curtis, Gorman, Jandus, Juul, and Rainey; Representatives Abrahams, Beck, Behrens, Burgett, Burns, Cermak, Chiperfield, Curran, Erickson, Fieldstack, Flanagan Forst, Galligan, Geshkewich, Gilpin, Glade Griffin, Hilton, Hruby, Kittleson, Kleeman, Lane, Lantz, Lawrence, Ledwer, McConnell, McLaughlin, McNichols, Murray, O'Brien, Riley, Schumacher, Shanahan, Shephard Shurtleff, Smejkal, Sollitt, Sullivan, Troyer, Walsh, and Werdell.

PRESSURE BY LORIMER'S FRIENDS—Thirty-six, as follows: Senators—Billings, Boldt, Ettelson, McCormick, and McElvain; Representatives — ApMadoc, Beckemeyer, Beck, Browne, Crawford, Dillon Dudgeon, Durfee, Fahy, Foster, Gorman, Kannally, Kowalski, Link, Logan, MacLean, McCullom, McGuire, McMackin, Morris, Murphy, O'Neil, Perron, Poulton, Stearns, Tippit, Wheelan, Frank J. Wilson, R. E. Wilson, Zinger, and Zolt.

BREAK THE DEADLOCK—Seven, as follows: Senators—Henson and Potter. Representatives—Allison, Clark, Corcoran, De Wolf, and York.

ANY ONE TO BEAT HOPKINS—Seven as follows: Representatives Alschuler, Bush, Butts, Church, Luke, Parker, Price.

DEEP WATERWAY—Six, as follows: Senators—Downing and Hearn. Representatives—Blair, Brownback, Espy, Staymates.

RESULT OF POSTOFFICE APPOINTMENT AND BELIEF LORIMER WAS A "SQUARE MAN"—One, Senator Holstlaw.

BECAUSE LORIMER WAS A STREET CAR CONDUCTOR—One, Representative Charles A. White.

No Light Upon Election.

After carefully hearing Mr. Lorimer's testimony, it is apparent he has thrown no new light whatever upon the proceedings in connection with his election. He has merely shown how his personal relations gained for him the senatorship and has appealed to sympathy because of his rise from humble beginnings—an appeal which will not go far in the senate, in view of the larger number of men in that body who also were newsboys, miners, laborers, or the like.

So far as the story of his life is concerned, the question naturally asked by every one who listened to him was:

"Has that to do with the question of whether or not he procured his election by bribery and corruption?"

That is the sole question before the committee and the senate. His early struggles, pathetic and even emotional as they were, have nothing whatever to do with the operations in which he and others engaged in the Illinois capital in 1909.

Omits "Hinky Dink" Reference.

Mr. Lorimer's remarks today lacked the eloquence which he employed in describing his career in the senate last winter and he omitted any reference to "Hinky Dink."

COUNCIL ORDERS 'TICK' PHONES OUT THROUGHOUT CITY

Aldermen Pass Resolution Commanding Company to Restore "Nickel Last" Service.

MUST CHANGE 61,000 LINES

Action Follows Heated Session of Subcommittee; Legal Opinion Not Awaited.

MAYOR VETOES SALARY INCREASES

COUNCIL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD.

All "nickel first" telephone service ordered replaced by "nickel last" service.
Corporation counsel ordered to confess judgment for $188,500 for 200 voting machines.
Ordinance for repeal of ordinance for rent of subsidewalk space deferred.
Powers, Kunz, and Twigg spoke against published criticisms of aldermen.
Mayor Harrison asked closer regulation of moving picture shows and wrestling matches.
Ald. Lipps began movement for creation of "fireproof" districts.
Office of fish inspector abolished.
Ald. Murray had passed a resolution for further appropriation for street signs.
Ald. Cermak announced plan for making ice at the bridewell.
Mayor Harrison inserted in the budget provision for three automobile fire engines.

An order directing the Chicago Telephone company to wipe out its "nickel first" service throughout the city was passed by the city council last evening. By its passage the corporation was directed to restore to the usual nickel service 61,000 lines now equipped with "tick-tick" instruments, requiring the deposit of a nickel before communication can be established with the operator. This number includes the 13,500 instruments changed to the new type of service Saturday night and approximately 47,500 telephones which have had the "tick-tick" feature added to them during the last five years.

In a heated session immediately preceding the convening of the council the committee on gas, oil, and electric light voted to make a clean sweep of the entire question. The vote in committee was unanimous, as Chairman Twigg, the only one who actively opposed the recommendation of an order, did not vote because he was in the chair. In the council the order was passed by unanimous consent.

Less Drastic Action Expected.

It had been expected that the committee, called into session upon the insistence of Ald. James B. Bowler, would take rigorous action, but its full extent had not been forecast. It was thought that an order directing the company to cease the installation of the "tick tick" service would be passed. It also was thought there was a possibility that another order directing the restoration to the "nickel last" service of the 13,500 shifted almost without warning Saturday.

Ald. Bowler began the committee debate by moving the recommendation of the first of these orders. Ald. Twigg objected on the ground that the committee should wait for an opinion from the law department before acting. During the discussion Bowler insisted that the second order also should be passed. This also Twigg opposed, but Pringle, Sitts, and other members declared that both should be recommended.

Order Passes with Shout.

Ald. Cermak then made the motion that the second order include all nickel prepayment telephones in service. With this amendment both orders were passed with a shout of "Aye." Ald. Twigg then had the committee include in the restoration order a provision that, upon the subscriber's request, the prepayment feature may be retained.

The right of the council to act as it did was raised at the morning session of the committee. Twigg, Pringle, and Bowler were named as a subcommittee to consult with the law department. At the evening session Assistant Corporation Counsel Craig said that the preparation of an opinion would take at least until Thursday. The committee objected to this delay and contended that the action should be taken and, if the law department holds it beyond the council's authority, it then can be rescinded.

Pringle Stirs Up Debate.

At the morning session a lively debate was aroused by Ald. Pringle, who asserted that the committee had not been taken seriously by the company. He urged that if the committee was a "joke" the fact should be known publicly. He condemned the delay in beginning an effort to determine whether the Automatic Telephone company had 20,000 subscribers, last June, as required by its franchise. Chairman Twigg declared he would not "stand for" the insinuations.

Upon the opening of council Ald. Stanley Kunz attacked Ald. John A. Richert for a recent public declaration that "90 per cent of the council" are honest. Richert declined to answer him. Ald. John Powers then criticised the inactivity of a committee to investigate charges made against him in a morning newspaper.

At this time Ald. Twigg charged that a statement in THE TRIBUNE concerning the calling of the "G. O. L." committee meeting was a "lie." The statement was that associates had "intimated" they would call the meeting if he did not. Bowler, Sitts, and Cermak, who witnessed the "intimating."

POSTMASTER GENERAL HITCHCOCK WAS A CALLER AT THE WHITE HOUSE YESTERDAY.

[Copyright: 1912: By John T. McCutcheon.]

Asks Revocation of Garrick, Lyric, and Princess Licenses Due to Scalping Expose.

MANAGERS BACK MOVE.

The city council last night took action to stop the scalping of theater tickets. Aroused by the exposure in the federal courts last week, the aldermen passed a resolution asking Mayor Harrison to revoke the licenses of three big downtown theaters. Alleged collusion between the theaters and the scalpers caused the passage of the resolution.

Another resolution was passed directing the council license committee to revise the ordinance licensing theaters so that scalping will not be possible. An ordinance also was introduced which it is declared will end scalping.

The resolution asking for the revocation of the licenses was aimed at the Garrick, Lyric, and Princess theaters, all Shubert houses. It was introduced by Ald. Fred A. Britten of the Twenty-third ward. The resolution stated that the collusion had been proved by the revelations in the federal court.

Shuberts Issue Statement.

Ald. Britten in a speech asserted that other theater managers were willing to stop dealing with the scalpers if the Shuberts will end the practice. About the time the council was passing the resolution asking for the revocation of the licenses of the three theaters, A. T. Worm, Chicago representative of the Shuberts, announced that hereafter no tickets of their houses will be sold through scalpers.

In a statement which Mr. Worm said was issued under instructions from the general headquarters in New York he said:

"Hereafter no seats for any of the Shubert theaters—the Princess, the Garrick, or the Lyric—will be set aside for the hotel agencies, which have been in the habit of handling these tickets for the accommodation of the traveling public."

Poll of the Managers.

A poll of theater managers by THE TRIBUNE revealed a general willingness to stop scalping. Their statements follow:

E. J. Sullivan, Studebaker—I'm strong for the reform. If the council will put a high license on the scalpers then it will be killed.

N. R. Hermann, Cort—I don't want a premium on tickets and never have accepted one. If the tickets could be sent to the drug stores and let the people get them without a raised price it would be a good thing. Marshall Field's is the only place with which we have an agreement. They return tickets each day at 4 o'clock.

Will J. Davis, Illinois—We can't stop it. I know more about the so-called scalping than the entire city council. If they want to stop it they can. For ourselves, we don't scalp.

George Kingsbury, Chicago Opera house—Fine thing to stop "scalping," but how? We are unable to keep the tickets from the agencies. I'll bet the Shuberts and every other house have tickets in the hotel lobbies tonight.

B. Ulrich, Auditorium—That's a mighty good resolution. We'll do everything we can to help it along. At present we do no business with the hotels except for about twenty-five tickets a night. They were contracted for at the beginning of the season. We don't do any business with scalping agencies.

James Jay Brady, Colonial—We sell no tickets to hotels or scalpers. We aren't going to. Personally, I'd give anything in the world to see ticket scalping stopped altogether. I am in favor of any law making it a crime to sell theater tickets above the price fixed by the management.

Sol Litt, McVicker's—We have no traffic with scalpers and don't intend to have any. I would be in favor of any ordinance against scalping.

Britten Attacks Scalping.

Ald. Britten denounced the scalping business in asking for the passage of his resolution.

"It has been shown," he said, "that the theater managers are in collusion with the scalpers. I have had conferences with nearly every theater manager in town and they all say they will quit dealing with the scalpers if the Shuberts will stop it. They will all get together and stop giving their tickets to the scalpers if the Shuberts will join them.

"Under the present arrangement which the theater managers have with the scalpers you can go to the box office in the evening and ask for two seats in the sixth or seventh row. You will be told the seats are all sold. You can go around the corner to a hotel and ask for the same seats. The scalper will tell you he hasn't got the tickets, but he will get them for you. You pay him the money, which is an increase over the regular price, and he will write out an order on a scrap of paper.

"You take that scrap of paper back to the box office, where you have been told the seats have all been sold, and the tickets will be handed to you. I know it is true, because I have bought tickets that way."

Ald. John Coughlin sought to have the resolution referred to the license committee, instead of being passed. This raised an objection to its passage, and Ald. Britten asked for a suspension of the rules that the resolution might be passed. The roll was called, the vote being yeas 44, nays 17. The resolution was then passed.

Ryan Introduces Ordinance.

The resolution asking the license committee to consider the revision of the ordinance licensing amusement places was introduced by Ald. William F. Ryan of the Thirty-fourth ward, and passed. The proposed ordinance suggests an amendment which will give the mayor the power to revoke the licenses if theaters deal with scalpers.

Ald. Carl T. Murray of the Twentieth ward introduced an ordinance which makes it unlawful for an agent or person in charge of the theater to represent or give out information that certain tickets have been sold when they are in the hands of agents or brokers. This ordinance has been approved by Corporation Counsel Sexton, and is declared to be constitutional. It provides for a penalty of not less than $25 or more than $200 for each violation. The ordinance was referred to the license committee.

Mayor to Summon Managers.

Mayor Harrison said he would not attempt to enforce the resolution at once.

"I shall ask all the theater managers to meet at my office," he said, "and I shall ask them if they are willing to coöperate with the city authorities in doing away with scalping. If they show a sincere desire to do it, and promise to sever all connections with ticket brokers, the purpose of the resolution will have been attained. If I find there is any further scalping I shall revoke the license of the theater involved at once."

ARCTIC ANIMALS NEED HEAT.

Chicago Cold Too Much for Lincoln Park Bears and Foxes—Sleep Near Radiators.

In Lincoln park zoo even the animals from the Arctic regions must be warmed during the current cold weather. Cy De Vry, the superintendent, keeps the heat turned on in the outdoor cages. Visitors, however, do not see the network of pipes. The animals show their appreciation by sleeping beside them.

The two polar bears from Greenland, commonly expected to delight in wintry blasts, lie close to the radiators and refuse to move except at feeding time.

The Arctic foxes from Alaska find it too chilly for frisking over the rocks. The little brown cinnamon bear could not stand the frigid wind long enough to eat in his front yard yesterday. With one spasmodic clutch at two pounds of round steak, the bear hurried back into his bouilke home out of the cold.

'MILLIONAIRE KID' 'ANGEL' ARRESTED

Railroad Express Agent Accused of Theft Caught as He Wines Theatrical Co.

GETS PLAY OF HIS OWN.

Posing as the son of a railroad president, and known to the employés of the Hotel Astor, 172 North Clark street, as the "millionaire Kid," Robin Carlisle Fergason was arrested yesterday.

Until recently he was a messenger for the Southern Express company on the Georgia Central railroad. He was accused of the theft of a package containing $7,000 on Dec. 16.

He has been in Chicago, a guest of the Astor, since Jan. 2. With him was a young woman he represented as his wife. It is said she was a waitress in a hotel at Quincy, Ill., before coming to this city. Fargason knew her in the south, and wrote to her at Quincy to join him here on his arrival.

Since coming to Chicago Fargason has financed a theatrical venture that has cost him more than $1,000. A sketch called the "Scarecrow Man" is the production in which Fargason took a leap into the show business.

Had Booked His Show.

Rehearsals have been under way for the last week, and the initial production was booked for the Thirty-first street theater Wednesday night. The Wilson avenue and other outlying theaters had booked the sketch, which requires eight persons in the cast.

With the "angel" behind the bars it is problematical whether the "Scarecrow Man" will make its bow to the public tomorrow night as advertised. Arthur Wild and Harry Skelly, co-authors of the sketch, say they would put it on, but the "millionaire kid" said there was no chance with him in a cell.

Fargason was opening wine in his suite at the Astor when Charles Vaeth, assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton National Detective agency, and Detectives McGrath and Farrelly of headquarters walked in on him. He was registered at the hotel as J. W. Wode. His father, he represented, was president of a southern railroad, with headquarters at Jacksonville, Fla.

When the detectives broke in upon the merry party, comprising several members of the "Scarecrow Man," Fargason was giving a toast. Each held a glass of champagne aloft.

"Here's to the 'Scarecrow Man,'" said Fargason, "May it prove to be the theatrical success of the year. Your health."

Toast to "Millionaire Kid."

As the glasses clinked one of the party toasted the host. He said:

"Here's to the 'millionaire kid.' May he never know the want of a dollar or a cold bottle."

Five seconds later the "millionaire kid" was standing before his theatrical friends with handcuffs on his wrists. He admitted his identity and also confessed his guilt of the theft.

In his room the detectives found a trunk that contained $4,135, which was the amount Fergason had left from the $7,000. Besides the money used in financing the "Scarecrow Man," Fargason spent nearly $2,000 since Dec. 16. His tips to bellboys and other employés of the Astor averaged $5 a day. He gave newsboys from 25 to 50 cents for a paper, and the barber who shaved him daily in his room received $5.

When his arrest became known to the bellboys at the hotel there were manifestations of grief. An "indignation meeting" was held and the "millionaire kid" was voted a "prince of good fellows, even if he did get away with $7,000."

CRANE WILL GIVES MILLION TO NEEDY WIVES AND WIDOWS

Homes to Be Built in Suburbs in Compliance with His Verbal Wishes.

PENSION FUND FOR THE FIRM

Two Sons and Widow Principal Heirs to "Ironmaster's" $10,000,000 Estate.

THOUSANDS TO OTHER CHARITIES

The written and verbal wills of the late Richard T. Crane, president of the Crane company, were made public yesterday. The written instrument was filed for probate, and the verbal arrangements were announced by two sons of "the ironmaster." Both will be carried out as nearly as his sons and the courts can find it possible to comply with the wishes expressed.

The will filed in Probate court disposes of property, estimated by the lawyers at $10,000,000, names the two sons, Charles R. Crane and Richard T. Crane Jr., executors without bonds and principal heirs. Generous bequests are made to the widow, third wife of the manufacturer. The estimate of $10,000,000 is regarded as conservative. The real value of the shares in the Crane company, which is the principal asset, is said to be considerably greater.

The written will makes no provisions for the practical philanthropic enterprises which Mr. Crane had in mind for years before his death. The end came too suddenly, and the manufacturer had not changed his testament to provide for the institutions of which he had much thought. But his sons know of their father's wishes, and as if these had been set forth in a legal document, they are to be carried out by the principal successors to the Crane fortune.

A Million for Helpless Women.

In a statement issued by Richard T. Crane Jr. and Charles R. Crane through their counsel, John P. Wilson, it is asserted that their father had planned to establish a home or homes in the country near Chicago for deserted wives and widows with children. This work will be undertaken within two years.

It also is announced that another wish of their father was to provide a generous pension and disability fund for the employés of the Crane company. The sons say they will set aside $1,000,000 for each of these two philanthropic enterprises. Minor charity bequests also are announced.

The fairness and generosity of Mr. Crane are displayed in the provisions he made for the widow, whom he married about nine years ago. She is given for her life the Crane residence in Chicago, the summer residence at Lake Geneva, and an annuity of $15,000. This, however, is asserted to be only a part of the settlement made by the "ironmaster" on his wife. It is said he presented her with a fortune soon after their marriage.

Hundreds of Thousands to Charity.

Gifts to charity to be made from the Crane estate are as follows:

$1,000,000 to a pension and disability fund for the benefit of the employes of the Crane company.

$1,000,000 to the work of providing homes in the country near Chicago for helpless children and their mothers.

$100,000 to the United Charities of Chicago as an endowment fund for the Mary Crane nursery.

$25,000 to the Visiting Nurses' association.

Charity Plans to Cover Two Years.

"Plans for establishing homes for widows and deserted wives and the pension system for our own employés still are in an embryonic stage," said Charles R. Crane at night. "It will require a long time to work it out, possibly two years. Father had some plans with which we are more or less acquainted. We shall have to study the subject thoroughly before we take any action. We have not even picked out a location for the homes of the widows and deserted wives and their children.

"We have a pension system at the present time. But it is not fully or thoroughly developed. We want to revamp it and place it on a better basis.

"We knew father had these two plans at heart, and while he left no written instructions to have them carried out, we knew that he wanted to have them accomplished. We are going to carry them out."

Provisions for Widow and Sons.

Stripped of its legal phraseology, Mr. Crane's written will follows in substance:

First. Appoints his two sons, Charles R. Crane and Richard T. Crane Jr., executors of his will without bond and directs that all claims against his estate and all inheritance taxes shall be paid out of his general estate.

Second. In addition to the provisions made for Mrs. Crane by ante-nuptial agreement, makes the following provisions for her:

1. Gives to her for life his city residence, 2541 Michigan avenue, with all the personal property in, about, or belonging to the same.

2. Gives to Mrs. Crane for life his house at Lake Geneva, Wis., with the personal property in, about, or belonging to the same; and also the land forming part of his country place at Lake Geneva, except such of his children as have heretofore occupied houses situated on said country place and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Crane, shall have the right for and during their respective lives, or until the death of Mrs. Crane, to use and occupy with their families the said houses that they respectively have heretofore occupied.

3. Directs his sons, Charles R. Crane and Richard T. Crane Jr., who are made residuary devisees and legatees, to pay to Mrs. Crane for life the sum of $15,000 each year, beginning with the date of his death, payable in quarterly installments, and makes the payment of the annuity a charge upon certain specified securities.

Third. Gives and bequeathes to his sons, Charles R. Crane and Richard T. Crane Jr., all the remainder of his estate, and directs that the acceptance of the gift shall be construed as an agreement by them to do the following things:

1. To pay to Mrs. Crane for life the annuity of $15,000.

2. To pay all taxes, special assessments, and other charges on No. 2541 Michigan avenue, and the contents thereof, and to keep the same in good order and repair.

3. Pay all costs and expenses of keeping his country place at Lake Geneva and all the houses and other buildings thereon in good order and repair, and to supply Mrs. Crane and the other occupants of the houses with vegetables, fruit, milk, and all other supplies from said place for the use of themselves and families, in the same manner as the testator had been accustomed to supply the same, and also to keep up and repair the steamer heretofore used in connection with said place, and to pay all taxes, assessments, and other public charges on said country place, and on all the houses and buildings thereon.

Prenuptial Agreement Fulfilled.

The $15,000 annuity for Mrs. Crane and possession for life of the two residences provided for in the will complete the terms of the prenuptial agreement, according to Charles R. Crane. He said the generous yearly income and the two residences did not include all the property bestowed on his step-mother.

It has been reported that Mrs. Crane was given approximately $1,000,000 in cash and securities by her husband about the time of their marriage. Charles R. Crane said he did not know just what amount was settled on Mrs. Crane by his father. He asserted, however, he knew for a certainty that a part of the prenuptial agreement had been carried out before his father's death and that it consisted of a substantial amount of property or cash.

"We never discussed the prenuptial agreement in our family," said Mr. Crane. "I don't believe anybody except my father and his wife knew just how much he settled on her before and after their marriage."

Five Cut Out of Will.

Mr. Crane was married three times. Seven children were born to his first wife. Concerning five—Herbert P. Crane of St. Charles, Ill.; Mrs. Edward Russell of Lake Forest, Mrs. A. F. Gartz of Altadena, Cal.; Mrs. Thomas Chadbourne of London, and Mrs. Frank R. Lillie of Chicago—none of whom were made beneficiaries, the will states:

"In making the provisions contained in this, my will, I have taken into account the gifts heretofore made by me to my several children and their respective needs. In my judgment my daughters and my son, Herbert P. Crane, are already sufficiently well provided for, and I have accordingly made no further provision for them, or either of them, by this, my will.

"But, inasmuch as my said sons, Charles R. Crane and Richard T. Crane Jr., will inherit the largest part of my estate and will practically be my successors in the control and management of my principal business interest, I look to them, and request them, to extend assistance to any of my children or to any member of their families in case of need."

Will Drawn in 1909.

John J. Herrick of the law firm of Herrick, Allen & Mart drew the will on Jan. 9, 1909. It was witnessed by Howard P. Bishop, private secretary of the testator, and Robin B. Stiles, an employé of the Crane company.

Mr. Crane died suddenly of heart collapse on Monday a week ago at his residence, 2541 Michigan avenue. He had contracted a cold on the previous Thursday while going home from the offices of the Crane company at Canal and Twelfth streets.

Mr. Crane attracted considerable attention in February, 1910, when in a book he bitterly denounced universities and college bred men. He asserted that all universities were frauds and their promoters swindlers. His attitude toward such educational institutions became known throughout the country.

Writing Unique Autobiography.

He was one of the commercial landmarks of Chicago. With his company paying dividends of 36 per cent annually, his wealth soon amounted to millions.

He was engaged in writing an autobiography for the four years prior to his death. This book is in the hands of an artist, who is lettering the pages and illustrating the text with drawings of the plant and its various complicated machines. Five hundred of the 700 pages which the volume will contain have been completed. It gives a complete history of the Crane companies from their inception. When finished, the book will be unique in every respect. Only one volume is being made and it will be exclusively for the family. The book in its uncompleted condition is said to have cost Mr. Crane $20,000.

CAMPBELL GETS NEW TERM; SENATE CONFIRMS CHOICE.

Opposition of Lorimer Is Withdrawn and Desire of Cullom Is Carried Out by the Senate.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Daniel A. Campbell was presented today with another four year term as postmaster of Chicago. In an executive session the senate confirmed his reappointment to the position which was made by President Taft several weeks ago.

The confirmation of the postmaster's reappointment was made possible by the action of Senator Lorimer in withdrawing further opposition. The postmaster is the warm personal friend and political associate of Senator Cullom and former Mayor Busse, both of whom were instrumental in obtaining his first appointment and his retention by the president for another term.

It was as a favor to Senator Cullom that Senator Lorimer withdrew his opposition.

HITCHCOCK STIRS UP A PARTY ROW

Proposal for Government to Buy and Operate Telegraph Lines Opposed.

TAFT KEEPS LIPS CLOSED.

Will Submit the Postmaster General's Recommendation Without Comment.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—With President Taft declining either to indorse or condemn the proposition, it became evident today that Postmaster General Hitchcock's recommendation of government ownership for telegraph lines has stirred up all sorts of trouble for the administration and the regular Republicans generally.

The biggest kind of a row is certain to follow any attempt to put the scheme through congress in advance of action on the parcels post question.

The president said he would forward the postmaster general's plans to congress without comment. The kind of a reception it will get there was evidenced by the comments of senators and representatives.

Some of the regular administration Republicans, notably Senator Cullom of Illinois, said they favored government ownership of the telegraph system. Mr. Cullom said although he opposes government ownership of the railroads, he thinks the telegraph a logical part of the postal system. There were some progressive Republicans also who welcomed the recommendation as a step forward in bringing about cheaper telegraph communication for the people.

Opposed to Parcels Post.

Mr. Hitchcock has opposed the parcels post until recently, when he consented to recommend a limited experiment on rural free delivery routes. He said the success of the parcels post abroad was no criterion, because of differing conditions, yet argues that the success of government owned telegraph lines abroad proved the feasibility of the plan in this country. Other progressives said the ownership of the telegraph by the government twould add to the power of the administration political machine and give control of the dissemination of information to political bureaucrats.

One report abroad today was to the effect that Mr. Hitchcock's action meant a break with President Taft and a probable alignment of the postmaster general with the advocates of Theodore Roosevelt for president. This was specifically denied. Friends of Mr. Hitchcock declared he is loyal to President Taft in every way and would not continue in the cabinet for a minute if he were not.

Senator Bourne, chairman of the senate postoffice committee, expressed the hope that Hitchcock's recommendation of 1 cent letter postage and of government owned telegraph would not be allowed to block the immediate creation of an adequate parcels post service.

View of Chairman Moon.

Representative Moon of Tennessee, chairman of the postoffice committee, said:

"The question of government ownership of public utilities is a great one that needs long and careful consideration. If Postmaster General Hitchcock's plans are embodied in a bill to be introduced in congress and the bill comes to this committee it certainly will be given thorough investigation. Such a proposal never has been before congress that I know of. As to the merits of the proposal, I could have nothing to say until I have read a bill incorporating the details of the proposed scheme."

A statement given out at the White House says the postmaster general's suggestion for the government to buy the telegraph lines was incorporated in a previous annual report, but it was decided, at the suggestion of the president, to postpone reference to the matter to another year, because of the recommendation of many other important changes, including the postal savings bank and the parcels post. It is said Mr. Hitchcock intended to bring this matter to the attention of the president before the publication in advance of this part of his report, but was suddenly called out of town without having done so. The recommendation has not yet been submitted to the president, and it has not yet been considered by him or by the cabinet with a view to presenting it to congress as an administration measure.

Clark and Underwood Reticent.

Speaker Champ Clark declared government telegraph was too big a subject to discuss until all the details of the postmaster general's plan became known. Democratic Leader Underwood was reticent, and Republican Leader Mann of the house treated the project gingerly.

"The relation of the postoffice department to the express companies must be disposed of before its relation to the telegraph systems can be passed upon," said Mr. Mann. "Both subjects cannot be handled at once."

Senator Williams of Mississippi said he had been in favor of the general proposition for twenty years, and added:

"I can see good reasons why it might not be practical to take over the telephones at the same time."

"I think Mr. Hitchcock is trying to draw attention away from Mr. Taft and the coming election," said Representative Adamson of Georgia, chairman of the house committee on interstate commerce. "I am not in favor of the government owning anything that individuals can own under proper control."

Views of Other Congressmen.

Senator Stone of Missouri, who has been much opposed to government ownership of railroads, said:

"I can see more good reasons why the government should own the telegraph than why it should own the railroads."

"I am inclined to be in favor of the proposal," said Representative Norris of Nebraska.

"I also am for the plan," said Representative Murdock of Kansas, "but it will have to be carried out carefully and leisurely and only after thorough investigation."

Mackay Points Out Difficulty.

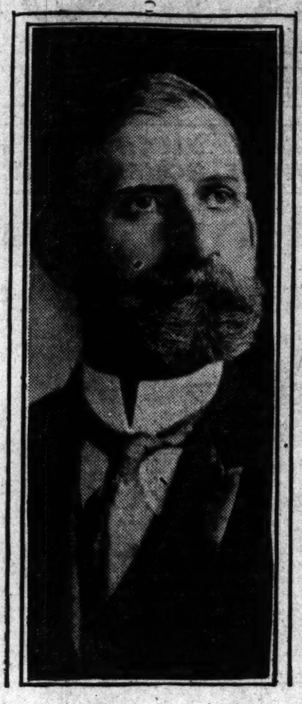
New York, Jan. 15.—Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph company, declared today if the government should take over the telegraph lines of the country he believed the investment would be unprofitable.

"The step would lead to taking over the telephone lines also," said Mr. Mackay. "The British government found this to be so. The telegraph and telephone lines in this country are worth from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000. This would include the independent telephone companies, owning nearly $500,000,000 of property and having some 450,000 stockholders.

"I venture to say they would be operated by the government at great annual loss, just as in Great Britain, where the losses on the telegraph alone up to date figured at $175,000,000. Moreover, the government would then be employing hundreds of thousands of clerks, telephone girls, telegraph operators, managers, etc. It would be a colossal political machine."

Thomas H. Shevlin.

Born Jan. 3, 1852. Died Jan. 15, 1912.



Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 15.—Thomas H. Shevlin, millionaire lumberman, died today at Pasadena, Cal. He was born on Jan. 3, 1852, at Albany, N. Y., and moved to Chicago in 1879, later going in the lumber business for T. W. Harvey at Muskegon, Mich. He moved to Minneapolis in 1886 and engaged in the lumber business, and in 1892 formed the present Shevlin-Carpenter company. He was a stockholder in numerous smaller firms of the United States and Canada. For four years preceding the last national convention was the Minnesota member of the Republican national committee. His wife died in 1910. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. G. C. Beckwith and Mrs. D. B. Tenney, and a son, Thomas L. Shevlin. The son was a famous Yale football player and latterly has been interested with his father in the lumber business.

Mrs. G. C. Beckwith and her husband will leave Pasadena tomorrow with her father's remains. Thomas L. Shevlin, who has been in charge of his father's interests for some time, will meet the funeral party in Kansas City.

HINES OUT OF LUMBER BODY

Association Resents His Domination; Forced to Quit.

HAD BEEN ITS PRESIDENT.

Other Members of His Company Retire with Him.

That Edward Hines is no longer a member of the Lumbermen's association of Chicago, of which he once was president, became known last evening when he was absent from the annual banquet of the organization at the Hotel La Salle. Inquiries to officers of the association confirmed the fact Hines and his business associates have been dropped from the membership.

"He was allowed to resign when strong opposition developed to his leadership," said a director last night. "With him went L. L. Barth, vice president of the Edward Hines Lumber company, and C. F. Wiehe, secretary of the Hines company. It was not that Hines was involved in the Lorimer scandal, but that he was too aggressive and undertook to rule the association.

"This caused friction and dissension. Hines resigned last June, when the Lumbermen's association was amalgamated with the Chicago Wholesale Dealers' association and the hardwood exchange. He was not threatened with expulsion, but took the step because he realized he would not retain his power. The step was taken quietly and has not become public until now."

Was President Five Years Ago.

Hines was president of the association five years ago, and always took a prominent part in the management of the organization's affairs. L. L. Barth and C. F. Wiehe were directors of the association three years ago, and were active in the control of the parent organization. When the reorganization was effected they voluntarily resigned with Hines.

The association reelected five out of six of its present directors. These will meet within the next few days to elect new officers. Frederick L. Brown of the Crandall & Brown company, present vice president, is conceded the next presidency.

President Retires Voluntarily.

The directors reelected are: F. L. Brown of the Crandall and Brown company; J. L. Lane of J. L. Lane & Co.; Murdock MacLeod of the Oconto company; G. J. Pope of the D. S. Pate Lumber company, and E. E. Skeele of the Estabrook-Skeele Lumber company. Frederick T. Boles of the Lord and Bushnell company, president of the association, voluntarily retires from the board of directors. His place is taken by V. F. Mashek of the Pilsen Lumber company.

Members of the two most important committees were elected. Other committees will be appointed later. Frank J. Heitmann was reelected to the committee on arbitration, with the following new members: J. M. Riel, O. O. Agler, George D. Griffith, George B. Osgood, and Edmund A. Allen. M. F. Rittenhouse and R. S. Huddleston were reelected to the committee on appeals, on which the following new members will serve: T. S. Estabrook, George T. Mickle, John C. Spry, and James G. Miller.

LINKS MERRIAM AND LORIMERITES

START OF GOVERNOR RACE

Points to Civil Service, Primary Law, and Other Reforms of Administration.

Gov. Deneen issued a formal reply last night to the accusations made by Charles E. Merriam following the call for the progressive Republican state conference, in which "Lorimerism, Deneenism, and Cannonism" were hooked together.

The governor's statement stipulates the accomplishments of his two administrations, assumes to himself the responsibility for the enactment of the direct primary law, the civil service law, and the abolition of the "slush fund" in state politics. This part of Gov. Deneen's statement is accepted by politicians as tantamount to the real beginning of the Deneen campaign for renomination.

Links Merriam with Lorimer.

Then the governor takes up the personal case of Prof. Merriam. He charges him with having had as his allies in the late mayoralty campaign the forefront of the Lorimer machine, including "Abe" Harris, "Joe" Bidwell, "Dexter" Burke, and their confreres, including "Jim" Monaghan, who represented Senator Lorimer on the Republican county committee.

Gov. Deneen charges that Prof. Merriam "established connections with the underworld in order to have their leaders on the three sides of the city actively engage in his interests."

"Let he forget," asserts the governor, "I will call his attention to the meeting between his manager and William Skidmore and others of the west side, where good American dollars were exchanged for the support that would expedite reform."

Gov. Deneen, in developing that he has been an active enemy of the jackpot gang at Springfield, cites that he is the only man in public life who went out and campaigned against the bipartisan alliance.

Points to Achievements.

"Mr. Merriam asserts that all my political struggles for the last seven years have been sham battles," said the governor. "These battles represent the struggle for primary reform, civil service law, the reorganization of our charitable institutions, conservation, the regulation of public utilities, the reorganization of our educational system, the reorganization of our insurance laws, the enactment of laws relating to the health, comfort, and safety of employés in mines and factories, shops and stores; the conferring of larger powers of home rule upon the municipalities.

"They also include the reorganization and extension of our park systems, the placing of the administration of the state departments and institutions upon a business basis, the requiring of interest on public funds to be paid into the public treasury, the conservation and development of our agricultural, mining, and water resources; the prosecution of the litigation against the Illinois Central railroad for back taxes, and the struggle to conserve for the public benefit the water power created by public taxes, and a long list of other constructive, legislative, and administrative measures which are the familiar history of my administrations.

Fight for Primary Law.

"The people of our state are familiar with the struggles through which these achievements were secured and will remember whether they were sham battles or real ones, in any event, the public is enjoying the fruits of these victories.

"Mr. Merriam says I 'have not fought primarily for the public welfare, but for the development of a powerful political machine.' Eight years ago, in my campaign for governor, I made a state wide fight for the enactment of a primary election law.

"After my nomination I spoke in every county in the state for such a law and one was enacted by the following general assembly. Later the law was declared unconstitutional and on the same day I issued a call convening the general assembly in extraordinary session to enact a new one."

Points to Benefits of Law.

"The second law was declared unconstitutional, and I reconvened the general assembly in extraordinary session for the enactment of another primary law, which was passed. During the recesses of the general assembly I made a campaign in fifty-three counties of the state in behalf of the enactment of this primary election law.

"On the declaring of the third law unconstitutional I made another battle, to use Mr. Merriam's phrase, and recommended the enactment of a fourth primary election law. This was enacted and its constitutionality has been upheld by the Supreme court.

"During my administration there has been no nomination of party candidates except under primary election laws. These primary election laws have conferred upon the voter precisely the same powers in the selection of party candidates as the general election laws conferred upon him in the election of public officers.

State Merit Laws Passed.

"Again, all civil service laws of our state have been enacted during my administrations. The civil service plank was the second one in my campaign eight years ago, and I may say without undue boastfulness that I committed the party in its platform to civil service and have consistently urged its adoption.

"The results should be regarded with pride by the citizens of our state. The civil service law was enacted by the national government thirty years ago. There are now under it approximately 230,000 or 60 per cent of the federal employés, and 140,000 not under civil service. A civil service law was enacted in Wisconsin in 1905. There are now under it approximately 1,000 employés, or 30 per cent, and 1,770 not under the law.

"Civil service was adopted in Illinois in 1905, the first year of my administration, and a second law last year, 1911. There are now in our state approximately 4,700 or 80 per cent of state employés under the law and 800 not under civil service.

"When I went into office I abolished the system of political assessments upon state employés before the enactment of any state civil service law. The civil service law now makes such assessments a crime and prohibits political activity by state employés under civil service.

"If these two laws were enacted, as Mr. Merriam charges, 'for the development of a powerful political machine,' I may say at least that the methods of procedure are unusual.

Opposes Bipartisan Alliance.

"I may add that I was the only man in public life who went out and made a campaign against the bipartisan alliance and the jackpot, which was the occasion for the charge of executive interference by the jackpotters and the bipartisans. These men, unable to dispute the efficacy of laws which had been wrested from them in the hard battle of the last seven years, joined in a chorus of complaint that I was insincere in my advocacy of each law which had marked the progress of our state during that time.

"Mr. Merriam, for his own political advancement, now joins hands with these men in their assaults upon me, and uses as his weapons the arguments which they have made familiar throughout the state.

"Lastly, he charges that I have not attacked certain prominent Republicans and destroyed them. I have fought for issues, not against men. But the professor seems more fastidious in his criticism of the conduct of others than he is regarding his own.

"Leaving out of question those who are associated with him now, I may call his attention to some of his own affiliations and companions in his recent struggle for the mayoralty of Chicago which he seems already to have forgotten.

Shows Lorimer Aids for Merriam.

"In his primary campaign Abram Harris of the old Ninth ward was one of his managers and conducted a department in his headquarters. He was the leader in the Ninth ward in the campaign in which I was nominated for governor and in which so many men were indicted for crimes against the primary election laws, whose cases in the Supreme court led to the declaring of the law unconstitutional.

"Mr. Merriam, so I am informed, solicited personally the aid and support of Christopher Mamer of the old Nineteenth ward, Dexter Burke of the old Tenth ward, Mr. Bidwill of the Eleventh, and Mr. Shanahan of the Fifth ward, who were then recognized as the leaders of the so-called Lorimer wards. James Monaghan, who represents Senator Lorimer upon the county central committee, was one of the active managers of Mr. Merriam's campaign.

Has Alliance with Democrats.

"But he did not stop with these. Clarence S. Darrow, a Democrat, made the chief address at the principal meeting of Mr. Merriam's campaign, which was held at the Auditorium a week before the election. Raymond Robins, another Democrat, who had advocated the nomination of former Mayor Dunne at the primaries, turned to Mr. Merriam and made speeches from the same platform with him in nearly every ward in the city.

"John Conroy, an adherent of Mayor Dunne in the primaries and now employed in the office of the Democratic treasurer of Cook county, was chairman of the Democratic Merriam campaign committee. Richard Knight of the old Thirty-second ward, a prominent Democrat, was secretary of the committee. Mr. Merriam's whole campaign seemed to be shaped that no offense should be given to the sensibilities of his Democratic allies and managers.

"All this is public information. But Mr. Merriam's bipartisanship did not stop here. In view of what he has forgotten about his political associates it may be proper to recall to his memory that in that memorable campaign he also established connections with the underworld in order to have their leaders on the three sides of the city actively engaged in his interests.

Meets with Skidmore.

"Lest he forget, I will call his attention to the meeting between his manager and William Skidmore and others of the west side, where good American dollars were exchanged for the support that would expedite reform.

"But without referring to other matters which are more or less known, it is manifest that in directing his attack against those who have stood for the advancement which our state has made in recent years, instead of against those who have opposed it, he is weakening the forces which should be encouraged and encouraging those which should be weakened."

Hines Issues Statement.

Edward Hines, in an authorized statement, denied there had been a Deneen-Lorimer combination, as charged by Prof. Merriam, and that he had been rewarded thereby by the "friendly interference" of Roy O. West when the Merriam committee was looking into lumber deals with the city.

"Lorimania," was the word which Mr. Hines employed to describe the case of Prof. Merriam, and he characterized the Merriam statement of Sunday as a "typical contribution to the literature of the Lorimaniacs."

Mr. Hines also took occasion to deny he had said that Herman H. Kohlsaat has been secretly financing the defense of Senator Lorimer at Washington.

HARMON PREDICTS REPUBLICAN ROUT

Declares Signs of Democratic Victory in Presidential Campaign Evident.

NOW FREE OF HANDICAPS.

Expects Fidelity of Majority of House to Be Rewarded at the Polls.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 15.—Victory for the Democratic party in the next presidential campaign is in sight, according to Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio, who delivered an address tonight under the auspices of the Jefferson club of Milwaukee.

"The Democratic party approaches the election this year under peculiar conditions," he said. "Never before in its history, barring the civil war period, has it met four successive national defeats. It has labored under two handicaps:

"1. That the Wilson tariff bill caused the hard times in the nineties, the inference being that Democratic success would bring hard times again.

"2. The Democratic party, having been so long in political exile, the country was made to believe it was not competent to manage the government.

"The last four years have afforded ample proof that the Democrats could at least have done no worse than the Republicans have done. In 1910 a house was elected Democratic by an enormous majority, and many Democratic governors and other officials in states usually Republican.

"This house has shown fidelity, courage, ability, and economy. These state officers have won the confidence of the people by honest and able administrations."

SULLIVAN OPPOSES HARMONY SLATEMAKING FOR PRIMARIES.

National Committee Stands for Fight All Along the Line with Hearst-Harrison Democratic Forces.

Roger C. Sullivan yesterday announced his opposition to any variety of slate making for the Democratic primaries and said he would stand against any recreation of the "harmony committee," which framed the last county ticket.

That committee, it is recalled, was largely in the hands of the Harrison-Hearst interests. Mr. Sullivan and his friends now made it plain they will stand for a general fight all along the line with the bars down to all comers. The main stake in the primary fight is the control of the county and state organizations and the Illinois delegation to the Democratic national convention, coupled up with the Harrison-Hearst effort to depose Mr. Sullivan as the Illinois national committeeman.

Preparations will be completed today by the Republican executive committee for the county convention at which the organization county ticket will be nominated. The time limit for ward committeemen to determine whether they will come into the convention or stand for a fight being made against them in their wards under organization auspices expired at midnight. Announcement will be made today of the number of committeemen who prefer to buck the organization. The report was prevalent at night that all but one—and that being Senator Lorimer's own ward—likely would be in line with the organization leaders.

MANILA, Jan. 16.—Republican primaries were held in Manila today for the election of delegates to the insular convention, which will meet on Feb. 5 for the selection of national delegates. The primaries were overwhelmingly in favor of President Taft.

GIRL EMPLOYED AS NURSE

Mother and Adopted Parent Will Have Legal Fight for Possession of Child.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Infatuation for a waiter formerly in the employ of her foster mother, Mrs. Anna Buehler, proprietress of the Meyers hotel at 602 South State street, Chicago, induced Violet Buehler, 15 years old, heiress to $75,000, to forsake a comfortable home and obtain work as a companion nurse in this city.

Under pretense of a visit to her aunt, Mrs. [illegible] Davidson, at Racine, Wis., the girl succeeded in getting $45 from her foster mother on Nov. 27 and was placed on an elevated train bound for Evanston, to connect for Racine, by a clerk from the hotel.

When she failed to arrive at her destination an alarm was sent out by her foster mother, who feared the girl had met with foul play, and a reward of $250 was offered "to any person furnishing news of her whereabouts."

Kid Identity from Employers.

Detective Charles McGowan discovered the missing girl today in the home of Mrs. Anna Britt at 340 East Seventieth street, where she had been employed for several weeks as companion nurse to Mrs. Britt, who is in poor health.

James Britt, the son of the family, said he had suspected the girl's identity after seeing pictures of her in the newspapers, but had been unable to entrap her into making any confession as to her real name. She had obtained employment in his home, he declared, under the name of Bella Ross.

After being taken to the East Sixty-seventh street police station the girl was brought to police headquarters and thence to the children's court. At headquarters she said she was the adopted daughter of Frank Buehler, former proprietor of the Meyers hotel, who, she said, had left her a half interest in his estate of $150,000 on his death five years ago, which was held in trust for her by her foster mother, Mrs. Anna Buehler.

Made Trip to Find Man.

She further declared that she had come to New York "to find Jack Clune," a waiter formerly employed at the hotel, with whom she had corresponded at his address, 139 East Fifteenth street.

The first night she was in New York, she said, she had spent at the Stevens house, 27 Broadway. The following morning she answered an advertisement and got a position in the Britt home at a salary of $3 a week and board.

Mrs. Britt said she had been a model servant, well behaved, and attentive, and had not been out of the house later than 11 o'clock at night. It was a surprise to Mrs. Britt to learn that the girl had any friends in New York.

Police Watch Jack Clune.

Soon after the girl had been taken to the children's court from police headquarters, a young man appeared at the police station and announced he was Jack Clune. When the girl saw him she rushed forward and attempted to throw her arms about his neck. Detective Mulligan pushed the youth away.

"Who are you?" he demanded.

"I am a friend?" was the response.

"Keep you eye on this fellow, he may be wanted," ordered Mulligan to a court attendant.

Before Judge Olmstead the girl said she was in love with Clune and intended to marry him as soon as the pair had saved enough money. She admitted she had seen him on numerous occasions since coming to this city and had accompanied him to the theater and moving picture shows. Clune was permitted to leave court after the girl had been held on a charge of lacking proper guardianship.

Violet was remanded to the Children's society until next Saturday, by which time it is believed her foster mother will have arranged for her return to Chicago.

CONTEST IN CHICAGO LIKELY.

Now that Violet Buehler is being held in New York by the authorities and her foster-mother will start today for New York to reclaim the girl, a new problem has been presented to the state. Up to this time there has been no dispute regarding her possession, but now the Juvenile court will have to decide what shall be done with Violet.

The state thinks perhaps it would be better that Violet be placed in an institution as a ward of the court. Mrs. Buehler appears, but thinks she is entitled to be guardian of the recreant girl. A third contestant is Mrs. William Holzapfel, Violet's mother.

Mrs. Holzapfel says that as Mrs. Buehler never took out legal adoption papers for Violet, the girl should be allowed to reside at the Holzapfel residence, 1353 Sedgwick street.

In case the state does not decide to take charge of Violet, she will have to choose between Mrs. Holzapfel and Mrs. Buehler. The girl has expressed disinclination to have anything to do with either, and would prefer to stay in New York with her sweetheart.

Rich Woman Leading Dual Life to Aid Working Girls.

MISS ZELIA EMERSON

WOMAN PREFERS JAIL CELL

Miss Hogan Again Refuses to Testify in Robbery Case.

REJECTS OFFER OF LIBERTY.

Said to Be Liable to New Contempt Charge if Freed on Writ.

Miss Hazel Hogan certainly is "sot in her ways." She again refused yesterday to testify before Judge Lockwood Honoré and was taken back to jail, where she is serving an indeterminate sentence for contempt of court. Her action placed her in contempt again, and if her release is secured on a writ of habeas corpus she will be rearrested, it is said.

This is the thirteenth day Miss Hogan has occupied a cell in the county jail for refusing to testify.

Miss Hogan, who is 51 years old, was committed to jail when she declined to prosecute Dr. Irving Sisinger, James Hogan, Jerry Mack, and Curtin R. Young, who are charged with having robbed her of $1,756 on the night of July 18.

Still Defies Judge.

When Miss Hogan entered the courtroom during the day Judge Honoré tried to make it easy for her to change her mind.

"Swear the witness," he said as he walked to the table where her her counsel sat.

"I won't be sworn," came her answer, pert and peppery, and she settled determinedly in her chair.

The prisoner was taken into court on a motion to vacate the court's order filed by Attorney Ferdinand L. Barnett. The lawyer explained Miss Hogan was under indictment for larceny. She and some mortgages, it is said, disappeared a short time after the robbery. The lawyer asserted she feared she would incriminate herself if she testified against the four men.

"Don't Answer," Says Lawyer.

Judge Honoré held the motion in abeyance. Assistant State's Attorney Burnham asked that the witness be sworn.

Judge Honoré continued the case until Feb. 3.

ELGIN BOARD LIFTS BUTTER; PRICE HIGHEST IN 24 YEARS.

Boosts Product to 40 Cents—Holds Cold Weather Throughout Country Makes a Famine Imminent.

Elgin, Ill., Jan. 15.—A decision by junior members of the quotation committee of the Elgin butter board that "the market could easily sustain a 4 cent increase" was declared by Joseph Newman, pioneer Elgin butter man and member of the price committee, to be responsible for the 40 cent quotation returned by the committee this afternoon. This is the highest figure reached on the Elgin board in twenty-four years.

"The cold wave has made imminent a butter famine throughout the country," said Mr. Newman. "At the present price it is virtually impossible for farmers to manufacture butter at a profit. The storage supply will not become a factor this spring in keeping butter quotations down."

Mr. Newman predicted a further increase within two or three weeks. He intimated that today's figure was the outcome of heated altercation between junior and senior members, with the former in the majority.

'HIT HER TO SHOW I WAS BOSS,' SAYS LULU GLASER'S HUSBAND

Ralph Herz Denies Collusion in Actress' Suit for Divorce—Declares He Won't Live with Her.

Ralph C. Herz admitted to Judge McDonald in the Superior court yesterday that he had struck Lulu Glaser, his wife, who is an actress in musical comedies, and at the same time denied there was collusion between them in the suit for divorce she instituted. Judge McDonald seemed satisfied, but reserved decision in the case.

Mrs. Herz appeared before Judge McDonald and applied for a divorce, charging her husband beat her several times and choked her. Herz did not contest the suit and was quoted in newspapers as saying he did not contest for "chivalric reasons."

Herz Denies Collusion.

"Mr. Herz, I have summoned you to inquire as to your statements regarding this divorce suit," Judge McDonald said.

"It is true that I made a statement regarding the suit, but I did not mean to insinuate that collusion existed between us," Herz replied.

"What have you to say to the charges of cruelty which your wife made against you?"

"We were playing cards one day and she became angry when she got a bad hand. She said something to her mother, who was present, and just to show her I was master I hit her."

Will Not Live with Her.

In response to the court's question, Herz stated that he did not remember how many times he hit his wife.

"It is immaterial to me whether she gets her divorce or not," Herz added. "I will never live with her again. She once told me she loved another man."

He said he did not steal the money, but had showed a neighbor, Mrs. Bridget Darrow, where $337 was hidden, and that she had taken it to send her husband to Hot Springs for treatment, and given him $150.

Mrs. Darrow was sentenced to serve three months in the house of correction. Kraus was sent to the John Worthy school.

The maid said the jewelry had been taken by Charles E. Clark, her sweetheart, who disappeared during the day.

ENLISTED TO FORGET LOVE; ACCUSED OF STEALING TICKET.

Young Pittsburgher Connects Romance with Practice of Joining Army Merely to Get Railroad Transportation.

Romance was mixed with the disclosure yesterday of a wide practice of enlisting in the army merely to obtain transportation to other cities.

Arnold Fassinger of Pittsburgh was arraigned before Judge Landis in the United States District court, charged with embezzling a railroad ticket from Chicago to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and one meal, the total value being $6.65.

Sought to Drown His Love.

When Fassinger pleaded he sought to drown a love disappointment by joining the army, then obtained a job at St. Louis and decided he could "forget" outside of the army, the court continued the case for further investigation.

"Judge," pleaded Fassinger, "I left the home of my brother in Pittsburgh six weeks ago because my people objected to my marriage to a girl of different religious belief. I wanted to get away—to forget—so I joined the army in Chicago. When I got to St. Louis I saw an advertisement in a paper of a job for which I was suited. I did not think it was wrong not to report until I was arrested."

Nearly 200 Fail to Report.

Capt. D. F. Quinlan of Jefferson Barracks told Judge Landis that 177 men who enlisted at 808 South State street last year disappeared before they reached the army headquarters in Missouri.

"This is getting to be a serious matter," said the captain. "Every year the number of men who enlist solely for the purpose of obtaining free transportation to another city or to a warmer climate is increasing. The practice is costing the government a large sum each year. This annual loss would pay the cost of an entire regiment."

"A point has been reached where we will have to stop these persons who are running away with the appropriation which congress makes for the purpose of maintaining the army," said Judge Landis.

JUDGE HAS OIL WAGON PUZZLE.

Driver Arrested for Not Showing Light —Says "if I Did I'd Blow Up"—Decision Delayed.

Frank Bloom is a driver and doesn't profess to know much law, but he gave Judge Rooney an answer in the Englewood Municipal court yesterday that not only was a poser for the judge, but may bring about the amending of a city ordinance. Bloom had been arrested because his wagon did not carry a light. There was no question about his guilt; in fact, he admitted it.

"I wouldn't carry a light for $1,000 a day," he told the court. "If I did some fine night I'd blow up with a bang and probably kill half a dozen people. I work for the Standard Oil company. My wagon is an oil wagon. Half the time it's full of gasoline."

Judge Rooney postponed decision in the case. There is nothing in the ordinance exempting oil wagons from carrying lights, but nevertheless, the court did not feel justified in imposing a penalty.

RICH GIRL WORKS AS SCRUB WOMAN

Miss Zelia Emerson Starts Inquiry Into Ten Hour Law's Observance.

LOVEMAKERS SPOT HER.

Young Woman "Dishwasher" and "Clerk" Approached by Many Men.

For the last six weeks Miss Zelia Emerson, a wealthy young woman of Jackson, Mich., has been "clerking" in department stores, washing dishes in restaurants, and scrubbing floors for the purpose of ascertaining to what extent the ten hour law for women is being enforced in Chicago.

Two cooks, one a German and the other a Frenchman, made love so violently to Miss Emerson in a restaurant where she was washing dishes that she was compelled to quit.

She was the center of attraction among male employés of other places. Her social training cropped out even while she was scrubbing floors and doing kitchen duty. She was hounded for "dates." In one café an ambitious youth offered to take her to a nickel show.

Plays Detective on Law.

This is one chapter of the sociological work Miss Emerson mapped out to do when the law went into effect last July. She came to Chicago eighteen months ago, and at once allied herself with the Women's Trade Union league.

While Miss Emerson has found no glaring disregard for the ten hour law, she says that in a number of restaurants where she was employed scrub girls are required to work ten and a half, and sometimes eleven hours, a day in order to finish their tasks.

High Pressure Wears Nerves.

Miss Emerson intends to present an affidavit of her experiences to the Supreme court, before which the law is now on trial as to its constitutionality. She declares the high pressure under which women doing menial labor are compelled to work is nerve breaking. This condition exists, she says, among immigrant girls.

"From personal experience I can fully sanction the plea of women workers in hotels and restaurants for shorter hours," she said. "So great is the pressure that the ten hour day practically eliminates meal times and invariably covers about eleven hours.

Tired Girls Retire in Clothes.

"When the girls go off duty at the end of their day's work they are in an exhausted condition. Many frequently throw themselves on their beds, not even having enough energy to undress.

"My first experience was in a department store on State street. I got $6 a week. Then I got a job at another store at the same wages. When the holidays were over the manager offered me a permanent job.

"The worst experience I had was as a scrubwoman in a restaurant during the first days of the below zero weather. On one day I had to scrub the vestibule. The customers entered in a string and kept the door open almost constantly. I was half frozen when I got through.

"During the time several persons I knew entered. I kept my head low, for I was afraid some of them might recognize me. My hands were in a horrible condition. They cracked open and were so sore and stiff I could hardly open and shut them."

BABY "BOSS" OF 300 NURSES

Waif Ward of Chaplain Rules St. Luke's Hospital.

GETS THE TENDEREST CARE.

The Rev. G. G. Wright Plans to Adopt Abandoned Child.

A nameless boy baby is the new boss of the 300 odd nurses at St. Luke's hospital. He will continue to be for a year and if during that time he is afflicted with one of the ailments which infants are subject to, it will mean a lasting disgrace to the hospital staff. It will be a cleverly disguised germ which finds its way past the small army of the baby's guardians.

All this fuss is made because the baby is the temporary ward of the Rev. George G. Wright. For twelve years Mr. Wright has been chaplain at St. Luke's and a "father" to the large corps of nurses. Now they are to repay his little kindnesses by mothering this child. After waiting a year the chaplain may legally adopt the baby.

Leaves Baby at Hospital.

There are a lot of kicking, cooing babies at St. Luke's and all of them have names but this baby. He is given almost as many different endearments as there are nurses. He arrived at the hospital shortly before Thanksgiving. His mother left the hospital a few days later.

There was no father to provide for him and he was left behind. For a long time the chaplain has considered adopting a baby. He thought of doing so last year, but circumstances would not permit. But when he saw this good natured little waif the idea became stronger than ever. The chaplain was reluctant to discuss his plan.

Chaplain Talks of Children.

"I have wanted for a long time to adopt a baby boy," he said finally. "That it should be a child left at the hospital for adoption by its mother does not matter. That a child be healthy is all I ask. I think environment will overcome any faults a child may inherit.

"This baby is going to live here a year, and when the time has expired and I can do so I will adopt it. If I do not there is a doctor and his wife who are willing to take it. I suppose the nurses may have some interest in it because I have. For twelve years I have conducted daily services in the chapel here, and they know me well.

"I cannot say why I have made provision for this baby from among the many which are left here. There are so many that I sometimes am ashamed for man. But we always have more calls for babies than we can supply.

Boys Drug on Market.

"Girl babies go like hot cakes, but the boys are a drug on the market. I cannot explain this discrimination, unless it is that girls remain at home more and are a greater comfort."

The nurses guard this child as though he was their own. During his first year his food will be measured and given regularly. He will sleep in a room where the air is of the correct temperature; his bath will be just warm enough; he will be dressed properly, and every day he will be put on the scales, and the nurses will smile proudly every time the indicator goes up an ounce.

Twentieth Century Limited Strikes Laborer—He Rises and Walks Around Until Ambulance Comes.

On its way through Indiana Harbor yesterday the Lake Shore's eighteen hour New York flier, breezing along at fifty miles an hour, struck Peter Djukic, a shop laborer. Witnesses say it struck him with apparent fixity of purpose, fairly and squarely.

Djukic bounded several feet and with perfect disregard to the fact that, according to all precedent, he was dead, arose and felt indignantly of his left wrist.

Various friends who had seen the accident called an ambulance. It took Mr. Djukic to St. Margaret's hospital. The physicians examined his wrist and found it was broken. His other injuries were a few bruises.

CHILD MARRIED; JUDGE ROILED.

Parents of Fifteen Year Old Bride Turn Her Over to Court—Jurist Denounces Lax Officials.

She was in short dresses. Her name, she said, was Mrs. Marta Rosinsky, her age 15. When she arrived in the Juvenile court yesterday morning Judge Pinckney became incensed.

"The county officials issue marriage licenses altogether too laxly," he exclaimed. "A little precaution would save dozens of little girls like this from having their lives ruined. Any one who couldn't see that this child is no more than 15 years old ought to be reëducated."

Marta was granted a license and later married to John Rosinsky, 21 years old. When her parents learned of it they turned her over to the Juvenile court. The case was continued until Thursday.

PACKERS' BOOKS CONCEAL PROFITS

Jury Sees from Morris Accounts That Allowance for Hides Was Omitted.

UNIFIED ACTION SHOWN.

Figures Quoted from Ledgers Reveal Small Credits to By-Products.

Ledgers and journals of Morris & Co. and the testimony of the company's chief accountant, Harry A. Timmins, yesterday seemed to convince the jury in the "beef trust" prosecution that Morris & Co. omitted allowance for hides in the figured profits of the period from November, 1907, to April, 1909.

The government contends that the same policy was followed in this period by Armour & Co., Swift & Co., and the National Packing company, whose respective heads are under federal indictment. Various accounting officials are under subpœna and will be called as witnesses.

Large Profits Concealed.

By smothering the real value of hides the packers were enabled, the government charges, to conceal large profits from one of the most profitable of the byproducts. The present attempt, however, is simply to show a unified program without regard to accruing profits.

Timmins testified that while in November, 1908, the credits to hides reached only $153 in the company books, sales of hides amounted to $223,824. In December credits were $215 and sales $278,960. Similar variations were shown down to March, 1909, with $210 credits and $231,806 sales. Then came April with credits of $55,776 and sales of $112,834. It was in this month that credits were renewed and continued.

Occurred During Panic.

The government will attempt to obtain the margin books of Morris & Co., and through their entries show the result on the cost of beef by the discontinuance of the hides allowance. It is claimed the price was materially increased and without any reason save for the increase of profits, and this took place at the opening of the 1907-'8 panic, when foodstuffs were high.

COURT DETAINS CITY PACKERS.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Regrets that a previous engagement in Judge Carpenter's court precludes their participation in the annual convention and dinner were received today from the indicted Chicago beef trust magnates by the American Meat Packers' association.

J. Ogden Armour telegraphed: "I am very sorry that I will be unable to be with you today. I extend to you my compliments and best wishes."

T. J. Connors wired: "Regret very much that I am unable to be with you this week, but I am detained making explanations on why the packers' profits are so large."

Dinner Scheduled Tonight.

The dinner will be held tomorrow evening, but unless the Smiley Glads succeed in cheering up the Lugubrious Blues there will not be much appetite for the luscious steaks for which these dinners of the packers are famous. All this afternoon the rotunda of the Willard was filled with groups of packers from all parts of the country dolefully discussing the plight of their brethren in Chicago and speculating upon the probable smashup of the republic.

How anybody can be cheerful when he does not know whether he is restraining trade, monopolizing, robbing the farmer on one side and the ultimate consumer on the other, and otherwise violating the Sherman anti-trust law, is what the associated packers would like to know. "The uncertain interpretation of the law under which the ten packers are indicted leads to "retrenchment of capital and labor," says the report of the executive committee.

BAYONET RULES IN MILL CITY; STRIKERS FIGHT WITH TROOPS

Infantry and Artillery Called Out in Lawrence, Mass., Where 30,000 Operatives Are Out and Riotous.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 15.—Eight companies of state militia, including one field battery, commanded by Col. E. Lorey Sweetser, placed the mill district of this city under martial law tonight, after a day of rioting due to the strike of 15,000 operatives in the big cotton and woolen mills.

At least 15,000 other hands were thrown out of work by the stopping of machinery and the attacks on the mills by the strikers. In one instance a company of militia had to charge a mob with fixed bayonets, one boy being probably fatally hurt.

Although the strike was originally instituted in protest of a reduction in pay because of the operation of the new fifty-four hour law, making the working week two hours shorter, the strikers now declare that they will not return without a 15 per cent increase and other concessions, including double pay for overtime work and the abolition of the premium or bonus system.

Judge Mahoney of the local court held a session tonight when twenty-seven rioters were placed on trial and found guilty. Three were sentenced to two years in the house of correction, and the other twenty-four were given one year sentences.

FAMOUS BOSTON HOSTELRY, REVERE HOUSE, IN FLAMES.

Guests Flee in an Early Morning Fire Which Starts in Dining Room and Spreads Through Six Floors.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 16.—Boston's famous hostelry, the Revere house, in Bowdoin square, took fire shortly before 2 o'clock this morning. The fire started in the Grotto, a dining room on the street floor, and quickly spread up through the entire six stories. Many guests were carried down ladders by firemen and others rushed from the building through the smoke scantily clad.

PUTS BACK PART OF WARD.

Council Committee Acts Under Wrong Impression That Morgan Park Was "Disannexed."

Under the impression that Morgan Park had been "disannexed" from Chicago, the city council committee on elections yesterday voted to restore to the Thirty-second ward that section of it which was transferred to the Seventh ward by the recent redistricting ordinance.

Englewood residents urging the change based most of their arguments on statements that Judge Walker had invalidated the annexation of Morgan Park, which in the redistricting ordinance was made a part of the Thirty-second.

COUNCIL ORDERS 'TICK' PHONES OUT

said later in interviews that the statement was correct.

The predicted fight against the plan to pay for the first 200 voting machines of the election board's $1,000,000 contract materialized. The order directing the corporation counsel to confess judgment for $188,500 and to agree not to appeal was passed by a vote of 31 to 29. A similar fight against the proposed ordinance repealing the ordinance establishing rentals for subsidewalk space and its replacement by an ordinance charging only an initial inspection fee brought about the postponement of action for one week.

Mayor Harrison vetoed a number of increases in salary in the annual budget and brought about its repassage with a new provision of $53,000 for the purchase of three automobile fire engines. These Chief Seyferlich proposes to install in different sections as vehicles for "flying squads." One will be placed in the stockyards, another in the west side manufacturing district, and the third in the downtown district.

Mayor Cuts Salary Increases.

The "raises" disapproved by the mayor included that of the $1,200 telephone operator, Miss Nellie O'Connor. By a revision of salaries in this class the mayor placed her and three other operators on an even basis of $1,020 a year. The others had been receiving $900 and $960.

Protests against the renewal of the garbage contract of the Chicago Reduction company and a request of another company that it be allowed to bid for the contract were received.

CITY AND COUNTY UNITED TO REGULATE DANCE HALLS.

Minors Will Be Barred and Indecent Conduct Will Be Grounds for Closing Public Places.

Supervision of dance halls is to be a cooperative work of the probation department of the Juvenile court and the police department. Conferences have been held by President Peter Bartzen of the county board with Mayor Harrison and Chief of Police McWeeny.

President Bartzen, Chief Probation Officer Henry J. Lynch, and Assistant County Attorney Thomas J. Johnson made inspections Saturday night. They visited "Dreamland," a dance hall at Paulina and Van Buren streets, and reported conditions there as satisfactory.

Following are conditions which will cause the closing of dance halls, according to Assistant County Attorney Johnson:

Indecent dancing.
Men with arms around girls or women.
Girls or women sitting on men's laps.
Presence of girls under 16 or boys under 18 years old, unaccompanied by parent or guardian.
Intoxication.

Dance halls are held responsible for the delinquency of many children who become wards of the Juvenile court, and it is to reduce the evil that the chief probation officer has begun his crusade.

BLAME DEAD LABOR SLUGGER FOR $20,000 JEWELRY THEFT.

Attorneys for Three Accused Men Say They Will Show "Dutch" Gentleman Committed the Robbery.

The ghost of William "Dutch" Gentleman, slain labor slugger, was brought forth yesterday in an effort of three alleged robbers to prove that they did not steal diamonds worth $20,000 from Edward Alberti, Milwaukee avenue jeweler. Gentleman will be accused of the crime, announced counsel for Albert Humphrey, Martin Thorsen, and Eddie Snell, on trial before Judge McKinley.

Attorneys William Mittenhouse, Edward Maher, and Julius Kline said in their opening statement to the jury that they would show by testimony to be given by Thorsen and Richard Wilson, now awaiting trial in the county jail on a charge of burglary, that it was "Dutch" Gentleman and his slugging crew that committed the robbery.

TOO OLD FOR JOB; KILLS SELF.

Aged Watchman Loses Position—Hunts Weeks for Employment — Leaves Note: "Good Luck and Good-By."

Carl Rauppe, 1821 Sheffield avenue, killed himself in the rear of his home last evening by shooting himself while despondent over his failure to obtain employment. He was 70 years old and had been employed as a watchman until a few weeks ago, when he lost his position. In his pocket the police found a letter addressed to Coroner Hoffman, but refused to open it until the inquest this morning. Besides the address on the envelope were the words, "Good luck and good-by," written in German.

JUDGE BURKE GETS GAS CASE.

Suit by City to Restrain Corporation from Charging Over 75 Cents in New Court.

Corporation Counsel Sexton announced yesterday that the gas rate suit—brought by the city of Chicago to restrain the People's Gas Light and Coke company from violating the rate ordinance passed in July—had been transferred to the court of Judge Richard Burke.

TRACTION MEASURE UP AGAIN.

Revised Ordinance Authorizing Absorption of Southern Company Approved by Council Committee.

The ordinance authorizing the absorption of the Southern Traction company by the Chicago City Railway company was approved again yesterday by the city council committee on local transportation.

CHANGING HER FACE

Any woman not satisfied with her complexion can remove it and have a new one. The thin veil of stifling half-dead cuticle is an encumbrance and should be removed to give the fresh, vigorous young skin underneath a chance to show itself and to breathe.

There's a simple old-fashioned home remedy which will always do the work. Get an ounce of pure mercolized wax from your druggist and apply it at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. The mercolide will gently absorb all the lifeless skin and leave a healthy and beautiful complexion, as fresh as a child's. Naturally it takes with it all such facial blemishes as freckles, tan, moth patches, sallowness, liver spots, pimples, etc. It is pleasant to use, effective and economical. The face so treated immediately looks years younger.—Advt.

COUNTY TO PUSH COAL GRAFT SUITS

Prosecution of One Driver Continued Until Twenty Others Are Arraigned.

SNOW EXPECTED TODAY.

Boat Frees Itself of Ice Floe Off Chicago and Makes Harbor at Milwaukee.

Organized graft by coal dealers and delivery men whereby short weights have been imposed upon poor applicants to the county agent's office is to be prosecuted by the county attorney and county sealer. The case of Max Siegel, driver for the Columbia Coal company, was continued in Maxwell street court yesterday in order that Siegel may be tried with twenty others to be summoned. Drivers and companies are to be made party defendants.

Siegel resides at 560 West Twelfth street. He is said to have delivered 640 pounds of coal to Mrs. John Hruby, 1322 West Eighteenth place, on Jan. 11, when 1,000 pounds had been bought by the county for that charitable presentation.

Devastating floods are expected in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys early this spring as a result of the heavy general fall of snow this winter. If the spring thaw and rains come at the same time floods will be almost inevitable, according to Prof. H. J. Cox, head of the Chicago weather bureau.

Snow to Delay Warmth.

The widespread layer of snow over western North America, it is said, also will delay balmy temperatures for a while.

Increasing cloudiness is expected today, with probable light snow flurries, that may extend over Wednesday. With a promise of rising temperatures for the two days is a forecast of fairly heavy southerly winds. Two below zero at 7 yesterday morning and 9 above at 8:30 in the afternoon were the day's extremes.

Thick lake ice floes were driven far from shore during the day by westerly and southerly winds. The Manistee, imprisoned for a day a mile from the government pier, was able to make harbor at Milwaukee. All boats in the vicinity of Chicago now are free.

EXPOSES LAKE LEVEL BOGY

Engineer Wisner Answers Attack on Chicago Drainage Canal.

DECLARES IT NOT A MENACE.

Water Higher Now than It Was Before the Channel Was Opened.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Antagonism to Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan for carrying off its sewage in the sanitary canal boiled over unexpectedly today in the house committee on rivers and harbors.

A good many members of the committee manifested an inclination to blame Chicago for the lowering of the lake levels, to which Gen. Bixby, chief of engineers, recently called attention, the general suggesting at the same time the advisability of curtailing the sanitary district's use of the water.

Some of this opposition was removed, however, by the timely intervention of Engineer Wisner of the sanitary district, who absolved Chicago from the blame for lake conditions.

The committee was hearing a proposal to deepen the river at Oconto, Mich., which has a depth of only fourteen feet after being dredged sixteen feet below datum.

Blame on Chicago Resented.

The Wisconsin representatives said it would have been deeper had it not been for a falling of a foot in the level of Green bay and Lake Michigan. The charge that the diversion of water in the Chicago canal caused this lowering of the lake level was made immediately, and attention was called to Gen. Bixby's letter.

Congressman Gallagher of Chicago was defending the sanitary district against this accusation when Engineer Wisner entered the room. The congressman called upon Mr. Wisner for a statement.

The engineer told the committee the sanitary district's present diversion of 4,000 cubic feet of water a second had lowered the level of Lake Michigan not more than one inch, and that the additional 6,000 cubic feet which the district desires to use would send the level down less than two inches more.

Level of Lake Fluctuates.

In proof of the contention that the drainage of Chicago sewage is not to blame he cited the fact that the level of Lake Michigan was lower in 1885 and in 1895 than it is now, and that was before the sanitary canal was opened.

Mr. Wisner said scientists differed as to the cause of the lowering of lake levels, some attributing the phenomenon to fluctuations of precipitation and evaporation. In his opinion the deepening of the St. Clair and Detroit rivers is largely responsible for the present trend downward in Lakes Michigan and Superior.

This explanation closed the incident, but the whole question affecting Chicago's use of the water for drainage is destined to come up in congress either as a result of agitation by the navigation interests or of a formal request on the part of the sanitary district for the authority to divert an increased volume of water.

Son Will Administer Estate, One-Half of Which Is in Life Insurance.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The late Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan of the Supreme court of the United States left an estate of $13,000, of which $7,200 was in life insurance. Letters of administration today were granted to his son, Interstate Commerce Commissioner James S. Harlan.

PUBLIC TO HEAR TREATIES DEBATE

Senate Votes to Admit Outsiders in Spite of Protest from Lodge.

TAKES PATTERN BY TAFT

Members Claim That if President May Discuss Terms Unreservedly, So May They.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—Because President Taft set the example of discussing openly the pending arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France the senate today voted to admit the public to its debates and preserve them in the Congressional Record. Only eight senators of the sixty-six recorded were in favor of closed doors.

The controversy as to whether the discussion should be in open or closed session was almost entirely executive. It was brought to a head when Senator Rayner announced that it was his purpose to make a speech in relation to the treaties.

Senator Lodge protested. He said the delicacy of the entire subject of foreign relations demanded that discussion of it be executive. Rayner resisted the movement, but Senator Bacon, who was presiding, sustained a motion by Lodge, seconded by Senator McCumber, that the senate go into executive session.

Lodge Repeats Plea.

After the doors were closed the debate became general, Lodge reiterating that if the discussion were public things might be said of a charactr likely to embarrass the relations of the govenment with the European powers that are parties to the treaties.

Senator Smith of Michigan took the lead in demanding that the debate be open to the public. He wanted to know why it was that, if the foreign relations of the United States were of such delicate moment, officials of the state department should show less restraint than senators, and why President Taft felt free to go from one end of the country to the other discussing, as he saw fit, the treaties and the attitude of the senate concerning them.

Questions Barred Out.

Lodge called attention to his resolution enumerating some of the questions that were not to be regarded as within the scope of the treaty.

After the debate had raged for some time, chiefly between Lodge and McCumber on one side and Smith, Cummins, and Rayner on the other, a resolution providing for open sessions was offered by Senator Gallinger and was adopted, 58 to 8.

MOTHER SEEKS TO KILL BABY.

Brother of Husband Who Left Family Destitute Saves Infant's Life—Woman May Die.

Moved by hunger and cold, Mrs. Andrew Szuymanski attempted to kill the youngest of her five children, a 9 months' old baby, with a butcher knife yesterday in her home at Whiting, Ind. Her husband, a laborer, had left the family destitute while he went on a two weeks' spree.

Yesterday Szuymanski's brother visited the Szuymanski home. As he entered he saw the mother sitting in a chair holding her baby on her lap and with a large butcher knife in her hand.

"I am going to kill her before she starves," said Mrs. Szuymanski. The man leaped forward and snatched the baby from its mother's arms. The woman may die.

ALLEGED BRIBERS GIVE SELVES UP

Mont Tennes' Lieutenants, Accused of Trying to Corrupt Detective, Surrender.

WHEELER TAKES STAND.

Inspector, with Capt. Harding, Tells of Efforts to Regulate Vice.

George Murray and "Eph" Harding, lieutenants of Mont Tennes, accused of conspiracy, surrendered yesterday and were released on bonds of $1,000 each. The charge against them is that they negotiated with Detective J. J. Laughlin and paid $25 to get him to "let up" on the gamblers. Laughlin is a member of Assistant Chief Schuettler's gambling squad.

Both men declare they are innocent, and their friends insist the charge is a "frame-up" to make the civil service commission believe the gambling squad is taking no money to protect Chicago gamblers, as has been hinted several times by investigators.

"I never made any appointment with Laughlin, nor did I ever give him any telephone number to call up to talk over any meeting with 'Eph' Harding, as has been asserted," Murray said. "If the witnesses tell the truth I will be exonerated. I was out of the city on business for the general news service, of which Mr. Tennes is the head, and I came back to Chicago from Toledo, O., as soon as I heard there was a warrant out for me.

Wants Immediate Trial.

"Harding also was out of town for the same and he came back on receipt of the false information. We went before Judge Newcomer, had our bonds fixed by the court, and got our liberty. I am ready to go to trial on the case as soon as possible."

It developed last evening that an investigator for the city civil service commission, Howard Williams, got the $25 said to have been paid by Harding after Laughlin had arranged over the telephone to meet Harding in front of a downtown café. Murray is said to have approached Laughlin at the Harrison street station and immediately reported to the assistant chief, who in turn notified Supt. James Miles, head of the investigating bureau for the commission.

Williams donned Laughlin's clothing and was met by Harding. According to Williams Harding shook hands with him and left in Williams' hand a small envelope containing twenty and a five dollar bill. The envelope and the money now are locked up in the commission's safe.

Wheeler on Witness Stand.

Inspector Wheeler and Capt. Harding, on trial before the commission for alleged inefficiency and neglect of duty, testified in their own behalf yesterday. The chief feature was their denial that Chief McWeeny had given orders they should drive resorts off the line, as McWeeny testified he did.

Their fellow defendants, Lieut. Prim, Lieut. Kohler, and Lieut. Enright, will take the witness stand today, and it is expected the case will be concluded by tomorrow night.

Capt. Harding, who did not finish his testimony until 9 o'clock last night, declared he had conversation with the chief a week ago relative to his instructions concerning the general vice order regarding resorts on car lines. "I told the chief there had been a lot of talk about his instructions," the captain said, "and he said, 'What about it?' I said, 'Did you ever give me orders to move the old places off the street car lines?' and he said, 'No.' I asked him if he had ever given such orders to Inspector Wheeler, and he said he hadn't."

Chief's Initials Identified.

Prosecuting Attorney Wheelock presented a few typewritten lines with pen written initials. He showed the witness the initials and asked if they were not those of the chief of police.

"They look like his; I think they are," he said.

Wheelock did not read the typewriting on the paper and later declined to state what it was. Onlookers guessed the paper contained the chief's order relating to the car line resorts or his signed statement to the effect that he had given such an order.

Harding testified he had never been paid a cent of protection money, that all the property he had was his home, worth $9,300, with a $2,500 mortgage on it and that he had tried in every way possible to do faithful police duty during his twenty years of police service. He admitted that Maxim's, Freiberg's, Bostrom's, and other resorts in the south side were all bad, but declared he had done all he could to prevent them from violating police regulations.

Says He Has Obeyed Orders.

"I have carried out every order that was ever given to me by the chief of police," Inspector Wheeler declared. "If the chief ever said anything about driving all places of that character from street car lines, I never heard of it."

Dies in Flames When Comb Burns

NELLIE MCKENZIE

Nellie McKenzie, 8 years old, was left alone in her home at 2610 Calumet avenue, yesterday, and tried to make her own toilet. She stood too close to a grate fire while combing her hair with a celluloid comb, and the comb and her hair took fire. Her night clothes also were ignited, and her cries attracted a neighebor, Miss Margaret Fahey. Miss Fahey threw the child into a snowdrift and extinguished the flames, but Nellie died at the Mercy hospital last night. The mother was at work in a downtown department store when the accident occurred.

NEW BILL PLANS TO SEND THE GERMAN TAX DODGERS TO JAIL.

Liberals and Radicals to Steer Different Courses in Reballoting for Members of the Reichstag.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Tax dodgers in Prussia hereafter are threatened with a penitentiary term instead of a fine, according to the new income tax bill which was introduced at the opening session of the diet today.

A bill providing for permanent sur-taxes was adopted provisionally for three years, while another bill dealing with compulsory labor, to end the growing abuse of the pension poor laws by persons who refuse to work, was announced.

The Liberals and Radicals are now tending to steer different courses in the reballoting for members of the reichstag. The Radicals are still planning to coöperate with the Socialists against the Conservatives and Centrists, but the Liberals, hating the Socialists more than they do their old enemies of the Right Bloc, have declared against the Socialists. Other reballots are expected not only to cut the Socialists' gains, but to result in coöperation in the reichstag which will give the government its desired majority.

CHINESE PREMIER TARGET FOR BOMB

Report of Massacre by Rebels in Shen-Si and Shan-Si Is Confirmed.

IMPERIAL TROOPS NO AID.

Continue Discussion of Emperor's Abdication, but No Decision Is Reached.

BULLETIN.

PEKING, Jan. 16.—A bomb was thrown at Premier Yuan Shi Kai's carriage this morning. Two soldiers and the horses attached to the carriage were killed.

PEKING, China, Jan. 15.—The reported massacre of 10,000 Manchus by rebels in the Shen-Si district is confirmed.

The provinces of Shen-Si and Shan-Si have been hotbeds of the revolution for some months. On Dec. 8 news was received that 8,000 Manchus had been slain in the province up to that date. A column of imperialist troops has been operating in the district to suppress the rebellion, but the slaughter of Manchus has continued steadily.

Conditions in the interior of China are graphically described in an interview with Adolph Herman, who went to Taiyuan-Fu to rescue women and children of the China inland mission.

"The impression I got from the rebels was far from favorable," he said. "There was no responsible head, and some twenty men in various kinds of uniforms had possession of the railroad station at Ching Hsing-Hsien. On showing my passport and papers from the United States legation written in Chinese, I was escorted to the commander near by. This officer had several hundred soldiers, with no two uniforms alike and various kinds of rifles.

Fighting Delays Relief Party.

"The city of Taiyuan-Fu showed row after row of empty stores in the best business quarters. On reaching the officials' quarters we were informed that a party of twenty-one foreigners, mostly women, was soon due. We went to Yang Chuan to meet them and were delayed for four days there on account of fighting.

"On the night of Dec. 10 a train with twenty wounded passed through to Taiyuan-Fu, and during the night 500 cavalrymen entrained without horses and went out to the scene of the fighting.

"On the next afternoon a general retreat began. The first train contained Gen. Yao, commander at Nian-Tsu-Kwan, who had with him about 400 men. Then other train loads, containing in all about 2,000 troops, passed in succession."

Emperor Still Is Ruler.

Discussion regarding the question of the abdication of the emperor continues, but up to this evening has not resulted in any decision. The court is unable to reconcile the conflicting advice of the different factions.

Capt. Sowerby's relief party has brought in to the city of Ho-Nan nineteen English Baptist missionaries and thirteen Swedish missionaries from Sian-Fu.

ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP PRINCE FROM CARE OF HIS MOTHER.

Effort Made by Relatives of Father to Gain Possession of Don Jaime, the Spanish Pretender.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

VIAREGGIO, Italy, Jan. 15.—An attempt was made here today to kidnap the 9 year old son of the late Prince Frederic of Schoenburg-Waldenburg.

The boy has been living here with his mother, Princess Alice of Bourbon, a sister of Don Jaime, pretender to the throne of Spain. The princess divorced her husband several years ago and afterward married Lieut. Delprete of the Italian army.

When the boy was missed from his mother's villa a search was inaugurated. In the evening the searchers came upon the little prince on a lonely road near the town of Pietrasanta.

The princess attributed the attempt to kidnap her son to the members of the family of his father.

KING DEFENDS HIS CLEMENCY

Alfonso Tells Why He Commuted Death Sentence of Chato.

SEQUEL OF MENTAL STRIFE.

Declares His Mercy Brought the Happiest Moment of His Life.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MADRID, Jan. 15.—King Alfonso today authorized a friend to give to the newspaper correspondents his version of the commuting of the sentence of Chato, or Corral, the leader of the gang in Cullera who killed Judge Lopez Rueda and Chief of Police Dols. It was because of the king's act in commuting the sentence that Premier Canalejas and the Spanish cabinet resigned yesterday.

"These last few days have been the saddest and most difficult of my life," said the king. "I have been struggling between the two questions of letting the law be exactly fulfilled or exercising the royal clemency by granting amnesty to the entire band of murderers.

Tells of Mental Struggle.

"During the whole of Saturday and Sunday the mental struggle was terrible. Neither the queen nor myself could think of anything but the wretched man who had been sentenced to expiate on Monday the consequences of his deeds which had brought him within the law. I had seen the faces of his mother and brother in the weekly illustrated newspapers and the memory of them produced a terrible impression upon me."

The king is said to have had numerous conferences with various persons who had given him conflicting advice. Some of those to whom he talked contended that the character of Chato's crime made a pardon impossible.

Clemency Gives Queen Joy.

Speaking of this phase of the matter the king said:

"My sadness and anxiety were constantly increased. Every time the queen spoke to me she encouraged me to show clemency and exercise the royal prerogative in the interests of mercy. The only thing that made me hesitate was a fear that certain politicians would consider that I had pardoned the prisoner contrary to my duty as a constitutional monarch.

"These doubts were finally dissipated by persons entirely removed from the realm of politics. Great was the joy of the queen when I told her I had decided to grant the commutation. It was one of the happiest moments of my existence."

All of the republican papers print long articles today thanking the king for his act and saying it shows the goodness of his heart.

SIR HERBERT TREE IN VARIETY; TO GIVE UP LEGITIMATE STAGE

Move of Titled Actor Shocks London—May Lose Chairmanship of the Managers' Association.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The theatrical world here is surprised and excited by the determination of Sir Herbert Tree to begin a music hall engagement on Jan. 21, when he will play "The Man Who Was," a dramatization of Rudyard Kipling's story.

Sir Herbert Tree will be the first titled actor to appear on the variety stage, and it is said that his colleagues, Sir George Alexander and Sir John Hare, regard the new departure as beneath the dignity of a member of the nobility. Moreover, Sir Herbert Tree is chairman of the Theatrical Managers' association, which heretofore has opposed the competition of the variety halls with the legitimate theater. Sir Herbert, in fact, led the movement.

Sir Herbert Tree justifies his change of opinion by the recent action of the lord chamberlain in legalizing the production of sketches at the variety halls.

It is freely predicted that Sir Herbert Tree's colleagues will show their resentment at his action by deposing him from the chairmanship of the Theatrical Managers' association.

MORROW WIDOW HELD IN BIG BAIL

Court Increases Bonds to $40,000 in Holding Woman to Grand Jury.

FAILS TO GO ON STAND.

Accused Slayer Insists She Could Have Convinced Court of Innocence.

Municipal Judge Fake yesterday sustained the state's charge of murder against Mrs. Rena B. Morrow and bound her over to the grand jury in the sum of $40,000, an increase of $15,000 over her surety pending the outcome of her preliminary hearing.

The woman appeared less interested than her attorney, Charles E. Erbstein, who made a pathetic plea to save her from the county jail until he had exhausted all efforts to secure a bond. The court said she could remain at the Hyde Park police station until 10 o'clock this morning. If the bond is not forthcoming then she must go to the identification bureau to be photographed and measured.

Suicide Theory Fought.

The charge grows out of the death of her husband, Charles B. Morrow, an inventor, whose body containing two bullet wounds was found on the rear porch of their residence at 4545 Michigan avenue, Dec. 28 last. At an inquest the same day a verdict of suicide was returned. Mrs. Morrow was the most important witness. Despondency was the alleged motive.

Mrs. Morrow's story of the alleged despondency of her husband was credited until the state's testimony revealed the fact that she and her husband had a violent quarrel just before the shots were fired on the night before the discovery of the body.

The state's medical experts contended it would have been next to impossible for Morrow to have held the weapon in his right hand while he fired the shot into his left breast.

Wanted to Go on Stand.

The court reviewed all the testimony and said the circumstances compelled him to hold the defendant on an increased bond. Lorenzo J. Lamson, the former surety, declined to renew his bond and the defendant was still trying to negotiate with a professional bondsman at a late hour last night.

"I am sorry I was compelled to follow the advice of my attorney and remain off the stand," commented the prisoner after being taken back to a cell. "I know I could have convinced the court. I know nothing about the manner of Mr. Morrow's death."

LORIMER TELLS OF PLOT AND TREASON

DENIES HINES GAVE AID.

Browne's Admission of Support Also Held to Be False by Witness.

He said Senator Glackin promised to vote for him, but failed to do so on account of "timidity." Yet Mr. Glackin, according to his statement, worked side by side with him in the stockyards.

It was apparent also that Mr. Lorimer gave no consideration to the will of the people. Senator Kern questioned him about the action of Chicago members in voting for him at the instance of Col. Dewey and Col. Thompson. The witness said it would be egotistical for him to say that the people of those districts were for him in preference to Hopkins.

"I never consulted them about it," he declared, "and I cannot say."

He told how he and Roger Sullivan were warm friends and that this was known by Democratic campaign officers, and how many of the Democratic precinct and ward committeemen supported him when he needed it.

Admits Playing Dual Deal.

He did not seek to hide the fact that he is a bipartisanite and has constantly profited by the dual game he has played.

Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Busse fell into Mr. Lorimer's bad graces when they "double crossed" him in the gubernatorial primary election. Hopkins told him, he said, he was opposed to Deneen, and willing to back another man for the governorship. Busse, he said, likewise expressed opposition to Deneen and suggested Yates as a candidate, and promised a contribution of $2,500 to the Yates campaign.

To Lorimer's astonishment, as told by himself, he discovered Hopkins and Busse were favoring Deneen as against Yates. He never forgave Hopkins and obtained revenge by succeeding him in the senate.

Busse's Waterloo apparently is still to come, though Lorimer did not hint today at anything of the kind.

Testimony Given by Lorimer.

When Senator Lorimer resumed his testimony this morning he took up his explanation of why he received each vote in the senatorial election under the questioning of his counsel, Elbridge Hanecy.

MR. HANECY—Why did Representative Lederer vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER — Representative Lederer is associated politically with the same element I am associated with, and he is a Republican and a warm, personal friend of mine. He is also a warm, personal friend of E. J. Magerstadt, one of my best friends. I am confident Mr. Lederer would have voted for any Republican before the general assembly, and I konw he would have voted for McKinley or Lowden or Rodenberg.

MR. HANECY—Why did John A. Logan vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—John A. Logan was ready to vote for any Republican at any time he thought a Republican could be elected. Judge Baldwin asked him to vote for me, and my recollection is that he told Judge Baldwin that if I was a candidate he would vote for me.

Luke Wanted to Beat Hopkins.

MR. HANECY—Why did Charles S. Luke vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—Charles S. Luke was much opposed to Senator Hopkins. He told me on several occasions that Senator Hopkins, in making campaigns down through his district, had gone out of his way to abuse him personally in the speeches he made. I do not know which of the two, Aischuler or Luke, was the more opposed to Senator Hopkins. It was a bitter antagonism to Hopkins on the part of Luke.

MR. HANECY—Why did Representative MacLean vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—MacLean was a Republican. I became pretty well acquainted with him during the session of the general assembly. I do not know I had met him before. He said he knew me and he got the impression, in the beginning, that Gov. Deneen and his friends and my friends were patching up our differences and were trying to harmonize the party, and, in addition to that, Peter Hoffman, a coroner of Cook county, is a close political friend of MacLean, and he talked with MacLean, and through the influence of Hoffman and his friends and the understanding that he had that it was an effort to harmonize the party, and the acquaintanceship that grew up between him and me during the general assembly, he voted for me.

McCollum Won by McConnell.

MR. HANECY—Why did McCollum vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—He seemed to be a warm personal friend of George McConnell, who lived in the congressional district which I represented, and who was a great personal friend. Unless he voted on account of his friendship for me, through McConnell and McLaughlin, I do not know why he voted for me.

MR. HANECY—Why did McConnell vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—We have been friends for years, and lived in the same congressional district.

MR. HANECY—Why did Representative McGuire vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—He was friendly to a great many of my friends in Chicago. I cannot give you any other reason, judge.

MR. HANECY—Why did John McLaughlin vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—We live in the same congressional district, and I think he has voted for me every time I ran for congress in that district. We were always close personal friends.

Did Not Support McLaughlin.

SENATOR KERN—Did you vote for this man McLaughlin.

SENATOR LORIMER—No, I did not. In our senatorial district the Democrats nominate one and the Republicans nominate two, but McLaughlin was always elected, without anybody's support. All he needed was the nomination. I do not know what I might have done if McLaughlin had been a candidate in need of help.

MR. HANECY—Why did McMackin vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—All of McMackin's friends are my friends, in his senatorial district. That is to say, the leading men—Frank Noleman and Republicans in the party down there were for me, and I knew McMackin and he voted for me on account of his friends and on account of his friendship for me.

MR. HANECY—Why did Frank McNichols vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—Frank's father and I have been friends for I do not know how many years; his family and my family are friendly. I have known Frank since he was a baby. I think he would have voted for me under any condition, even if the ward organization of his district was opposed to me.

MR. HANECY—Why did Morris vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—Morris lives in Springfield. He is a Democrat. I have a great many friends in Springfield who are friendly to Morris, and I know that during the deadlock they talked with Morris and he voted for me on that account.

Murphy an Old Friend.

MR. HANECY—Why did Edward J. Murphy vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—He lives on the south side in the old congressional district in which I used to live and all of his friends were friends of mine.

MR. HANECY—Why did Mr. D. F. Murray vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have known Mr. Murray for years, I do not know how long. I do not recall when I got acquainted with him; it is so long. We were always friendly.

MR. HANECY—Why did Thomas J. O'Brien vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—He is a Democrat and I have known him for a long while. He would have voted for me. He would have voted for Mr. Shurtleff. He personally told me he would vote for Mr. Shurtleff.

MR. HANECY—Why did John O'Neil vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have known John for twenty-five years or more. He voted for me on account of the friendship existing between us and because John M. Smyth, whom he looked up to more than any man in Chicago, asked him to vote for me.

MR. HANECY—Why did Frank Parker vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—Parker was opposed to Hopkins. He was a Republican. We were always good friends. He was more friendly to Speaker Shurtleff—more than anybody I know of; he would have voted for any one except Hopkins to break the deadlock.

Pierson Won by Hoffman.

MR. HANECY—Why did Louis J. Pierson vote for you.

SENATOR LORIMER—I have known him for quite a while and I talked with him about my candidacy. Mr. Peter Hoffman talked with him and he told me, I am sure, after that, that he would vote for me.

MR. HANECY—Why did John Poulton vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—All of Poulton's friends are my friends. I think John voted for me without anybody urging him to.

MR. HANECY—Why did Arwin Price vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—He lived in Senator Hopkins' district, and he was much opposed to Senator Hopkins.

MR. HANECY—Why did Thomas H. Riley vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—It was on account of my friendship and on account of my interest in the lakes-to-gulf waterway that Mr. Riley was interested in me. He would have voted for me at any time.

MR. HANECY—Why did Charles Schumaker vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—We lived in the same senatorial district, and were personal friends. Our ward organization always helped him and, of course, always helped me.

MR. HANECY—Why did David E. Shanahan vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—We have been friends for a great many years, and the ward of the district that he lives in was made up exclusively of my personal and political friends. He is friendly to me—one of the best political friends I have.

Explains Vote of Shephard.

MR. HANECY—Why did Henry A. Shephard vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I met Mr. Shephard the first time that I recall, here in Washington, on the night we organized an association among the members of congress for the lakes to the gulf waterway. I got acquainted with him there, and he became a warm friend of mine, and so expressed himself about as often as I met him. I know that it was on account of that acquaintance and friendship that grew up from that time that he voted for me.

MR. HANECY—What talk did you have with him about the postoffice or the postmaster in his town, briefly?

SENATOR LORIMER—The day I was elected he came out into the speaker's room and told me he would like to vote for me and that he would like to see me elected senator; but he said the postmaster and the assistant postmaster in his town had treated him badly and denounced him personally, both in politics and in business, and injured him and his family, and that he could not vote for anybody that would retain them in office. I told him he did not need to worry about that; they had been as abusive to my friends as they were to him and his family, and if I was elected senator—it did not make any difference whether he voted for me or not—but if I could prevent it, neither of them would be appointed postmaster of that town.

Granted Shephard Wish Later.

MR. HANECY—Did you make him any promise, or make any agreement, or have an understanding with him, by which he was to control the postmaster; the new men who should go there, at any time?

SENATOR LORIMER—I had no understanding or agreement with him at that time. Some time later he came to me and told me there was a Republican, I think he said, who had been postmaster of that town, and he said, saved his life once, who would like to have the place; and he asked me to recommend him for the place, and I did.

SENATOR KERN—What was said by Mr. Shephard to you, as you remember it, when he came to you in the speaker's room there, about the postoffice and his vote for senator? How did he connect the two subjects together, if at all?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have just stated here, senator, what he said—that he would like to see me elected and that he was friendly to me, but that he could not vote for anybody that would permit those men to hold office, or reappoint either one of those men—either the postmaster himself or the assistant postmaster—to the office of postmaster of that town.

Denies Making Any Pledge.

SENATOR KERN—Did he say he would vote for you, providing you would make that agreement with him?

SENATOR LORIMER—My recollection is that he did not say he would vote for me at all; yet he may have, but there was no agreement, because I told Mr. Shephard that if I was elected senator, for the reason that those men had been abusive to my friends, had abused Gov. Yates in the campaign of 1908, I would not let them get the place; and it did not make any difference whether Mr. Shephard voted for me or not, I would never agree to the appointment of either one of those men.

SENATOR KERN—Mr. Shephard testified that Mr. Browne went with him to the door and started to introduce him to you, and that you said, "I have met Mr. Shephard before; I have met him in Washington." You have no recollection of that conversation?

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not recollect that Mr. Browne was with him.

SENATOR KERN—Did you have a conversation with Shephard—whether you said that you would have a share of patronage of Illinois, and that you thought there was no doubt that you could prevent the appointment of that man to the postoffice?

Refers to Shurtleff Vote.

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not know whether I stated, senator, that I would have a share of patronage, or not. I have no doubt I said I could prevent his appointment. I think though that I had in mind that if I was elected senator I would have a share of the patronage in Illinois.

MR. HANECY—Why did Edward D. Shurtleff vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have known Mr. Shurtleff since he was elected to the legislature the first time. I think that was in 1902. I have known of him for a great deal longer period, because his friends and my friends have always been active in politics in Illinois and always worked together. In the campaign of 1903 for the election of Hopkins Shurtleff was associated with the men that were trying to elect Mr. Hopkins, and was one of the most active men for Mr. Hopkins. I did not meet Mr. Shurtleff much after that and was not intimate with him until I met him in Springfield, when we were urging the legislature to submit the constitutional amendment for the $20,000,000 bond issue to the people. Then he and I became fast friends and have been from that time on. That was the reason—well, he was opposed to Senator Hopkins.

Doubt Over Shurtleff Stand.

SENATOR KERN—He would not have voted for Senator Hopkins under any circumstances, would he?

SENATOR LORIMER—Senator, I never have been able to satisfy myself whether he would or not. I do not know whether Shurtleff would have voted for Hopkins at the close of the legislature if no other Republican had been elected or not.

SENATOR KERN—He having received the support of about fifty Democrats for speaker, do you not think that rather than see Hopkins elected he would have voted for some reliable, liberal Democrat?

SENATOR LORIMER—If you ask me what I think about it——

SENATOR KERN—That is what you have been telling us throughout this whole list—what you thought about why people voted for you.

SENATOR LORIMER—O, no, I have not. I have not been doing anything of the kind. I have been telling you what I know.

SENATOR KERN—You could not know the operations of another man's mind.

Talks from Personal Knowledge.

SENATOR LORIMER—No, except as he would express it to me. That is about the only way we ever can know what is running in a man's mind. These men that I have talked about here expressed their views to me. Now, you ask me what I think about what Mr. Shurtleff would have done. Of course I cannot tell you what he would have done, but I do not think he would have voted to elect the Democrat that you have described.

SENATOR KERN—I will ask you the same question generally about these other Republicans who you have said would never vote for Hopkins under any circumstances. Do you think any of them would have voted for any Democrat under any circumstances?

SENATOR LORIMER—I cannot say what Mr. Price or Mr. Bush or Mr. Church would have done, but my opinion is that neither one of them would have voted for a Democrat, because the legislature was largely Republican and it was possible to elect a Republican. The remainder of the men I have referred to, Republicans, I do not think would have voted for a Democrat.

SENATOR KERN—You do not think there was a Republican in the legislature, then, who would have voted for a Democrat under any circumstances in order to defeat Senator Hopkins?

SENATOR LORIMER—That is my impression—under the circumstances of that session. That is, having a large Republican majority, I do not think they would have voted for a Democrat.

Smejkal a Personal Friend.

MR. HANECY—Why did Edward J. Smejkal vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—Mr. Smejkal and I are personally friendly. On account of the close relationship he voted for me. He was a Republican.

MR. HANECY—Why did Oliver Sollitt vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have known Oliver Sollitt for a great many years. I think the principal reason, however, that he voted for me was because he was opposed to Senator Hopkins, because he had the impression that Gov. Deneen was friendly to my candidacy and because John R. Thompson, the committeeman from the ward that he lives in, urged him to vote for me.

SENATOR KERN—Did you request him to vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not think I ever requested him to vote for me, senator. I think likely I talked with him about the situation, and I told him what the conditions were as I saw them, and I likely asked him if he would vote for me if I was to be elected with Democratic votes, because every Republican whom I talked with about voting for me I told that I could not be elected without Democratic votes, and asked him if he would vote for me if I was to be elected by Democratic votes.

Need for Democratic Votes.

MR. HANECY—Why did you think you could not be elected without Democratic votes at that time?

SENATOR LORIMER—I knew there were Republicans in the legislature—I do not know just how many, but, for instance, the friends of Frank Smith—were for Senator Hopkins all the time, and the friends of Senator Gardner and Senator Pemberton and the friends of Postmaster Campbell and Mr. Busse and the friends of Mr. Pease—I knew that those men would never vote to elect me, while a considerable number of the members themselves preferred me to Hopkins or to a great many other men who were suggested, but on account of the way the leaders of their territory felt about it, they would not vote for me.

SENATOR KERN—Do you mean to say that those leaders had such a strangle hold on these members that they did not dare to vote their honest sentiment?

SENATOR LORIMER—No; I do not think anybody had any strangle hold on any member of the legislature; but I know that Mayor Busse and Mr. Pease and Mr. Smith and Mr. Gardner had a great deal of influence. I know that these members of the legislature were under obligations to all these leaders, for the help that they had given them in their campaigns. There was no strangle hold about that. That was just a matter of plain, ordinary, common, every day friendship and loyalty to friends. That is all there was to it.

Legislators Wanted Him.

SENATOR KERN—Were the voters of their district for you or for Senator Hopkins?

SENATOR LORIMER—It would be egotistical on my part, I think, to say that the people of their districts were for me in preference to Senator Hopkins. I never consulted them about it and I cannot say.

SENATOR KERN—The voters were the ones to whom they were under obligations for support?

SENATOR LORIMER—O, yes. That is the way the men talk who reach the clouds, you know, when they are making that kind of a speech—that the voters are the men that they are responsible to. Of course, they are; but voters are human beings.

SENATOR KERN—If they have not independent judgments and are not to be considered in a free government on the question of influencing their representatives, they do not count much in the game?

Gives Views on "Influence."

SENATOR LORIMER—That may be the way that it strikes you, senator, but my friends have a great deal of influence with me, and men that help me in the world have a great deal of influence with me, and they can frequently get me to do things that if I were left to myself I would not do. Sometimes I agree to help men whom I know are personally antagonistic to me, because some personal, warm friend of mine asks me to do it. I do not think that I am owned body and soul by the men that influence me just because I sometimes do things that, if I were left to myself, I would not do.

SENATOR KERN—I understood you to convey the idea to the committee that, in your judgment, the people of that district would be for you, the voters, and that the men themselves were for you, and yet, on account of the influence of these two or three leaders, they would not vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—If I conveyed that idea to the committee, I did not intend to do so.

SENATOR KERN—Do you intend to convey the idea that the men themselves would have voted for you if let alone?

SENATOR LORIMER—I intend to convey this idea: That if Mr. Busse had not told Mr. Erby and Mr. Hope and Mr. Nelson he wanted them to vote for Senator Hopkins to the end, these three men would have voted for me.

Staymates Won by Waterway.

SENATOR KERN—Then it was on account of influence of Mr. Busse that the men were voting against their individual judgment?

SENATOR LORIMER—It was on account of their friendship for Mr. Busse that they continued voting for Mr. Hopkins.

MR. HANECY—Why did Representative Staymates vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—Mr. Staymates was a Democrat. He was much interested in the waterway.

MR. HANECY—Why did Stearns vote for you?

MR. LORIMER—Mr. Stearns is a Republican and he lives in the district that Mr. Shurtleff represented. He is a warm, personal friend of Mr. Shurtleff and he was a warm friend of mine. He was opposed to Mr. Hopkins.

MR. HANECY—Why did Mr. P. J. Sullivan vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have known Sullivan for a great many years, and his friends and my friends are friendly. I have helped his friends on a number of occasions, and he always seemed to appreciate it as much or more than if I helped him.

Tells Favor to Sullivan.

SENATOR JONES—What has been his particular business since you have known him?

SENATOR LORIMER—My impression is he has held political positions at different times.

SENATOR KERN—What sort of political position did you ever know him to hold?

SENATOR LORIMER—I would not say that I knew the particular position he held.

SENATOR KERN—What favor did you render Sullivan?

SENATOR LORIMER—Sullivan and Werdell and Cermak was interested in securing a place for John Walsh, who was a member of the general assembly four or five or six years ago. I have forgotten just how long ago it was. I got him a place in the office of clerk of the Circuit court.

SENATOR KERN—Walsh was an active Democratic politician there?

SENATOR LORIMER—Walsh has always been active so long as I have known him. I do not recall just how long that is.

Says Clerk Did Not Object.

SENATOR KERN—Did the Circuit court clerk make any objection to the appointment of an active Democratic worker in his office when there were so many loyal, active Republicans who desired the place?

SENATOR LORIMER—He did not object to appointing him. There are a great many Democrats appointed by Republican officials in Cook county and in Illinois. It is not a strange thing to have a Republican working under a Democratic official, or a Democrat working under a Republican official, even if the official may have the power of removing him whenever he wanted to.

SENATOR KERN—Does it not create some dissatisfaction among the workers of the parties—for instance, among the workers of the Republican party—to see an active Democratic worker take a place which a Republican would like to have?

SENATOR LORIMER—I did not recollect just now any particular case, but I do think I have heard complaints from Republicans about Democrats holding office under Republican administrations, and from Democrats about Republicans holding office under Democratic administrations. Joe Bidwill would have appointed anybody I recommended to him who was capable of filling the place in the office, if he had a vacancy.

SENATOR KERN—It was only because they could not elect a Democrat that he was willing to send a Republican to the senate, so that the Republicans would have another vote in the senate on political questions?

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not know what he thought about it, but I know it was because they could not elect a Democrat that he was willing to vote for some Republican to whom he was friendly, and he would have voted for Mr. Shurtleff as he voted for me. You suggest that he wanted a Republican in the senate. He would not have voted for just any Republican for United States senator, in my opinion, and he was not anxious to get a Republican in the senate.

SENATOR KERN—He doubtless thought it was better to have two Republican senators to vote against his principles than to have one?

SENATOR LORIMER—No. I would not undertake to say what he thought about that, but he knew he could not help elect a Democrat, that there was no chance to elect a Democrat, and he would rather have me in the senate than to go home without electing a senator, and when I was a candidate he voted for me because he and I were friendly. Now, so far as I am concerned, I do not see any great difference, under those conditions, between a Democrat voting for me and all the way from two to three or four or five thousand Democrats voting for me when I was elected to congress. I do not think there ever has been a time when I was elected to congress that I have not received more than two or three thousand Democratic votes.

Democratic Workers Aided Him.

SENATOR KERN—And did you have the support of Democratic ward workers to a large extent?

SENATOR LORIMER—In every campaign some of the ward workers in the Democratic party were for me; not all.

SENATOR KERN—Were there not enough Democratic ward workers to see to it that the election boards were friendly to you in a great many of the voting precincts?

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not think any ward worker there had my candidacy in mind when judges and clerks of election were appointed.

SENATOR KERN—Is it true that any Democratic leader—I mean local leader in Chicago—ever tacitly or directly supported your candidacy for congress?

SENATOR LORIMER—Every man who works at his precinct in Chicago is a leader. A great many of those might have helped me.

SENATOR KERN—A ward, or district, or county leader?

SENATOR LORIMER—Yes.

SENATOR KERN—Or state leader?

SENATOR LORIMER—Yes. Ward leaders have helped me. John McLaughlin, who voted for me for senator, is, I think, a member of the Democratic county central committee.

Sullivan Never an Opponent.

SENATOR KERN—Was Roger Sullivan antagonistic to you in all your campaigns?

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not think Mr. Sullivan ever said an unkind word about me in his life, and I do not think he ever did anything to prevent my election to congress, and I do not think he ever asked a man in my congressional district to help me.

SENATOR KERN—But his feelings toward you were pretty well known throughout the district, were they not?

SENATOR LORIMER—It is well known in Chicago that Mr. Sullivan and I have been friends almost ever since he came to Chicago.

SENATOR KERN—How about ex-Mayor Hopkins?

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not know whether ex-Mayor Hopkins is friendly to me or not. He lives in a different part of the city than I live in. I am well acquainted with him.

Says He Fought Hopkins.

SENATOR KERN — He is an intimate friend of Roger Sullivan, is he not?

SENATOR LORIMER—He is. I think I devoted more hours and stayed up more hours trying to defeat Hopkins for mayor than any other man in Chicago, including George Swift, who was the candidate against him.

SENATOR KERN—How about Mr. McCarthy, the lay chairman of the city committee or county committee?

SENATOR LORIMER—Senator McCarthy is one of the few leading Democrats of Chicago that I am not and never was very well acquainted with.

SENATOR KERN—Did the Democratic organization in Cook county, as a rule, fight you very severely in your congressional races.

SENATOR LORIMER—At one time, senator, they fought me to the extent of defeating me. John A. White was the only Democrat that I ever ran against that did not either work for me in some campaign or vote for me.

MR. HANECY—Why did Mr. Troyer vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER — All his friends were for me, and his ward organization, and he and I have been friendly for a long time.

"Little Favors" for Walsh.

MR. HANECY—Why did John P. Walsh vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have known John for a long time, and he and I have been friendly. On different occasions I have done little favors for him and out of that grew a friendship that made him feel kindly toward me, and when I was a candidate he voted for me.

SENATOR KERN—Was the man you referred to a while ago in your testimony regarding Sullivan the man for whom you obtained the appointment, and who was serving practically as one of your appointees during that session of the legislature?

SENATOR LORIMER—During the session of the legislature he was not in the office, senator.

SENATOR KERN—I know; he was away on leave then.

SENATOR LORIMER—But some time before that I had recommended him for the place, and he secured it.

SENATOR KERN—And he doubtless felt under obligations to you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I know he has always been friendly to me, senator.

MR. HANECY—Why did John C. Werdell vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—Werdell is one of

Browne's Admission of Support Also Held to Be False by Witness.

my friends of long standing, and in talking about Walsh and Sullivan I told the story about Werdell.

SENATOR KERN—What business is he in?

SENATOR LORIMER—As I recall, Werdell has always held an appointment under the city administration. I know he was employed under the Dunne administration.

SENATOR JONES—Has Werdell any business except such places as he gets under the administration?

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not know that he has, senator. I think not.

MR. HANECY—Why did Henry L. Wheeler vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I always thought Henry Wheeler voted for me on account of the fact a large number of Democrats were going to vote for me until—O, I do not know just how long it was after the legislature adjourned. Then I learned that Patrick Walsh, of Davenport, Ia., who was a good friend of Mr. had called on him and asked him to vote for me.

SENATOR KERN—Did you talk with Werdell and Walsh about voting for you a few days before you were elected?

SENATOR LORIMER—Some time before I was elected I talked with them, but I knew Walsh, Werdell and Walsh and Sullivan and Wilson and Murphy and the large number of Democrats would vote for me if I was a candidate long before I became a candidate.

"White Offered His Vote."

MR. HANECY—Why did Charles A. White vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—About ten days before I was elected—eight or ten days—I met him in the house of representatives, and he said he was going to vote for me. He said he understood I was going to be a candidate, and that if I was he would vote for me. Why he made that statement I do not know; but I knew I had this impression at that time: He was a street car conductor, and there is a friendly feeling among the men who are employed in the street car business for any number of years. I had served more than nearly five years—and I should say that 75 or 80 per cent of the street car men—motormen and conductors—in Chicago, were Democrats; there were a large number of them living in my congressional district, and I do not think I overstate it when I say that I received not less than 95 per cent of their votes every time I was a candidate for congress.

SENATOR JONES—Did he intimate to you any reason why he was going to vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—No, sir; he did not.

SENATOR JONES—He did not suggest or intimate that he ought to have anything of any kind for his vote?

SENATOR LORIMER—No, senator. From what little I saw of White at that time I had a high opinion of him.

Wilson Influenced by Friends.

MR. HANECY—Why did Frank J. Wilson vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—I was not very intimately acquainted with Mr. Wilson, and I do not think I ever had a conversation with him until that session of the general assembly, but on account of the friendship that existed between Mr. Gorman, and Mr. Raily, and myself, and the fact that they were running together all the time, I thought that was what moved Mr. Wilson to vote for me. I knew very early in the winter, however, that they proposed to vote for me.

MR. HANECY—Why did Robert E. Wilson vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—Robert Wilson was a friend of some very good friends of mine. I always thought he voted for me on account of the friendship that existed between him and my friends. I think he testified he voted for me on account of something Thomas Barrett, who had been sheriff of our county, said to him at one time about me. Then I have known Mr. Wilson, not as intimately as I did the other men, for a long time.

SENATOR GAMBLE—You assumed that if you were a candidate you could rely upon his vote?

Expected Chicago Democrats' Aid.

SENATOR LORIMER—Yes. I thought that every Democrat in Chicago would vote for me before the roll call. I thought that Mr. O'Toole would vote for me, from what he said to me; I thought that Mr. Glackin would vote for me; I thought that Mr. Naylor would vote for me, until the week I was elected. I worked with Ed Glackin, when I was a boy, at the stockyards, and his friends and my friends were good friends, and his relatives all visited at my home, and he came to my office—I think it must have been ten days before I was elected—and told me that if I was a candidate he would vote for me. I got the impression that Mr. O'Toole would vote for me from what he said. I have always been confident—at least I have always had the opinion—that Mr. O'Toole and Mr. Naylor finally opposed my candidacy on account of John McGillen and George Brennan. They are both in the bonding business and Mr. Hopkins had a bonding company, and the McGillen company and the Brennan company and the Hopkins company divided business.

No Evidence of Opposition.

SENATOR KERN—What evidence have you that these bonding companies in any wise influenced Mr. McGillen, secretary of the Democratic county central committee, to oppose your election.

SENATOR LORIMER—I have not the slightest direct evidence on that.

MR. HANECY—Why did Lewis E. York vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—York is a Republican and he told me he would vote for Gov. Deneen, and he was anxious to break the solid and elect a Republican. He would have voted, I think, for a great many Republicans in the state, and I think he especially would have liked to vote for Congressman Foss's colleague.

MR. HANECY—Why did Representative Mayer vote for you?

MR. LORIMER—He voted for me because I asked him, because I knew him well. I made a campaign through his district and he went with me.

Not Wanted Any Republican.

MR. HANECY—Why did Representative Hall vote for you?

SENATOR LORIMER—He was friendly to me all the way through the session of the general assembly. He voted a few times for Hopkins. Then I think he voted the rest of the session for Shurtleff, and he would have voted for almost any Republican in the state, I think.

Mr. Lorimer testified that if members of the "band of hope" had not voted for him, he would not have been elected.

Explanation of his failure to testify before the first senate investigating committee, he said it was due to a statement by counsel for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE that he did not propose to connect Mr. Lorimer directly with the corruption. He said he had been used to attacks upon him, but did not stop to think that the people generally were as interested as proved to be the case.

He referred to the contest with ex-Congressman Durborow, when the city hall was occupied by a force of 150 police officers armed with rifles to prevent the theft of the ballot boxes. Mr. Lorimer said this was an attempt to make him unpopular.

Refers to Mayoralty Fight.

In the last mayoralty election, Mr. Lorimer said he did not vote for either candidate, but a great many of his friends voted for Carter Harrison. He continued:

"Here was the situation: Merriam and his friends and his committee would not allow any of the old organization members to have charge of his campaign. He took charge of it himself. That is, he had an independent committee that managed his campaign; and I got the impression that, while they were willing to let people vote for Mr. Merriam, they did not ask them to manage affairs as the Republican managing committee always had done before.

"One of the members of the committee—Mr. Cannon—came over and talked with me one day about it, that is, about the organization taking a hand in the campaign. He said he wanted to talk with me first. I told him I was entirely agreeable to our organization in our ward doing anything it could for Mr. Merriam or for the Republican candidate.

Help Declined by Merriam.

"Then he went and talked with other members of the county central committee. I would not undertake to state what they did. There was not a wholesome feeling for a Republican candidate. For instance, I got the impression that Mr. Merriam did not want me to speak for him.

"I got it in this way: At one time the Deneen element wanted to have a meeting in what was known as the Twelfth ward and they wanted the governor to go out and make a speech, and the Merriam campaign committee at the headquarters, I was informed, objected to Deneen going out there to make a speech. It wound up in this way: They said that if Mr. Deneen went into the ward and made a speech I would be permitted to go and make one, too.

"It was a newspaper campaign all the way through and the newspaper people got the impression that they were going to elect a Republican candidate and they did not cooperate with the Republican organization, and also they seemed to resent any activity on the part of any man, whether he belonged to the Deneen element or was associated with me, taking what might be ordinarily termed a leading part in the campaign."

Thinks Papers Fought Bank.

SENATOR JOHNSTON—Senator, I want to ask you, in speaking of these papers that had been active against you, have they made any attempt to injure you otherwise than politically; I mean financially?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have always been under the impression they did, senator. They have printed a lot of matter about a bank in which I am interested, since the bank was open that would have destroyed almost any bank or closed almost any bank in the country. O, they are now constantly agitating the public mind there, and printing stories of my withdrawing from the bank, and that we are going to sell the bank, and that Lorimer is going to resign from the presidency, and somebody has bought out the majority of the stock of the Lorimer bank, and all that sort of thing that, of course, is ordinarily injurious to a financial institution. And it is all false.

SENATOR JOHNSTON—Do you attribute the publication of the notice of the opening of your bank on the same page with the White story to an intention to injure you in that way?

SENATOR LORIMER—I have not any other thought in my mind about that, senator. It was a financial article and would ordinarily go in what they call their financial news section, and it does seem to me that that was the intention.

Tells History of Life.

At the request of Senator Jones Mr. Lorimer told the story of his early struggles. His father died, leaving a widow and six children, four of whom were girls. Mr. Lorimer peddled papers and blacked boots till he was 13.

For a couple of months he worked in a sign painter's shop and then as a cash boy for a dry goods house. He worked as solicitor for a laundry for a year so, and one winter wheeled coal in a coal yard. He secured employment as a laborer in the plant of the Wilson Packing company and learned the meat canning business in all its branches.

After staying two years with this company he went with Nelson, Morris & Co., and later with Armour & Co. He was three years with the last named firm. For five years he was a street car conductor. Then he started in business for himself, first as a house painter. He was elected constable, and began in 1886 to sell real estate.

Given Water Department Job.

In 1887 he was appointed assistant superintendent of the water main extension, and after retiring got a teaming contract. He had continued in the real estate business, but gave it up to accept the superintendency of the water department under Mayor Washburne. He resigned this place to run for clerk of the Superior court.

Being defeated, he resumed the real estate business until elected to congress in 1894. Before 1894 he bought an interest in the Murphy Brick company and later organized the Lorimer-Gallagher Construction company. Two years ago he organized the La Salle Street National bank. He was elected seven times to congress.

When his father died his mother had no means of support. The family got along on what he earned until the second Chicago fire, when they lost all they had saved. He never went to school, because of the hours he had to devote to work. When about 13, at Sunday school, he met Miss Hobson, who became interested in him, and she and her mother gave him the foundation of the education he has acquired.

Cross Examination by Marble.

Senator Lorimer's cross examination began late in the afternoon. Mr. Marble questioned him about the Durborow contest. Mr. Lorimer insisted that he believes Judge Carter acted in this matter as he did at the behest of the Chicago newspaper editors, and that he violated the law.

The witness said he did not recall that Judge Carter, in a statement regarding the conflict between the courts and the facts which were, as he stated, that an attempt was to be made to take possession of the ballot boxes and arrest the election officers, used the phrase, "this is anarchy."

He said if it was a fact that the sheriff intended to take possession of the ballot boxes, he could not understand how that could be termed anarchy. Mr. Marble brought out that Thomas Barrett, at the time sheriff, and the clerks of the court were warm friends of Mr. Lorimer. It also developed that the Durborow contest went to the Supreme court, and on a law point, according to Mr. Lorimer, the court sustained Judge Carter.

Says Papers Were Prejudiced.

MR. MARBLE—Were the newspapers in Chicago at that time doing more than publishing the facts about this matter; giving the news of the controversy between the courts and the movements of the deputy sheriffs and policemen and the lawyers and the election board?

SENATOR LORIMER—When they gave out the impression I was trying to get possession of the ballot boxes or that any body was trying to get possession of them for me, they were not printing the truth.

Mr. Lorimer defined the "Band of Hope" as the men that voted to defeat Mr. Shurtleff for speaker. He said the men who voted for King for speaker composed the "Band of Hope."

MR. MARBLE—Is it true that you did have a conversation with Senator Hopkins in which you told him you would not support him for senator?

SENATOR LORIMER—No; he did not ask me for my support. He did come to me in the Willard hotel. I will tell you the substance of the conversation. It lasted less than a minute. I was just going out of the door of the Willard hotel, and Hopkins ran after me and said, "Lorimer, I want to talk to you. I must have a half hour's talk with you. You and I have been friends too long, and too good friends, to break off our friendship without talking the matter over." I said to him, "Senator, there is no use of talking to me." I said good-by and left him, and that was the only conversation I ever had with him.

Quick Change in Sentiment.

MR. MARBLE—Your feelings towards Senator Hopkins changed, did they not, immediately after the primary of 1908.

SENATOR LORIMER—My sentiment with reference to Senator Hopkins changed some time after I returned to Chicago from the west and found to be true a great many things that were said to me about Mr. Hopkins' activity against Mr. Yates and my friends in the primaries. It may have happened that I would have known all about it prior to that time.

MR. MARBLE—Did you tell Col. Copley, as soon as you saw the returns from Kane county, you knew what Hopkins had done, and that subsequent information had deepened the impression then made?

SENATOR LORIMER—I do not think I ever made that statement to Mr. Copley, because I had an impression that Mr. Copley was a strong man in that district, or in that county, and I recall that during the campaign I was fearful that Kane county would not go for Gov. Yates. I do not want to be understood as trying to put Col. Copley in the position of falsely stating the conversation, but I think he overstated what passed between us without intending to misstate the facts.

Reviews Break with Hopkins.

MR. MARBLE—When you analyzed the returns of that primary did you conclude that Senator Hopkins had divided his strength as nearly as might be between Gov. Yates and Gov. Deneen; that is, that he had been as nearly impartial in that controversy as he could be?

SENATOR LORIMER—In the year of 1907 I called on Senator Hopkins at his office one day and we were discussing his prospects for reelection to the senate, and incidentally we discussed the governorship. I said to Senator Hopkins, in substance, that I was not going to take any part in the gubernatorial fight. The impression that I aimed to leave on his mind was that I thought he could be elected without any opposition if his friends were not making a fight on the governor.

Out of that grew a conversation in which he declared his opposition to Gov. Deneen, and urged me to support somebody else, and to bring out a candidate for governor. After our discussion—it may have been that same day—I went over and talked with Mayor Busse about it, and told him what Senator Hopkins had said. And he said he would join in it.

Says Busse Offered Yates Aid.

Then it ran along for quite a little time, and there was a meeting of the state central committee at Springfield during the winter. I do not recollect whether it was December, 1907, or December, 1908, or January or February, probably, or March. While we were down there, Yates had rooms where he was meeting his friends who were attending the meetings of the central committee and the Republicans that came in from over the state, and everybody was talking about him as a candidate for nomination.

Mayor Busse came to me then and asked me if I could not get Yates to become a candidate. I told him that I did not know whether I could or not, and he asked me if I could support Yates, and I said that I could. Yates had not talked in the most kindly way about me, but I told Busse that I could support Yates if the rest of my friends over the state would.

He said, "You get Yates to become a candidate and I will contribute $2,500 to his campaign fund." I told Yates what he said and I told Len Small what he said. Mr. Yates became a candidate and Mr. Len Small went over to meet the mayor, and the mayor assured him that he was for Gov. Yates.

Failed to Obtain Fund.

I told Mr. Small that Busse had promised to contribute $2,500, and Small went to see him one day to collect the $2,500, and he put him off and told him to come again, and again, and again. Finally the primaries were over, and the $2,500 that was promised was not contributed.

Some time prior to the primary, probably six weeks—no, it was less than six weeks, I think—the district attorney had been appointed by Senator Hopkins, and he had taken up, or was preparing to take up, the organization for Gov. Yates in the ward in which he lived; and the present district attorney, Mr. Wilkerson, was preparing to become a candidate for member of the board of review against Roy O. West, whose term expired that fall. And I think they had their petitions out and were circulating them.

Mr. Hopkins sent for Mr. Sims—I do not think he did send for Mr. Wilkerson—but he sent for Sims, as I understand it, and told Mr. Sims Mr. Wilkerson must not be a candidate; that it would be detrimental to him if Mr. Wilkerson became a candidate.

Says Hopkins Fought Wilkerson.

Then I went to see Senator Hopkins and I asked first, if he had sent out such word, and he said that he had. I asked what he meant by that, and he told me that he could not afford to have Mr. Wilkerson as a candidate; that Mr. West and Gov. Deneen would oppose his candidacy for senator.

I said to him, "Are you for Deneen?" and he gave me to understand that he was. I said to him:

"Senator, I told you a long time ago that it would be better not to have a fight on the governorship on your account, and I am going into this fight as much on account of the way you felt about it as any feeling that I have in the matter."

He knew that I would favor almost anybody but Deneen for governor; but, we having the organization over the state, I said:

"This would be very injurious to us, those of us that are fighting for Gov. Yates."

He was very much excited about it and very nervous, and he said that he could not afford to have it, and so I left him.

Then from that date on my friends from over the state said that Mr. Hopkins was joining with Gov. Deneen, and they wanted Congressman Foss for senator.

I told them that I did not believe Senator Hopkins would go further than what he had done in the Wilkerson case; that the impression he was giving us was that he was for Yates, and that all of Yates' friends and all of my friends, and that is what amounted to the organization, were supporting Yates.

I did not believe Senator Hopkins would turn against his friends and help defeat them in what seemed to be the struggle that would decide which craft would go down forever. I urged my friends to support Senator Hopkins in the primary, and to those who were the most bitter I said I would not believe that Senator Hopkins would turn on friends such as we had been to him, and that as far as I was concerned I would not believe it until proof was given to me, and I would use all the influence that I had to secure his nomination. My friends, at my request, supported Mr. Hopkins, even when they wanted to support Congressman Foss.

Convinced Hopkins Quit Him.

From that time—that is, from primary day—so many things transpired that took me out of the campaign or away from home until I was taken sick that I did not have much contact with my friends, and nobody told me the stories that were told to me after I returned from the west, and it was not until that time—although, of course, all these things were running through my mind all the time—that Senator Hopkins had used his influence with the public officials in favor of this scheme, and got his friends to support Deneen.

When I was convinced Hopkins had turned against his friends I made up my mind that there was no obligation from me to Mr. Hopkins, and I treated him as I would treat anybody that was trying to destroy my friends. I withdrew my support, and I was glad at any time or at any place to aid in electing any other Republican senator."

Not Notified of Change.

MR. MARBLE—And neither Senator Hopkins nor Mayor Busse ever notified you of any change of front or change of intention or change of course in that primary, did they?

SENATOR LORIMER—Neither of them notified me. I have always thought that if Mr. Hopkins had kept the faith and if Mr. Busse had kept the faith, Gov. Yates would have been nominated.

MR. MARBLE—The estrangement between you and Mr. Deneen began before he first became a candidate for governor, did it not?

SENATOR LORIMER—Mr. Deneen went over to the newspaper people in—I do not know how much before 1904, but I had definite notice of it some time in 1904—and I did not support him for the nomination for governor. I had supported him for his nomination for state's attorney.

MR. MARBLE—And from the time of Gov. Deneen's nomination in 1904 to the present moment the Republican party in the state of Illinois had been arrayed against itself, has it not, in two factions—I mean in contests for nominations—with Gov. Deneen perhaps the most prominent in one faction and you the most prominent figure in the other?

SENATOR LORIMER—That is substantially the situation, yes.

Did Not Know Shurtleff Plan.

MR. MARBLE—When did you first know Mr. Shurtleff was a candidate for speaker of the house in the Forty-sixth general assembly?

SENATOR LORIMER—I did not know that Shurtleff was a candidate for speaker of the house in the Forty-sixth assembly until after he was elected. I do not think anybody knows a candidate for speaker. I do not think he knew himself.

MR. MARBLE—In the contest between the two factions in the Republican party, that speakership was a matter of consequence, was it not?

SENATOR LORIMER—O, I do not know whether it was of much consequence or not. It was always of consequence to win a contest. That is, if people know that you are winning. There is a large element that goes where the winnings are.

MR. MARBLE—Was not Mr. Shurtleff's election a substantial victory for your part of the Republican party?

SENATOR LORIMER—I think I would say we probably were stronger after Shurtleff was elected than we were before. That is, there was a sentimental strength in it. There was no real strength.

Cannot Recall Shurtleff Canvass.

Mr. Marble interrogated Mr. Lorimer at some length with reference to his conversations in December, 1908, with Mr. Shurtleff and Mr. Shanahan regarding the impending speakership contest. Mr. Lorimer did not recall that Mr. Shurtleff had canvassed the Republican legislators and knew he could not be elected speaker.

Mr. Lorimer insisted the only topic discussed was getting his friends to vote for Representative Chiperfield. The impression on Mr. Lorimer's mind was Mr. Chiperfield voted for Shurtleff for speaker and for United States senator until the final ballot, when he supported Lorimer. The witness added:

"I think Mr. Chiperfield felt I was not his friend when he became a candidate for speaker. I think it was on account of what he thought about our relations that he wanted to make sure or find out whether he could get the votes of the friends up in our territory. I think that is the reason Mr. Shanahan and Mr. Shurtleff came to my office to ask me if I would talk with my friends and try to get them to vote for Chiperfield for speaker."

NEVER FOR YATES, SAYS BUSSE.

Fred A. Busse denied last night the statements made by Senator Lorimer in his testimony in Washington yesterday.

"Lorimer, nor any other man, can say truthfully I ever said at any time I would be favorable to Yates for governor. I never was for Yates and Lorimer knows it. I would not be contributing to the campaign fund of a man whom I was opposing, would I?"

Pastor Deprecates Use of Emancipator's Name of Party Clique

POINTS TO SHAME OF STATE.

Declares the Doings at Springfield Would Disgrace Gomorrah.

"To give themselves a semblance of decency there is a group of politicians in Illinois that call themselves by the name of Lincoln, the leaders of the faction being no more like Lincoln that filth is like purity," said the Rev. W. T. McElveen, pastor of the First Congregational church of Evanston, in a speech last night at the monthly dinner of the Congregational club of Chicago in the Congress hotel."

Worse than Sodom and Gomorrah.

"A church that lives only within its own four walls is doomed," said Dr. McElveen. "We must expel the demon in politics in our own state and the church must help do it.

"There are politicians in Illinois that can give pointers to all of the deposed sultans of Europe. The pulpit should not, as a rule, espouse the cause of any party or candidate, but in exigencies it should stand for all that is best for the whole community.

"Sodom and Gomorrah in their palmiest days were not a circumstance compared with the things that have been done down at the state capitol at Springfield.

"And to give them a semblance of decency there is a group of politicians in Illinois that call themselves by the name of Lincoln, the leaders of the faction being no more like Lincoln than filth is like purity.

"We must call a halt, and the church must help."

Bishop on Social Problems.

Bishop Charles D. Williams of Michigan also spoke, discussing social problems.

"We have come to think of society," he said, "as an organism and have struggled along trying to solve it. We are growing too big for our moral standing and the problem of today is the adjustment of society to the best systems."

The Rev. J. S. Ainslie, president of the club, introduced the speakers.

No Trouble to Rid the Skin of Hairs

Science is greatly interested in a powder known to druggists as delatone, the discovery of which is due to Professor von Xahlden. When a little is mixed with water to form a paste and applied to the surface for two or three minutes, then rubbed off, you will find the hairs are gone. This way of ridding the skin's surface of superfluous growths is fast gaining popularity because of the absence of pain.

Delatone is especially valuable because of its antiseptic qualities and for the reason that rarely is the second application necessary. While delatone costs a dollar an ounce, it is worth several times its cost to rid the skin of objectionable hairs. —Advt.

Talks on Opium Traffic.

Theodore Roosevelt was praised by the Rev. E. B. Caldwell of Foochow, China, as the only president of the United States who had proven himself strong enough to withstand England concerning its treatment of the Chinese in the suppression of the opium traffic.

"Benjamin Harrison," he said, "was appealed to by China for help, but he did not dare interfere. William McKinley was appealed to, and he did not dare to bring the subject to the attention of the British government; but when Roosevelt was appealed to, he had the moral courage to face England and call a conference on the suppression of the opium traffic, which promises to secure, perhaps within a year, the complete deliverance of China from this curse. One of the arguments which every missionary has to face in China when talking with educated Chinese is the treatment of China by a professedly Christian nation like England."

Dr. Hall and Dr. Caldwell were speakers in a missionary campaign in which the west side Methodist churches are holding forty dinners on ten consecutive evenings.

Calls Women Flippant, Men Vulgar, in Love.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—"Love is policy for a woman, folly for a man." In her new book, "Spiritual Curiosities," Mrs. Marion Cox, the young woman who made her literary debut with "The Crowds and the Veiled Woman," offers a profound study of the passion that has been called "tender," perhaps because it is the most untender of all.

"Women in love are exacting and flippant—men egotistical and vulgar. Love no longer is splendid, but is a malady we all consider morbid, so that indifference of the heart has become the fashion. In New York women still play the game of love, but only for amusement or for profit."

The author of this astonishing statement is a young and happily married woman who, with her husband, lives at 11 East Thirty-eighth street.

"From my observation," Mrs. Cox continued, "I have discovered that men do not really want love from women. Only think of our breach of promise, alimony, and alienation of affection suits and you will understand why men have become afraid of the woman with a heart.

"Men have become so guarded in speech that the next generation of girls will have to propose and will have to suggest lifelong support as well as matrimony so that their motives will not be suspected.

"Men fear the heart so much that today a man indulges only in some romance of reason, such as marrying a wife who can be an advertisement for her husband's prosperity, or for social respectability, valuable to doctors and lawyers.

"Love is really the most unbecoming of passions to women. That is why beautiful women, when possessed of intelligence and vanity, never love, but only lend themselves to be loved. Fortunately for the world, nearly all women have conquered romantic love in themselves. Women are all born very old. We are all equipped with the lessons of the past.

"Women have been forced by public opinion during all the centuries to conceal their hearts so effectually that it is now quite natural that they should have none. And all the really charming women in society are without hearts. Instead of the heart, they have ambition, and their lusts and appetites are merely for power.

"The modern girl one sees everywhere in quest of the millionaire does not deserve the opprobrium given her by the social reformers, for she is in reality the normal, sound feminine being, and the girls who marry beneath them, sometimes eloping with their fathers' grooms and chauffeurs, are the degenerates."

"Then you do not believe in marrying for love?" Mrs. Cox was asked.

"Marriages are formed by spring—ambitions by autumn," she replied. "I believe in late marriages. Love has a value, of course. It is the only preservative of youth in women and of the primitive in men today. It is the salt in modern life which will preserve our hearts from withering completely, and gives us a salutary way of acting the fool.

"But love is the one thing which, since time immemorial, has destroyed a woman's supremacy and charm."

"Gingerbread" Gowns in Vogue.

"Gingerbread" trimmings are to maintain their place in feminine esteem for at least another season. The statement was delivered yesterday by S. Reichman, president of the Chicago Women Tailors' association, to an audience of about 600 women who gathered at the Congress hotel for the association's annual display. The involved mazes of tape on handbags are gingerbread. Cheap braid, when arranged with sufficient intricacy, is entitled gingerbread. Irish lace, gold braid or anything else, so it is hopelessly tangled, is gingerbread.

"It may not be particularly pretty," Mr. Reichman told the audience of prospective wearers, "but it has hit the general fancy. It has the virtue of toning up a cheap dress or distinguishing an expensive one with equal certitude. You can stick it anywhere and anyhow without making much difference in the appearance of the gown, and it always seems to look pretty. We expect to find it as popular for spring and summer wear it has been this winter."

Pities Carnegie and Rockefeller.

"Rockefeller and Carnegie are to be pitied," asserted the Rev. John Norris Hall of Berwyn in an address last evening at a men's missionary dinner in the Centenary Methodist church.

"These men," he said, "are seeking to win the respect and confidence of their fellow men by endowing colleges and establishing libraries when they know that the methods by which they have gained their money are the subject of widespread suspicion.

"The idle rich who spend their money giving horseback dinners and poodle dog parties miss happiness because they have not learned that selfishness is the road to misery."

Canadians Plan Clubhouse.

Plans for the erection of a clubhouse and home for the recently organized Canadian club of Chicago were discussed at a banquet in the Hotel La Salle last night.

"The idea is good," said Walter J. Raymer, "for we have a host of former Canadians in Chicago, all of whom can be depended upon to take a lively interest in civic matters."

Gasoline Cleans Gloves.

"May I inquire about cleaning kid gloves? I have had many pairs injured and shrunk at cleaners'. I am sure you know of a simple, thorough way of accomplishing that feat at home. Also how to clean the yellow satin lining of long coat that's a bit dusty at the bottom.

"P. E. G."

1. Clean the gloves with gasoline, taking care to have no artificial light in the room. Clean them on the hands, going over them carefully with several clean sponges, exchanging one for another as you work. Dry in the air, but in the shade.

2. You can clean the soiled lining with finely powdered fuller's earth, rubbing it into the stuff with a clean complexion brush. Go all over the satin with the powder; shake it off and rub in a second supply. Rub always with the nap so as not to roughen the satin. Leave the second supply on and lay the garment away for two days before shaking out the powder.

* *

White Meal for Cleaning.

"I have a white elderdown wool cap that is badly soiled; also a white felt hat that needs cleaning. I trust you have directions for cleaning them.

Mrs. D. E. B."

1. Clean the cap in a pan of fine white meal with which has been mixed a handful of salt. Set the pan in the oven to heat the contents through, stirring often. Then bury the cap in the meal and go through the form of washing it, rubbing between your hands as in suds. Throw away the soiled meal and bury the cap in a fresh supply. Leave it in this for two days. Then beat and shake to dislodge the meal.

2. Clean the hat with the best quality of block English magnesia, rubbing it in carefully. As with the cap, beat out the first supply and rub in a second. Leave this on for two or three days.

Japanese Air Fern.

"I have just received a Japanese air fern and have been told that it does not need water or earth. Can you tell me if it should hang in the sun or not or if it needs to be sprayed? Should it hang in a cool or warm place? IGNORANT."

It should hang in a rather warm, moist place, and if the air be uniformly humid it will need no spraying. It certainly needs no earth.

For detailed information I refer to those who have kept these freakish plants successfully.

Question of Cousinship.

"Will you please answer this question to settle a dispute? My husband claims his children can only be cousins to his brothers' and sisters' children or my brothers' and sisters' children, and that his uncle's and aunt's children, who are his first cousins, are second uncles or aunts to his children. I claim his first cousins are his children's second cousins. Who is right? I have asked a woman who is a school teacher and she says I am right. But I should like to hear from you.

K. F."

The vexed question of first and second cousins will be answered so fully and so well in The Letter Box of this week that I ask you to wait for the appearance of that to settle your dispute.

Others have taken up the matter and discussed it ably.

Responding to Toasts.

"At a wedding, when a toast is proposed to the bride, is it customary for the groom to respond?

F. D."

Undoubtedly. The groom responds to the toast to the bride and the best man to that proposing the health and happiness of the bridegroom.

May Have to Dye Shirt.

"I have a gray flannel shirt which I washed. Since it has dried it has green streaks through it. Could you kindly tell me what would take them out, as it spoils the shirt beyond wearing?

"Mrs. G. B."

I doubt if you can efface the streaks. They must have been caused by some other garment which was washed in the same tub. Try washing it again in warm suds to which have been added a handful of borax. Rub the green streaks hard. Rinse in warm water and dry in the shade. If the green be indelible, have the shirt dyed.

* *

To Remove Shine.

"Will you please advise me how to take the 'shine' off of a blue serge skirt? E. C. R."

There are several ways of removing the "shine." Try sponging with bluing water such as you use in the laundry. While the garment is damp, press with a warm iron through a thin cloth.

Another way is to sponge with hot vinegar, afterward with ammonia. Don't rub! Hold the steaming sponge in place for a moment—not pressing hard—and let the steam raise the nap in drying. Do not touch until it is dry.

Still another way is to hold the wrong side of the stuff over boiling water, letting the steam rise through it. Dry without touching.

* *

Inquires About Telegraphy.

"I am 16 years old and I am about to graduate. Would you be kind enough to give me your opinion if telegraphy is a good career for a young girl? If it is, where would you suggest to have me learn it? If, however, you don't approve of this for a girl, what other position, outside of stanography and bookkeeping, should I undertake? I am fond of writing.

"QUERIST."

A competent telegraph operator always commands a fair salary. I do not see why a woman should not make herself so skillful and do such excellent work in the profession as to retain her position and take pleasure in it. It is less wearing to the health and temper than the occupation of a telephone girl.

What say readers who are familiar with the pros and cons of both professions?

* *

Will Carleton the Author.

"Could you help me to find a poem entitled 'Over the Hills to the Poorhouse'? Possibly some reader should know. I should be more than pleased to obtain it. MRS. E. F. J."

The poem was written by Will Carleton. It is one of the best known of his works and may be found in any complete collection of his poems.

Appeal for San Francisco.

"I am going to California (San Francisco) and know nothing at all about the climate there. Can you tell me if it is necessary to wear heavy underwear there in the winter? Are straw hats worn all the year round? B. L. W."

Dress as you would at the east in early autumn, but be prepared for variable weather. The morning that is bland as summer may be followed by heavy fogs that make cloaks comfortable. Do not count upon wearing a straw hat all the season. Many sport them in January, but at times they look absurdly out of taste.

You will not need the heavy flannels you would find necessary to comfort and health in the middle or eastern states.

* *

Is Poetess Living?

"Can you tell me if Mrs. John James Piatt, the poetess, is still living, and where? Her maiden name was Sarah Morgan Bryan. Also if her husband is living? MRS. J. E. P. W."

Referred! I have no knowledge of the matter, nor can I find the name in my biographical dictionaries.

Woman and Her Interests.

Laura Jean Libbey's Comment and Advice.

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

[Copyright: 1912: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

He's in Doubt.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I kept company with a nice girl for two months and I think a whole lot of her and she said she cared for me, but she does not live in this city at the present. She got homesick and went about six weeks ago. We have been corresponding, but she has not given me an invitation to come down to her home. Would it be proper for me to give her a visit without an invitation? She lives about eighty miles from here. Do you think she really cares for me, for the last letter I received she did not seem to put much interest in it? If she does not care I would like to know. What shall I do? THEO."

Yes, Theodore, go and see her without an invitation. Find out what the trouble is.

He Lives in Colorado.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 21 and deeply in love with a man who lives in Colorado. I am not fortunate enough to see him often, but I long for him daily. I am a stenographer and thinking of him seems to interfere with my work. I wonder why he doesn't write me often, and if he really loves me why doesn't he come to see me? What would you advise in this matter. Would you think it right for me to write him and ask why he does not correspond more frequently and has not come to see me or should I await results? ALICE."

Alice, you are wasting the time your employer is paying you for. That isn't honest, is it? Forget about the fellow. Don't allow yourself to think about him. He is not interested in you—you can easily see that; don't allow yourself to be interested in him. Why make yourself miserable?

He Is Blind.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 21 and in love with a man of 23 who is blind. I love him much and he has told me that he loves me, but has never asked me to marry him because he knows my parents object to my marrying a blind man. My father said that he would disown me if I married him and mother said the same. His parents have consulted a skillful oculist, who, after an examination, said there was no chance of his recovering his eyesight. I would rather die than be separated from him.

"HEARTBROKEN."

I advise you to abide by your parents' decision. Get away somewhere where you won't see the man. If at the end of a couple of years you still feel the same you will have to decide the matter for yourself.

* *

She's of Jealous Disposition.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am a widow and about 40 years old and am considered good looking. I am employed in a mercantile establishment and there is also a bachelor about 45 years old whom I am madly in love with. He is fairly good looking and has money and at times he leads me to believe he is interested in me, but I have noticed on any number of occasions he has been just as attentive and confidential to others in the same office. I am of a jealous disposition and naturally I am afraid I show my liking for him. He has a number of lady friends, but as far as I know he is not interested in any of them, as he is considered by his numerous men friends as a 'good fellow.' I love this man dearly. How would you advise me to win his affection, as I shall never be happy until I do? A WIDOW."

You certainly can't win him by showing in the slightest degree that you are jealous. Treat him as friendly as possible. Don't gush over him. Pay him pleasant little compliments with at least a grain or so of truth in them. That's about all you can do.

* *

Never Had a Fellow.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am nearly 18 and never had a fellow. What I'd like to know is this: Soon there is going to be a series of meetings held near here. I have a dear friend whom I would like to have attend with me, but we two girls would not like to come home alone on the car. She has a brother, but goes with another young man in the neighborhood. Would it be right to ask her friend and brother or would it seem like forcing my company upon her brother? ANXIOUS SUSAN."

Yes, surely it would be all right to ask them.

Mashed Carrot.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

WHEN you have misunderstood anybody, misinterpreted her action, belittled her, been unjust to her, if you are a person of a naturally kind heart and a just mind, it seems to me you should do everything in your power to set that person right with the world.

This is my attitude toward the carrot. I believe it has been one of the most misunderstood of vegetables. For my part I was long quite ignorant of its great sweetness and worth. I am sure it has ordinarily been and is all the time one of the worst treated of vegetables, for otherwise I should never have so persistently believed it so unattractive.

If those who long prepared it for my eating had not so really vilified it by their treatment I should earlier have realized that I had in the carrot golden treasure indeed. I have eaten it in New England, on western prairies, in the south, on ocean steamers, in England—where all vegetables are likely to be rather poorly cooked—and in various parts of the continent of Europe.

Though brought up in a boiled dinner land, the weekly recurrence of this New England dish was a penance to me. The only recompense was the calico hash the next morning. Of all the vegetables in this conglomeration the carrot was the least attractive and eatable.

Now the carrot, when properly cooked, is as sweet as the sweet potato, or even sweeter. The new carrot is, in fact, almost unbelievably sweet, when it is steamed and mashed, and it steams done in a short half hour when cut up in pieces of equal size. Not one bit of its easily dissolved sweetness is lost when it is steamed, as is bound to occur when it is boiled in either the one or the two waters.

The mashed carrot should be dressed exactly as though it were mashed potato, with a little cream, if you have it, some butter and salt. You may add pepper if you want to. It would be utterly superfluous to add sugar to carrot prepared in this way.

Have you tasted of the raw, new carrot which the nightingale loves, and which they give to little children in Holland when they want a luncheon? Try it if you never have. If you like raw vegetables of any sort you will be likely to like this.

When a food begins to inspire you with moral ideas it is worth a good deal of attention. You never can tell what inspiration may come from it.

The carrot so inspires me. When I see how atrociously cooked are many precious foods like it, how careless, slovenly, insanitary, unintelligent and barbarous the presentation of these to thousands, three times a day, I wonder that the streets are not filled with fainting crowds of human beings, that more people do not die of acute gastritis and all the other "itises," and I am the more impressed with the wonderful provisions of the human system for resisting evil.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

The Habits of a Beauty.

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

[Copyright: 1912: By Lillian Russell.]

PEOPLE imagine that to be lovely a woman has no time to do anything but beautify herself.

I heard some clever women talking of a beautiful friend the other day and one said: "Yes, she is beautiful to look at, but imagine living with her." Meaning that she would be spending all her time and thought upon her personal adornment.

A girl who wants to be lovely—and every one does—has only to think hard enough to keep this aim always before her.

She must find exercise in her daily duties; she must find breathing exercise in an ordinary walk of a few blocks; hygiene in an ordinary ablution, and the right diet in the average three meals a day.

She must put her thoughts into effect, only wanting to be beautiful never added a beauty point to any one.

Let me tell you a few simple things that should be done every day to make for health and beauty. I will begin at the awakening in the morning. Of course, the window has been open all night, and you have been warm under light weight covers. Jump out of bed quickly into the cold room; stand before the window and take ten long, deep breaths, your hands on your hips, your chest well up, inhaling through your nose as deeply as possible, and holding each breath three full seconds; then let the breath out slowly.

By this time you will be in a glow. Turn on the heat and run your bath water warm; put a dash of salt or borax or violet ammonia in it. Scrub your body with a pure soap and spray off with cold water until you are quite tingling, then dry with a rough bath towel, rubbing vigorously until you are warm. Put cold cream into your face now, leaving it on until you are dressed in all your outer garments; then rub off the cream with a piece of sterilized gauze and put on a little powder.

When you brush your hair just add three minutes more to the brushing than the ordinary woman does and you will have added the desired luster to your locks. When your hair is dressed you can devote a few minutes to your hands, using an orange wood stick and a bit of sterilized cotton, some green soap lotion, and a bit of chamois skin.

Remember: That the dignity of reason can bridge over rivers of impulse.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

R. S. I.: Massage with a good skin food is excellent for scars. I shall be glad to send you the formula for the skin food if you will write me again, inclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

L. K.: If is much easier to put on flesh than to take it off, unless you have some chronic ailment. A glass of warm milk before retiring is good. Olive oil is also excellent. Avoid all trying work and, above all things, don't worry. Sleep as much as you can. Substitute deep breathing for long walks.

M. L. H.: Witch hazel is one of the best astringents that I know of, and I consider it one of the necessities of my toilet table. Cloths wet in hot witch hazel and placed over the nose will reduce the pores materially. Be sure and cool the face thoroughly before going out in the open air. Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I shall be happy to send you the formula for the astringent lotion and also one for skin food, with instructions for facial massage to eradicate wrinkles.

Little Quips and Quirks.

Another Lost Art.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

"IT'S a lost art, I tell you," asserted Phineas Gump as he pounded his fist on the table, "it's a lost art. Lost as completely as mummy making, ancient lacquer work, the green porcelain of the Chinese and Damascus blades. We've lost the art of making those things and we've done worse than that. Yes, sir; we can blame the middle ages for letting lots of beautiful arts pass away for ever from the knowledge of mankind, but there's another art that's been lost by our own generation. It's a diabolical shame."

Phineas Gump arose and strode up and down the room for a few minutes until he could master his emotions and then he sat down and resumed the attack.

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Gump, "we needn't sit around and make faces at the middle ages. They may have lost lots of precious secrets connected with ceramics and steel and bronze; but look at us. See what we've permitted to perish, nothing more nor less than the art of making waffles."

"Do you put waffles on the same plane with Siena pottery, for instance?" asked Gubbio Dubbs, who is fond of his knowledge of ceramics.

"Certainly I do," insisted Mr. Gump. "Beautiful pottery appealed to the eye, although it also had a utilitarian value. Beautiful waffles not only appealed to the eye, but also to the stomach. It is well that the eye be gratified, but nothing is more important than health. Waffles built up the physical man; they made him robust and hearty. The waffle was the king of the breakfast table. Now he is dead."

"Why I noticed a great many waffle irons in the hardware store this morning," said Mr. Dubbs. "I've often seen waffle irons in the kitchens of my friends. Where there are waffle irons there must be waffles."

"Unfortunately," replied Mr. Gump, "that is not the case. The art of waffle making passed away such a short time ago that the tradition of waffles is still fresh. People remember that not so many years ago waffles formed the most delectable dish that graced the breakfast table. They still talk about them and aspire to make them. But they've forgotten how."

"But they buy waffle irons," interposed Mr. Dubbs.

"True," replied Mr. Gump, "they buy waffle irons, but they are only throwing their money away. Why the squandering of money on waffle irons is the main cause of the financial stringency right now. People buy waffle irons, spending all the way from 75 cents up to $3 for one set, and taking that much money out of circulation. You see, if they would buy one set of waffle irons and quit it wouldn't be so bad; but they don't. They first buy the cheaper kind of irons. They take them home and tear off the card that goes with the irons and read the receipt on the back of the card on how to make waffles. They follow the receipt, the waffles they make are as white as marble and as heavy as iron. They are only good for armor plate on battleships."

"Oh, not as bad as that," said Mr. Dubbs.

"Yes, sir," continued Mr. Gump, "just as bad as that. In fact, I am so appalled at the enormous waste that is going on in this country through the attempts of people to make waffles that I am going to try to stop it by having a bill introduced into congress providing that in the future all amateur waffle makers be compelled to send their waffles to the navy yards where they will be put on the sides of cruisers and battleships in place of Harveyized steel. It will prevent the awful waste of flour, eggs, baking powder, and milk, as well as the time of the people who make the waffles; and it will also give an armor to our ships that the highest explosive known cannot penetrate."

"Your statement is a large one," said Mr. Dubbs politely.

"But true, nevertheless," insisted Mr. Gump. "Tests at the Sandy Hook proving ground show that a shell from a thirteen inch gun will pass through ten inches of steel as easily as it would through so much paper. I can assure you that I can put five thicknesses of waffles, as made by the waffle makers of today, on a battleship and defy the best thirteen inch gun ever made to even dent it."

"Well, I suppose that after people buy their 75 cent waffle irons and make two or three attempts at cooking waffles they give it up as a bad job," said Mr. Dubbs.

"No," replied Mr. Gump, "that's the trouble; they don't. They are like tigers that have tasted blood. They lose all restraint. They think the trouble is in their waffle irons. They rush back to the hardware store and get the $1.50 irons. The waffles from these irons are a little heavier, if anything, than the first kind. A friend of mine had his foot crushed only last week because his wife dropped a waffle on his toes that she was bringing in for his breakfast and crushed them so the foot had to be amputated."

"But after they have bought the second set of irons and again fail to produce edible waffles I suppose they give up further experiments along that line?"

"Not at all," said Mr. Gump. "They go back and buy the $2.50 or the $3 kind of irons. Now you see what an awful drain on the public purse this waffle iron thing is. And all in vain. Thousands of dollars spent and not a waffle that any one can eat."

"But the cook books——" interrupted Mr. Dubbs.

"The cook books!" sneered Mr. Gump. "I myself have followed with the most mathematical precision every receipt ever printed in every cook book on the market. I have made waffles, Continental hotel waffles, waffles southern style, rice waffles, cream waffles No. 1, cream waffles No. 2, raised hominy waffles, Indian waffles, Virginia waffles, and every other kind. What was the result? I secured the finest plaster paris casts of the inside of those patent waffle irons you ever saw in your life. And that was all."

"Write to Col. Eddington——"

"I've written to everybody," said Mr. Gump in a despairing voice. "They give me perfectly good receipts on how to make the batter. I expect I can make the finest waffle batter of anybody in the United States. I'm a bear-cat at making waffle batter. But it's the cooking. You see, according to the rules of the National Waffle Protective association you are not permitted to open your waffle irons while the waffles are cooking and take a look. Opening the irons chills the batter and causes the eggs to crystallize and changes the flour to steel. You are only allowed to turn the waffles over once. If you turn them twice you lose your license. You see, it's a blind game. You can watch anything else you cook, but the waffles are shut up inside the irons and it's just a gamble and you always lose."

"But don't the cooks tell you how many minutes or hours you have to leave the waffles over the blaze?" asked Mr. Dubbs.

"They do nothing else," said Mr. Gump. "Some say to count forty, others say give the waffles a half minute on each side, others declare for a minute or two minutes, and some say take a bath while the waffles are cooking on one side and then take a shave while they roast on the other. But none of them is right."

"But they used to cook waffles," insisted Mr. Dubbs.

"Certainly they did, and that's just why I say it's a lost art. In our boyhood days we had great heaps of delicious waffles of a rich, brown amber tint and so delicate they would melt in your mouth. But no more. Now we spend millions of dollars on waffle irons and turn out nothing but plaster casts or armor plate.

"But this condition must not be permitted to exist. There are still here and there in the country old fashioned people who make waffles just as well as they did twenty-five or thirty years ago. These people must come to the front and give us the secret before it passes away forever. I am going to send out a call of distress. The art of making waffles must and shall be preserved and not be permitted to vanish from the earth. I have spoken."

"Well," said Mr. Dubbs, "I hope you get the secret, and that when you do you will invite me over to a waffle breakfast. I certainly should like to taste them again."

"I'll invite you," said Mr. Gump grimly, "because I shall not rest in this matter until success has crowned my effort and the waffle is once again the king of the breakfast table."

President James Speaks in Berlin.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—President Edmund J. James of the University of Illinois delivered a striking address at tonight's anniversary banquet of the American chamber of commerce at the Hotel Adlon, taking for his theme what Germany has to teach America.

He said that there are three features which the United States should adopt if they mean to keep pace with the mighty industrial progress of the fatherland—namely: Extension of the public school system by the incorporation of technical training for both boys and girls, a system of continuation schools for workmen and apprentices with a view to increasing the number of skilled artisans, and finally the introduction of scientific management into the merchandising and manufacturing system.

"It was by the adoption and cultivation of these ideas," said James, "that Germany has been enabled to convert itself within a generation from an agricultural state of 40,000,000 into a great industrial nation of 65,000,000, sustaining itself in an area less than that of Texas.

"Tariffs alone will not enable America to beat Germany in the world's markets. We haven't been putting up our tariff against the industry of German workmen, but against the brains of the German universities.

"Until America places science at the back and nod of industry we shall compete with Germany on unequal terms."

Want Public School Dances Stopped.

Resolutions protesting against use of public school halls for public dancing were adopted by the Chicago Methodist preachers' meeting yesterday in First Methodist church.

They were adopted after a committee on public policy had recommended that no action be taken at the present time.

The Rev. G. K. Flack, pastor of the Garfield Park Methodist church, had offered the original resolutions. The resolutions commend "the plan of the board of education to open the public school buildings for social gatherings, such as literary and musical entertainments, debating contests, and all other amusements of unquestionable tendency."

The resolutions argue "the public dance hall, with its promiscuous associations, is notorious as an institution of demoralizing tendency and has proven in many cases to be the open door to a life of vice."

"Nickel Shows No Longer Menace."

Moving picture shows as an influence on child morality were defended yesterday afternoon by Prof. Allen Hoben of the University of Chicago. He addressed members of the Austin Women's club on "The Juvenile Protective Association."

Prof. Hoben, who is field secretary of the association, urged the organization of more branch leagues in Chicago.

"Since enforcement of the rule that all moving picture films must be passed upon by the national board of censorship before being exhibited in 5 cent theaters have ceased to be a serious menace to morals of children," said Prof. Hoben. "Over 113 miles of moving picture films have been barred by the board as unfit for exhibition."

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

IT may be learned from "The Greyhound" that life on the ocean wave is earnest if not real and that opulent voyagers from the minor centers should beware of fellow passengers when they are soulful and suave.

Here on board the S. S. Mauretania, one of the most circumspect of our ships, may be seen a horde of deep sea grafters smoothly engaged in their picturesque vocation, flitting blithely from romance to poker as they separate their victims from their wealth. Observation of their operations, therefore, is recommended to innocent inlanders, and the Messrs. Armstrong and Mizner, those strong arm men of the drama, are hailed as thesis playwrights bent on criticising existence for the benefit of their fellow men.

Lest it be surmised from the foregoing that "The Greyhound" is an ordinary problem play, I hasten to say that it is not ordinary and that it is not problem. Instead, it is one of those smart yellow-backs something like "The Deep Purple," full of brave talk and brave situations, wherein daring experts at intrigue pursue and are pursued. If there is time to make a technical criticism of the proceedings it may be said that in their present form they are diffuse—the incidents are merely a melodramatic pageant linked but long drawn out. They need pushing together, knitting, elimination, and speed.

But to drop the function of the critic and assume that of the police reporter, "The Greyhound" is to be described as an agitating experience among the criminally interesting—a bully entertainment for those who, like Mr. Gladstone, find diversion in idealized chronicles of crimes and crooks.

It is all about a band of adventurers who set out from San Francisco to loot the passenger list of the Mauretania. It is headed by Mr. Henry Kolker in one of the most admirable impersonations I have ever seen in melodrama, and it includes such dexterous persons of the stage underworld as Miss Elita Proctor Otis, who shifts from Butte Bessie, wanted in Chicago for blackmail, to a baroness with a bad accent and a lorgnette. Also among those present is Mr. Douglas Wood as a high hatted and frock coated explorer of other people's pockets—a fine, graphic characterization; and Jay Wilson as a "roughneck" endowed with a gift of vivid metaphor and a talent for cheating at cards. Mr. Kolker's stage wife does not die when she takes poison in the first act, as he deserts her—and it seems only fair to the impressionable reader to apprise him-er, as Mrs. Ella Flagg Young would say, of that fact. Rather she lives to fall in love with the deep voiced and noble Mr. Robert McWade, former gambler, now detective, and to board with him the same ship which her husband and his gang seek to devastate. Although Mr. Kolker has the check for $50,000 in his pocket, one glimpse of her pale face in the spotlight which shines from the wireless operator's cabin is enough to drive him frantic into the sea as the last curtain falls.

Aside from all the suicides and intrigues there is a poker game. This takes place in the smoking room of the Mauretania, and include a banker from Lima, O., looking as if he had been drawn by Mr. McCutcheon; the college boy hero, who is a moral architect; two Elks; a crook, and the bass detective who deals him four aces against a straight flush. Some suspense is engendered in this episode, though the outcome is discounted by every one who reads about poker instead of playing it, and who thus knows that the right man will win. The right man in this case is the chaste architect who knows more about cards than he does of "Love and Marriage," and his winnings are sufficient to enable him to marry the ingenue. The precipitate death of Mr. Kolker, who has been so subtle and mannerly a villain all through the play, is the only saddening incident of an unusually interesting game in which Messrs. Armstrong and Mizner, it is suspected, have stacked the cards.

MISS MOLLY McINTYRE, AS "BUNTY" IN "BUNTY PULLS THE STRINGS"

New McCutcheon Play.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—"The Flyers," George Barr McCutcheon's new comedy, was given its first production here tonight by Manager Frederick Thompson. It was well received.

The play revolves around two couples who elope, and, going in the same direction, become involved in some funny situations. An English lord, engaged to an American young woman, but really in love with her English maid, is one of the chief characters. The American young woman really prefers a young New Yorker, and the elopements are necessary in order that the young people may have the mates of their choice.

The plot develops rapidly in the first act, which is full of action. The required number of laughs were forthcoming easily, and it was ever apparent that the author was in a happy vein when he worked out the scenes. The first act is laid in a railroad station, where the two men of the eloping couples are left behind when the train bearing their sweethearts pulls out.

The second act is laid at a countryside, and the last is divided between a country hotel and a churchyard. The action was remarkably smooth for a first night.

Hek Sees a Play; 'Bunty Pulls the Strings'

BY H. E. K.

DAE it yerse'l, Percy; it's man's task. Aw'm fair fashed wi' the thocht o' doin' simple justice to yon play, "Bunty Pu's the Strings," or the genius wha' pit it thegither, or the plyers wha' speakit the lines and arranged the sonsie pictures—or what ye may ca' them—Aw dinna ken. Aw'll warrant ye there never was a mair deleecious comedy nor ain sae true to life as Aw—or raythe MacPherson—kenned it at hame.

But ye'll gang tae see it yersil' and when ye dae ye'll gie 'em a' what's comin' tae 'em—wull ye no'? The play itsel' is ain o' those wholesome lessons o' Hieland life at a time when the auld lichts were breakin' thro' their shells, sae to speak—at the time when they were beginnin' to feel a bit pit oot at the thocht o' being obliged tae mak' theirsels meeserable for the purpose o' bein' happy—just aboot the time the bairns were gettin' ower the idee o' seein' things through theer feythers' specs an' insertin' in a kind o' saft inseenuatin' way on daein' a wee bit thenkin' for theirsels. But ye ken it weel na doot an' Aw shall no burthen ye wi' the story o't—the wee tragedies o' the hoose o' the dour man wha wa'd hae deescipline at ony cost, an' i' the kirk yard o' the Sabbath morn.

Bunty, wha's pairt was tak't by bonnie Molly McIntyre—as fair an' as gracefu' a lassie as ye e'er clapt yer een on, let me tell ye that—runs thro' it a' pu'in' the strings—an' mony she has to pu'—that set a' matters ta richts. O'u ay—aw'm muckle strong for Molly. D'ye ken if she's marrit? Aw can weel believe that a' the characters are sustained—gin that be the way ye say it—by rale Scots, for there's not a word dropped, or the weest bit seetuation that wad gar ye think ye were no' in the hairt o' the Hielands.

Even gin a body hed an ear sae perverted as no' tae appreciate th' musical speech o' the Hielands, or sae deef as tae be onable to hear it, he could dae na better wi' his time an' his siller nor gang tae the Princess playhoose tae feast his een on Bunty and Teeny, tae indulge in illeecit grins we Rab and see the austere majesty o' the Auld lechts wha wear the breeks an' regaird the wimminfoik as the weaker vessels wi' a vengeance. A more delicate romance was ne'er wrocht nor that between Teeny an' Rab nor a stronger seetuation nor that i' the Kirk yard was ever devised syne the warldly trade of play actin' was invented—by the deil, mayhap.

Ye may be shocked at times, for mony lapses fra' grace are no' only tolerated but made comely in yer sicht. Amang th' sinfu' things they ma' licht o' is a lad an' a lassie lookin' oot the window at the flowers on the Sabbath day. An' on tap o' that the lad whustles a hymn and a wumman "stands by the plats" at the kirk door. But a' these abominations are gar'd tae look fair in yer scandalized sicht in the happy way Bunty fexes it. We're a' human, guidness kens, and this wee bit three act comedy is mair nor human.

But gang an' see for yersel. It wull be there the necht an' for a long time. Aw hope. Aw'm a' in.

Throw 31 Out of Theater.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 15.—Two men were arrested charged with inciting to riot, and twenty-nine others were ejected from a local theater tonight, when an attempt was made to break up the performance of "The Playboy of the Western World," by the Irish players.

The police authorities had been warned that there might be a repetition of the scenes which occurred when the play appeared in New York, and plain clothes men were scattered among the audience.

When the second act began members of the audience began to shout objections from their seats, and were promptly ejected. As fast as one was silenced, however, others took up the demonstration, and confusion reigned for nearly an hour.

De Cisneros Rejoins Chicago Opera Company

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

ARRIVING Sunday evening from Australia, Mme. Eleanora de Cisneros celebrated her return to the forces of the Chicago opera by interpreting the rôle of Ortrud in last night's performance of "Lohengrin."

Though the voice betrayed some evidences of weariness, her reading of the difficult scene in the second act had to recommend it a clean cut German diction and an abundance of dramatic interest.

The voice is rare among contraltos, because of its brilliant timbre and the exceptional ease with which the tones of the upper register are produced, and these qualities impart to the Ortrud music a color not frequently encountered, but none the less appropriate. A tendency to accentuate the technical aspects of the music and an occasional uncertainty as to the intentions of the conductor are probably to be explained on the grounds of a lack of orchestral rehearsal.

There were no other changes in the cast and the performance moved smoothly upon its appointed course.

Albert Spalding gave what was announced as his only violin recital for the present season yesterday afternoon in Music hall before a number of the members of the Amateur Musical club. Although the recital was open to the general public, the music lovers seem to have permitted an opportunity to enjoy admirable violin playing to pass unnoticed, for the audience was much smaller than had been anticipated, in view of Mr. Spalding's recent successes in Chicago and the east with the Thomas orchestra.

Wolf-Ferrari, whose opera, "The Jewels of the Madonna," is to receive its first American performance tonight, and whose oratorio, "The New Life," is to be presented in the Auditorium next Sunday afternoon by the combined forces of the Apollo club, the Thomas orchestra, and the Chicago opera, has divided his time between the rehearsals of the opera and the choral society. Since he is to conduct the performance of the oratorio, the preparations for it have occasioned him more labor than the efforts of Mr. Campanini, Mme. White, Mr. Bassi, Mr. Sammarco, and the rest of Mr. Dippel's forces.

Lower Priced Opera Seats.

Andreas Dippel, general manager of the Chicago Grand Opera company, announced last night that the board of directors had decided to reduce the price of grand opera seats in a part of the balcony and in the first and second galleries.

The reductions, which affect more than 1,500 seats, are aimed to encourage attendance of those who do not feel able to buy the higher priced seats. They go into effect for the last week of opera in Chicago, beginning next Monday night. The revised scale of prices is:

Balcony (center), formerly $2.50, reduced to $2.

Balcony (rear), formerly $2, reduced to $1.

First gallery, formerly $1.50, reduced to 75 cents.

Second gallery, formerly $1, reduced to 50 cents.

Directors say that if there is a generous response on the part of the public the question of continuing the reduction for the season of 1912-1913 will receive serious consideration.

"The reduction," said Mr. Dippel, "will give thousands an opportunity of hearing grand opera who heretofore have felt that they could not afford to pay the prices. Never in America that I know of have such prices prevailed for grand opera of the highest standards."

Paris Ballet Goes on Strike.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The ballet at the opera went on strike tonight unexpectedly as the curtain was about to rise on the ballet Roussalka, which followed the presentation of "Monna Vanna." The manager apologized to the audience, which left the building. The members of the ballet demand the dismissal of two unpopular dancers, but the directors decline to accede to this demand.

GERHARDT'S HOSPITAL PLANS.

The facts brought out in Mr. Hewitt's articles on the Bartzen administration respecting the county hospital plans challenge public attention.

In the neighborhood of three million dollars of the taxpayers' money are to be spent on this new hospital. Unquestionably the plans should have been awarded upon competition, as the federal government building plans are, and as all public building plans should be. But Bartzen turned this important task over to his appointee and protégé, an architect, Paul Gerhardt, who can lay no fair claim to a place among the foremost of even our local architects. His plans have had no proper public criticism, and as a matter of fact have undergone some drastic and secret changes since they were first made.

Now bids are to be invited and this mysterious work is to proceed, unless the county board members opposed to Bartzen can check the proceeding.

Perhaps here is a chance for the City club or the Citizens' association to concentrate public attention upon a probable waste of public funds.

UNINTELLIGENT CRITICISM.

It is not possible to compliment Mr. Charles E. Merriam on the intelligence of his presentation of the character and record of Gov. Deneen. Mr. Merriam did not focus his lens when he attempted to take the political photograph of the governor, and what he got on his plate wholly lacks perspective and is valueless because of its distortions.

That Mr. Deneen has been a politician using the methods of organization politics has been conceded. There is a prevailing opinion that this has been one of his embarrassing limitations, and that it put definite bounds to the career of an intellectual, intelligent, and able man. He worked in organization politics, by organization politics, and with organization politics without rising sufficiently above it.

He arose under Lorimer, he broke with him, and he was willing to return to coöperate with him. Mr. Merriam has the right to emphasize these admitted facts, but what he would not do, if he were trying to be just or even intelligent, would be to create the impression that in Deneen the state has had nothing but a machine politician of the type from which it is seeking relief.

There has hardly been a time in Deneen's two administrations when he was not leagues in advance of his party organization, struggling to pull it up to him. There are only a few of the progressive principles which Deneen has not put in state platforms and in messages to the legislature. Some of these principles are now in the law of Illinois because Deneen is governor of the state.

When he made his first campaign for the governorship, Illinois was as completely boss ridden as Pennsylvania. If it had not been for Deneen the progressives now would be fighting for the elementals of their cause.

The state owes its direct primary law to Deneen and to no one else. He did not like the principle of it himself at first. Circumstances forced him to adopt it after his efforts to obtain a regulated convention primary law had failed in the courts. Then he forced the legislature to give the state the direct primary law. He brought the various branches of the state service up to a standard of efficiency which would be a credit to any administration. He ended the slush fund which had been the disgrace of preceding administrations. He has brought about a better regulation of common carriers than the state ever knew before. These and numerous other services of Deneen to Illinois are not the services of such a man as Mr. Merriam endeavors to portray.

The governor is open to criticism, but Mr. Merriam's criticism is out of focus, and for that reason worthless. He endeavors to fill the eye with certain characteristics of the governor and thus hide others.

THE GERMAN BALLOTING.

It was made evident by the first ballot in the German imperial elections that the tremendous pressure of social and economic forces has had its inevitable political effect. While the National Liberals or middle-of-the-road progressives have lost heavily, the Radicals seem likely to hold their own and the Socialists to pass their greatest former strength in the reichstag.

The votes cast on this first ballot are the best test of Socialist growth, owing to the inequalities of the representative system. The rule of representation is supposed to be one member of the reichstag for about every 150,000 inhabitants. But as reapportionment has not been allowed since Germany's tremendous growth the rate varies greatly. Hamburg, for example, had a population of about 875,000, according to the 1905 census, and should therefore have 5 or 6 representatives in the reichstag. It has only 3. Small principalities like Schwarzburg-Sondershausen, 85,000; Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, 96,000; Waldeck, 59,000; Schaumburg-Lippe, 44,000, each have a representative, though many districts of modern industrial and commercial Germany having far greater population have no large vote in the reichstag.

As these smaller federal units are chiefly rural and conservative, in combination they fortify the power of the conservative parties in the reichstag, the Conservatives and Catholic Centrists, and the great voting strength of the Liberals and Socialists is developed in vain. The Socialists polled in the neighborhood of 4,000,000 votes on Friday, which ought to teach even the German junker a lesson. The Catholic Center and the Conservative combination, the so-called Blue-Black bloc, will retain its power in the reichstag, but it will be greatly weakened in prestige.

It would seem that Germany may liberalize her political system before many years.

WOES OF THE ICE BUSINESS.

Mr. John S. Field, president of the Knickerbocker Ice company, completely fills out the picture of a cheerful and contented Octopus, a smiling and happy Octopus, serenely confident that all winds will blow in the direction in which he is going.

Mr. Field is charmingly and beamingly pessimistic. "I'm blessed how I can see how anybody could figure out how ice will be cheaper next summer," he is quoted as saying. The only thing that causes Mr. Field distress is that any one should attempt to figure it out. Ice? It's too cold for ice. Sometimes it's too warm for ice, and sometimes it's too cold for ice. It's never just right for ice.

How Mr. Field triumphs over the natural disadvantages of the ice business we do not know, but triumph he does, and retains his rollicking good nature. Possibly he is supported and encouraged by the hope that some year it will be just right for ice; some of these winters there will be balmy summer breezes overhead and it will be below zero only on the lakes; the little flowers will bloom on the banks and lilacs will perfume the air, but the lakes will freeze; it will not be too warm for ice and it will not be too cold for ice; it will be a good year for ice, and Mr. Field will be the first to show the manifestations of a great joy.

The price of ice then will be reduced and Mr. Field will be very, very happy.

THE OWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

Senator Kern, in Washington, hearing the testimony of Mr. Lorimer, had his curiosity aroused by the casual story of the workings of what is known in Illinois as the Owners' association.

By the term "Owners' association" the jovial legislative chattels recognize their political overlords, the bosses, big and little, in whom is vested control of the assembly. Mr. Lorimer described how some men voted this way and other men that way in accordance with the wishes of various owners.

"If they (the voters) are not to be considered as influencing their representatives," said Mr. Kern, "they are not in a free government."

The privilege of influencing the legislature was handed over long ago to the Owners' association. Of late years there has been a disposition to take the control away from them and return it to the people. Mr. Lorimer, endeavoring to explain to Mr. Kern, did not mention the fact that this disposition is regarded by him and his followers as a blow direct at the foundations of the republic, or that to combat the anarchistic movement which would create for the voters a "free government" all sober minded men are urged to place themselves under the protection of the Lincoln league.

Probably it was just as well. Senator Kern might not have been able to understand how any one outside of bedlam could appeal to any electorate to limit its own powers and increase that of its Owners' association.

During a season of extremely cold weather you seldom hear the doctors expatiating on the "bracing effect" of such weather on the human organism. They are kept too busy.

Do not imagine, either, that you have a "worse cold" than anybody else has. Your particular cold is too commonplace to talk about.

Without stronger proof than mere assertion we refuse to believe that a man froze his ears while taking a ride in a Sixty-third street car one day last week.

Pity the sorrows of a poor old workhorse condemned to haul a heavy load over the icy streets of downtown Chicago.

It may be that some patrons of the telephone company are "pleased" with those "nickel first" phones the company has installed in their dwellings, but the air is filled with the loud murmurings of victims who are NOT pleased with them.

Sympathetic persons who have been weeping over the story of Miss Violet Buehler may dry their tears. Violet is a self-possessed young woman who knows what she is doing and appears to be quite able to take care of herself.

Inspector Wheeler says the "red light district proper" extends from Twentieth to Twenty-second street. The inspector is painfully careless in the use of his adjectives.

One sweetly solemn thought comes to us o'er and o'er; there'll be a bigger ice crop than ever you've seen before.

Imagine a martyr with a blonde crown!

IN A MINOR KEY.

Supply Undiminished.

"Old chap, I believe I caught my cold from you."

"Well, I don't grudge you what you got of it; I have plenty left."

Perspective.

Raynor—The trouble with you is that you make a mountain out of a mole hill.

Shyne—Huh! The trouble with you is that you make a whole range of mountains out of it.

Unprepared for That.

"This, I presume," said the editor of the weekly magazine, glancing at the manuscript which the rising young author had handed him, "is a detective story."

"No, sir," responded the caller; "I have never written a detective story."

"Please hand me a glass of water!" gasped the editor, turning frightfully pale.

Lesson from the Past.

The Chinese were resenting one of the early attempts to take a national census.

"It's some Roosevelt chap trying to take a straw vote!" they exclaimed.

With stones and much weird profanity they drove the enumerators out of their houses.

Their Wives Settle It.

Mrs. Brooks—You don't suppose there's a smoking room in heaven, do you?

Mrs. Rivers—No; the other place has the smoking rooms.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

PNEUMONIA AND DRINKERS.

Fat people and heavy drinkers are afraid of colds and pneumonia. On the one hand, they are more subject to infection, and, on the other, infection is more dangerous to them than to lean people or those who are habitually temperate. Their fears are justified. There is more than one reason for the hyper-susceptibility of these groups.

The human animal at best has not a capacious nose. Its passages are large enough in healthy children, but, by the time adult life is reached, certain bones are larger and the airway is smaller. In fat people, this normally small space is further encroached on by fat. Not being able to get enough air through the nose they take in a good deal through the mouth. They are notorious snorers. Mouth breathers and partial mouth breathers are more subject to colds than nose breathers.

Fat people and alcoholics are badly out of nutritional balance, hence they are unduly subject to colds and pneumonia. What frightens them worse, these conditions go hard with them. When a person is fat his system is cluttered with an excess of food which is stowed away under the skin, around the heart, anywhere to get rid of it. When food and alcohol are taken together, the alcohol is burned and the food clogs the tissues just as the oil burns out of a lamp wick and leaves the wick nearly as it was.

When the obese or drinking man, or the two in one, finds himself with pneumonia, he is poisoned by the toxins of pneumonia plus an embarrassing amount of food and drink but partly changed into compounds ready to make tissue. Pneumonia at best is a hard fight. The fighting forces of the sick man hardly have a fair chance when they are further burdened by these incumbrances.

If the muscle fibers of the heart are obstructed by fat they cannot work as advantageously as when they are clean. And finally, the man who has learned to lean on alcohol has not much in reserve for this trial of strength.

Obese people and alcoholics do not have the same chance to recover from pneumonia as others. This does not mean that they stand no chance. It means that, instead of having a six-to-one chance, they have, say, a three or two-to-one.

SUGGESTS CURE FOR SNORING.

E. R. N. writes: "If one's nose is large enough to perform its normal function, it is easy to stop sleeping with the mouth open or snoring. The victim should take a strip of court plaster about one-quarter of an inch wide and one inch long, stick one-half to the upper lip when ready to retire, and when in bed moisten and stick the other half to the lower lip. This is an entirely safe and sure cure. It will cure many cases of sore throat. This is especially valuable for children in teaching them to sleep with the mouth closed."

REPLY.

Snorers might try this.

ADVISES FRESH AIR.

T. A. writes that a friend of his has tubercle bacilli in her sputum. She has been ill for about a year. His physician advises "fresh air, nothing to worry her, and the best of food." Is this right?

REPLY.

It is. Have your physician get her into the best fresh air sanitarium available.

GIVING UP TOBACCO.

Repentant writes: "I am 60 years old and in fairly good health. I was married at 20. I have chewed tobacco ever since I was 21. I smoke a pipe a great deal. My wife, a refined woman, has always seriously objected and felt I wronged her and the babies by polluting the air they were compelled to breathe, and she has felt disgust for kisses from tobacco lips. In fact, tobacco has seriously marred our otherwise happy life. My daughters feel humiliated and ashamed of their old dad, and I am ashamed of myself, and would like to do one decent thing before I die and quit. Can I quit with safety? Will it impair my health or shorten my life? I want to quit, but am afraid my will power will not carry me safely through. Is there anything that will help me? Do I need a tonic? How long will it take to get the nicotine out of my system? Will my brain ever be as clear and quick as though I had not used the 'weed'?"

REPLY.

1. Yes.

2. No. Assuming that you are a tobacco fiend, continuing your habit may impair your health and shorten your life. Stopping will not. Those habit cases which show impairment after stopping were impaired by the drugs and not by the absence of them.

3. All habit cures operate through the mind. You will succeed, if you have confidence in your success and determination enough to put up with the inconvenience while you are ridding yourself of the habit.

4. Your physician must decide that.

5. Practically speaking, you will have the "nicotine" out of your system in, say, three days. It will take some weeks, say two, for your poisoned nerves to get back their normal chemistry. You will be months getting your habits readjusted on a nontobacco basis.

6. The good effects of tobacco on the mind are the results of suggestion. As an illustration: The man who takes a pipe composes himself and thinks calmly; does it not by reason of any medicine, but because of auto suggestion. He has trained himself to the routine pipe—calm thinking. If, when he stops smoking, he restrains himself to the same degree of efficiency by using some other method of suggestion, his brain will work satisfactorily. Quitting and getting on a new basis are both up to the man.

KEEP TEMPERATURE AROUND 60.

J. P. E. writes: "When a 2 year old baby has bronchitis, is it best to keep the room in which the child sleeps cool, warm, or hot? Will it help the infant's breathing if water is stood around the room to moisten the air? The room in question is heated by a hot air furnace, and I think the air is too dry. How is the best way to overcome this trouble?"

REPLY.

A child with bronchitis will get well more quickly if the room temperature is kept around 60 degrees. The windows should be open enough so that the air always feels fresh. A room in which the temperature is 60 degrees and the air is fresh will not need pans of water standing around.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1912: By the Brentwood Company.]

Royalty dislikes being preached at, and has given frequent demonstration of its sentiments in this connection, since the days when Queen Elizabeth of England angrily interrupted the prelate in the midst of his discourse, which she considered was getting too personal, by roughly ordering him to "go back to his text."

The late Queen Victoria was equally impatient, and during her long reign of more than sixty years there were quite a number of important divines who incurred her wrath by preaching at her when invited to occupy the pulpit in her presence. It did not matter she was preached at in terms of loyal commendation or of condemnation. She considered the one in just as execrable taste as the other, as an act of disrespect and of irreverence. Indeed, it was for having offended her in this particular on one memorable occasion that she vetoed the name of Bishop Samuel Wilberforce of Winchester on each of the several ocasions that he was nominated by the premier of the day for preferment to the primacy of all England and to the dignity of archbishop of Canterbury.

The most recent case of a divine incurring imperial wrath in this connection is the Hungarian Bishop Prochaska, who in the course of an address last week to a large gathering of women of rank and wealth at Budapest, assembled for the purpose of promoting mission work and charity among the poor, went out of his way to roundly apostrophize and denounce the Archduchess Augustine, wife of the Archduke Joseph, and through her mother a grandchild of Emperor Francis Joseph, for "parading in silk and satin dresses, plumed picture hats, and diamonds" when visiting the poor, when inspecting charitable institutions, and when engaged in all those many philanthropic enterprises in which she is interested.

Now, there is no kinder hearted woman in existence than Archduchess Augustine. She is not beautiful, and she has no great pretensions to elegance. In fact, she is most simple and unaffected in her manner and character, and during the nineteen years that have elapsed since her marriage, all of which she has spent at Budapest, or at one or another of her husband's country seats in Hungary, she has devoted herself to public and private charities, especially to the latter, taking the initiative in innumerable philanthropic enterprises, and winning for herself the most unbounded popularity among the poor and the suffering at Budapest.

While at home and in ordinary life she is quiet and almost severely plain in her dress, resembling in this respect her murdered grandmother, Empress Elisabeth, as also the queens of England and of Norway, the two czarinas of Russia, and Queen Maria Christina of Spain, she makes a point of arraying herself with particular splendor when visiting the poor.

Then, too, she knows that the poor look for splendor in royalty, and that they are disappointed when they do not find it, and, finally, she realizes that poor people seldom have the opportunity of being brought into close touch with beautiful dresses and magnificent jewels, and that by donning them she gives them pleasure. It is the same feeling that prompts the officers' wives of the crack regiments of the German, Austrian, and English armies to don their finest gowns and their most beautiful jewels when attending regimental entertainments given either by the noncommissioned officers or by the rank and file, who regard this in the light of a compliment.

The bishop added that the archduchess would do far better to wear the commonest of cotton or serge dresses when going about among the poor, and in giving this advice showed an ignorance of the true state of affairs and of the real sentiment among the poor that is, to say the least, astonishing. Had the attack of the prelate been addressed to any other member of the imperial family it would have been in questionable taste. But that it should have been aimed at Archduchess Augustine, of all people in the world, has excited a good deal of indignation, as a piece of singularly misdirected zeal and injustice, which is likely to be resented nowhere more than at Rome.

Archduke Joseph, the husband of Princess Augustine, commands as general of division the troops at Budapest, where he resides as the permanent representative of the reigning house of Hapsburg, and, like his father and grandfather and namesakes before him, is far more Hungarian than Austrian, while his wife is, if not de jure at any rate de facto, the first lady of the land in Hungary. His grandfather, Archduke Joseph, was palatine of Hungary as long as the latter was an autonomous province, that is to say, until the revolution of 1849, and while the office has ceased since Hungary has become a virtually independent kingdom, still, at the same time, it cannot be denied that the present Archduke Joseph, like his father before him, fills, at any rate in a social sense, the rôle of palatine of the Magyars. One of his sisters is married to the Duke of Orleans, and another is the wife of the head of the princely and ducal house of Thurn and Taxis.

Lord Herbert, who is due in New York tomorrow, from England, on board the Olympic, with Lady Beatric Herbert, youngest sister of the present Marquis of Anglesey, is the eldest son and heir of the fourteenth Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, is captain of the Royal Horse guards, is one of England's crack polo players, and has an American aunt, in the person of Lelia Lady Herbert, sister of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, daughter of the late Richard T. Wilson of New York, and widow of Sir Michael Herbert, who died as British ambassador to the United States.

Lord Herbert, like the other members of his house, is blessed with good looks, good manners, and many accomplishments, due perhaps to the numerous foreign affiliations of his family. Thus the seventh Earl of Pembroke married a particularly lovely Frenchwoman, sister of that Louise de Querouailles, who was one of the most famous of the favorites of Charles II., and by him the ancestress of the Dukes of Richmond. The eleventh earl married the only daughter of Simon, Count Woronzoff, who was for so many years Russian ambassador in London; while the late Sir Michael Herbert was only keeping up the family tradition in this respect when he led to the altar Miss Lelia Wilson of New York.

Lord Herbert, when his father dies, will inherit the latter's great carpet manufacturing business. At the time when the French Protestant weavers were driven from their native land by the revocation of the edict of Nantes and sought refuge in England, a large number of them settled at Wilton. There they prospered, and received a charter from William III, which formed the skilled workmen into a corporate body, prohibiting any person not licensed by the guild from setting up carpet works within ten miles of Wilton. Most of the weavers lived on Lord Pembroke's Wilton house estates. A few years ago Lord Pembroke, finding the business in difficulties, formed a company, in conjunction with Lord Radnor and Lord Islington, for assuming control of the industry, which has now become extremely prosperous, Wilton carpets and rugs enjoying world wide fame, owing to the care with which they are made, each knot of wool being tied separately, there being nearly 300,000 knots to every square yard.

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

PROPERTIUS SINGS.

Sir: My friend Q. H. Flaccus is all swelled up over his slangy paraphrases in your World's Greatest Book of Verses, and has been going around Helngon reciting them aloud. Will you permit me to horn into the Colyum with the inclosed shot at your delightful vernacular? Thanks. Yours warmly, PROPERTIUS.

Helngon, Jan. 16.

Book I. Elegy I.

Fair Cynthia was first to undo me,
I fell for her beautiful eyes;
And soon every Roman that knew me
To my indiscretions got wise.
Some gait has yours truly been going—
I've hit all the high-spots of sin;
The wild oats that I have been sowing
Would fill, crede mihi, a bin.

Milanion, who loved Atalanta,
Succeeded by being a pest—
Contriving at last to implant a
Reciprocal love in her breast;
But I've been so long off the woo stuff,
I'm either a boob or too bold;
I'm jerry to none of the new stuff,
And I have forgotten the old.

Ye abracadabra professors,
Ye wizards and ringers of bells,
Compounders of pills, and possessors
Of magical passwords and spells,
Get next to the dame of my fancy,
And make me look good in her sight;
Come on with your damned necromancy,
Or else, for Propertius, good night!

Oh, me for the wings of the morning,
The uttermost parts of the earth!
I'd leave to all lovers a warning,
To chew on for all it is worth.
And this my advice (if you ask it):
From paths that are primrose refrain!
Put all of your eggs in one basket,
The love that is safe and is sane.

WE observed the other day that the Christmas holidays enabled the young people to sit up till midnight and after, storing up energy against a resumption of their school work. The New York Evening Post prints a letter from a school principal, which expresses a doubt that the vacation is wholly beneficial.

"AFTER the holidays," he writes, "sometimes the entire school month of January, sometimes a longer time, is spent in regaining the health and strength that have been dissipated during the vacation." He suggests a moderation of social engagements and of the hours devoted to them.

THIS educator seems to be somewhat o. f. "We have accepted the care of your daughter as a serious responsibility," he concludes. "May we not ask that the matter which we are presenting to you may receive your careful consideration?" At least there can be no objection to his asking.

For Exchange.

I. C. Commutation Ticket, Hyde Park to city, for January; good as new. Will exchange for E-flat wooden leg, or what have you? Address this Colyum.

OF necessity every newspaper prints m. or l. superfluous information, but some things are so trite and obvious that there is no excuse for publishing them, much less putting them on the first page. Fregsample, the announcement that ice will not be any cheaper next summer because of the recent stretch of zero weather.

The Friend of the People.

W. R. I. A. A.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Time: Saturday morning, Jan. 6, 8:25 o'clock. Temperature: 7 below zero. Waited ten minutes for a west bound Fifty-ninth-Sixty-first street car at Michigan avenue. Motorman attempted to stop but car slid about 150 feet past crossing. As I started to walk towards car conductor on car No. 2396 rang bell to go ahead, leaving me walking in the street. I have written the Chicago City Railway company, as this performance has occurred many times before, but they do not seem to relieve the situation. Other people in the neighborhood have complained of the same treatment, which happens not only in winter but in summer.

SUBSCRIBER.

The answer of the company follows: "Returning herewith letter of 'Subscriber' regarding Fifty-ninth-Sixty-first street service, we beg to advise that this matter will receive investigation and attention.

"CHICAGO CITY RAILWAY COMPANY."

Chicago, Jan. 14.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Has any one ever witnessed a more flagrant case of "the people be damned" policy than the action of the Chicago Telephone company to install their "tick tick" device in open defiance of the protests of the people and of the spirit of the recently passed ordinance? The ordinance was certainly as liberal to the telephone company as they could expect and yet they go about this business in a way to evade the spirit of the ordinance completely. If they had no fear of the voice of the subscribers why did they arrange to make it impossible for them to file any objections?

When we want any service from them in the way of changes or installation they require at least fifteen days' notice from us and we get the service at their pleasure. This may be necessary, but why is not the other party to the "contract"—the subscriber—entitled to the same privilege? It seems that even a large corporation is capable of making a quick move when it comes to "putting something over" on the public.

For my part I would do without a residence telephone rather than have one of these devices installed, but it is not my purpose here to discuss the relative merits of the different kinds of equipment. The outrage lies in the attempt to evade the wishes of the subscribers and compel them to take something they do not want. If the council allows them to put this over we might as well drop all attempts at telephone legislation and give them free scope, and our only hope for relief will lie in the automatic. We certainly cannot hope for much from their "assurance that the service will be improved," when that "improvement" has to be put into effect on a few hours' notice, in order to evade an ordinance or the people's wishes.

NO SIDEWALK CLEANING LAW.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I have lived in eastern cities for some years and have noticed that within twelve hours after snow has fallen that the sidewalks are swept absolutely clean and a trench made at the side of the street. This makes walking very pleasant—as compared with our icy or sloppy sidewalks. Have we no laws governing this point? J. L. F.

We have answered this question many times. The courts have held that the sidewalk space belonged to the city, and declared null a law we once had which compelled residence owners to clean the walks.

THOSE WHO SIT IN DARKNESS.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—A number of complaints have been made on street cars running on Archer avenue to the limits on account of conductors turning off the lights, letting the people sit in darkness when they could well spend the time in reading their evening papers. Inquiring, I find that this is done to benefit the motormen to see a farther distance. If that is the case it would be well to provide curtains for the doors of the cars in place of having the passengers sit in the dark. I have noticed often these lights are turned out after leaving Rockwell street going towards the limits.

ONE OF THE PASSENGERS.

We beg to advise that the matter in question will receive prompt attention.

NO APPROPRIATION FOR SAND.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Replying to query of Mr. C. A. Peterson as to how much will it cost the city of Chicago to spread a thin coating of sand on our slippery streets, I beg leave to advise that this would largely depend on the amount of streets to be covered. I beg to state, however, that there is no appropriation made for this purpose.

DUMPED OUT IN THE COLD.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Does the city of Chicago permit the Chicago Railways company to dump their passengers at a switch so that the crew can switch their car? At 7:40 a. m. I boarded Taylor street car No. 1224, run No. , at Winthrop court. When we reached Paulina street, conductor No. 2578 ordered motorman No. 1917 to switch. The result was we had to wait out on the cold street corner about ten minutes for the next car. This performance has been going on quite regularly for the last few weeks by this same crew.

A. ARENBERG.

Immediate attention will be given to this complaint. Trainmen have instructions not to turn back cars except in case of a blockade or some other unavoidable delay.

CHICAGO RAILWAYS COMPANY.

MISSING CARS AT CROSSINGS.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—[To the Friend of the People.]—What possible remedy can you advance to improve the condition existing at present among street car conductors? It is this: A person may stand on a nearside crossing to take their car, another car happens to be stopping in front of the car you want. The car you desire is close behind. If you happen to run up to take this car it probably starts up before you get there. Then you retrace your steps in an endeavor to catch the car, with the presumption that it will stop at the corner, when it moves right along and fails to stop because of the car in front having delayed it. Now people may be seen at any time of the day running in a distracted fashion, hither and thither, in a vain endeavor to catch their car. Cannot these conductors be made to understand that they must stop at the nearside crossing, regardless of whether there happens to be another car in front of them that has previously stopped? This complaint is well taken, as scores of people are sufferers every day because of this condition.

JULES VINCENT.

In the downtown district this is a difficult matter to remedy, owing to congestion of traffic. Men and women miss cars continually, as the correspondent says, by the sudden moving ahead at the signal of the traffic policemen. We do not see how it can be helped without great loss of time by the cars.

This is the essence of hundreds of letters from the counties visited by the senator. Voters in the down state districts will have something to say as to the people's nominees.

"SOMEBODY FORGETS."

Chicago, Jan. 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A little boy living in a poverty stricken section of a great city, found his way into a mission Sunday school and became a Christian. One day, not long after, some one tried to shake the child's faith by asking him some puzzling questions:

"If God really loves you, why doesn't he take better care of you? Why doesn't he tell some one to send you a pair of shoes, or else coal enough so that you can keep warm this winter?" The boy thought a moment and then said, as the tears rushed to his eyes: "I guess he does tell somebody, and somebody forgets."

Is it not high time for the ones who are able to assist in the alleviation of the present suffering to ask themselves:

"Am I among those who forget?"

I am sure this little story will prove a wedge into the coffers of some who have not "opened up" to the poor. May God help them to do so.

THE ADVANCE IN COAL.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 12.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Chicago papers announce an advance of $1 per ton on coal. This applies, especially to the coal used by the very poor. Why could not all coal be confiscated by the city in this emergency case, and sold at cost or given away to those who need it? While supply and demand to a great extent regulate prices of all commodities, I do not believe that any corporation has a moral right to advance prices on fuel when people are freezing to death and cannot possibly get fuel elsewhere.

The same thing applies to food. Confiscate all food if necessary and prevent any dealer from making exorbitant profits. To the rich and middle class it matters not much if the living expenses for January and February are doubled, but it is h—l for the poor.

The impudent smoker now indulges the nonsmoking public with the privilege of standing outside in the cold if they do not like the medley perfume of the waiting room or car or other place of common rights. I never see a man smoke but I feel he will either swear or tell obscene jokes if I open conversation with him. And to drink from the same cup where a tobacco mustache has been dipped, O horrors!

WHY DO THERMOMETERS BURST?

Savanna, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Will some one kindly explain the circumstance of the bursting of the thermometers reported in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 11? I have always understood that water was an exception to the otherwise universal rule that substances continue to shrink as the temperature is lowered, and in the case of mercurial or spirit thermometers, I can see no explanation of the "bursting" claimed in the above report. Mercury freezes, I think, at 40 below zero, and the natural inference would be that its continuous contraction would allow it to rattle around loose in the bulb of the instrument, not to burst it. Alcohol, I think, never has been frozen. Then why this destruction of "all thermometers" at Cook, Minn.?

G. W. JOHNSON.

LAKE LEVELS AND THE CANAL.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It seems to me that before the authorities at Washington decide further to restrict the flow of water through the drainage channel, they should become better informed as to the facts in the case. I maintain that the flow of water through the channel has no effect upon the stage of water in Lake Michigan for the following reasons. I have made observations covering every year from 1894 to the present time. In 1896 the stage of water was at its lowest point. This was long before the channel was opened or any water admitted thereto. The water in the lake soon after began to rise, and during the summer of 1909 attained its maximum height.

This was long after the drainage channel had been opened and the water been flowing through it. In the latter part of 1909 the water in the lake began to fall again, and last year, 1911, it was, according to the reports of the government officers in Michigan, only 5-100 of a foot higher than in 1896. We have periods of high and low water in Lake Michigan and it will rise again when the time arrives, notwithstanding the flow through the channel. As I figure out, the variation between high and low water varies from 18 inches to nearly 24 inches.

ROOSEVELT WINS IN HIGHEST COURT

Baldwin Decision, Which He Declared to Be in Error, Is Knocked Out.

MANY CRITICS HUSHED.

Tangle Over the Liability Law Aroused Storm Against Former President.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The Supreme court of the United States today upheld Theodore Roosevelt in his controversy of a year ago with Gov. Simeon Baldwin of Connecticut, formerly chief justice of the Connecticut Supreme court.

Because Mr. Roosevelt said Baldwin's decision declaring the employers' liability act was unconstitutional, and that the courts of Connecticut had no right or reason to permit proceedings in purely state courts under a federal statute was bad law, and worse morality, he was assailed by the reactionary forces of the country more fiercely than he had ever been assailed before.

Here was a man, the reactionary newspapers declared, who, with no legal training, refused to regard as sacred the opinions of great judges, because those opinions did not happen to agree with his own peculiar views.

Holds Baldwin Wrong Twice.

Today the Supreme court, in an opinion read by Justice Van Devanter, in which the entire membership of the court concurred, overruled both points made by Judge Baldwin and sustained absolutely the position taken by Roosevelt.

The court made no mention of Mr. Roosevelt's name, nor did his controversy with Judge Baldwin enter into the proceedings. But the case passed upon by the court was the one with reference to which Roosevelt had criticised Baldwin, and the court solemnly affirmed that Baldwin was wrong in his ruling, just as Roosevelt had said he was.

The fact that the effect of the ruling was to place the Supreme court in absolute accord with Theodore Roosevelt was discussed all over the capital, and the suggestion, jestingly offered, that the tribunal had joined the Roosevelt movement, was heard on every side. Friends of the former president assert the decision demonstrates that a man of clear perceptions and understanding of what is due the public from the courts is justified in criticising the court which has ignored its responsibilities.

Decision Is Unanimous.

The decision, which was unanimous, was given after nearly a year's consideration. It upholds the employers' liability law enacted by congress in 1908 to take the place of a similar act declared unconstitutional. The decision marks an epoch in labor legislation.

The old common law, hedging in the rights of employes, is displaced in several particulars by the statute as approved today. Notable among these is the abolition of the "fellow servant doctrine" and the substitution of a law making employers liable for the negligence of an employé resulting in injury to an interstate employé. Furthermore, it frees the employé from "contributory negligence" in many instances, and limits the effect of the doctrine in others, and likewise in many cases liberates the employé from assuming the risk when he enters employment knowing the danger in his employment.

In the Bessie Babcock case from Montana, the Mary A. Walsh case from Massachusetts, and the Edgar G. Mondou case from Connecticut, the law was attacked seemingly from every conceivable point of view.

Justice Van Devanter, in announcing the opinion of the court, considered these objections and rejected each.

He first decided that congress had the power to regulate the duties of the common carriers in respect to the safety of their employés while both are engaged in commerce among the states and the liability of the former for injuries sustained by the latter.

"Both have a real or substantial relation to interstate commerce, and therefore are within the range of this power," said the justice.

Policy Fixed by Congress.

Justice Van Devanter considered the position advanced by Judge Baldwin of the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors that Connecticut could not enforce the law because its public policy was contrary to the law.

"The suggestion that the act of congress is not in harmony with the policy of the state, and therefore that the courts of the state are free to decline jurisdiction, is quite inadmissible," said Justice Van Devanter, "because it presupposes what in legal contemplation does not exist. When congress, in the exertion of the power confided to it by the constitution adopted that act, it spoke for all the people and all the states, and thereby established a policy for all. That policy is as much the policy of Connecticut as if the act had emanated from its own legislature, and should be respected accordingly in the courts of the state."

Justice Van Devanter said the court was not disposed to believe the exercise of jurisdiction by the state courts would be attended by any appreciable inconvenience or confusion.

Roosevelt Silent on Action.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Theodore Roosevelt was returning to Sagamore Hill after a three hour wood chopping expedition when told this evening of the Supreme court decision upholding the employers' liability act. After reading a brief extract of the decision, Col. Roosevelt said he would make no comment until he had an opportunity to see the complete text of the decision. The colonel was plainly elated, however.

To Restore Lustre to Dull, Stringy Hair

"It requires no great effort to have long, soft, glossy hair," says Mrs. Mae Martyn in the Buffalo Press. "The only requirement is that it be washed occasionally with a harmless mixture. This will give the hair a chance to help itself, and when this is done bright, fluffy hair follows.

"Nothing can equal plain canthrox, a teaspoonful of which dissolved in a cup of hot water is enough for a good shampoo. This should be poured slowly on the head and rubbed briskly. The rich, creamy lather created cleanses and invigorates the scalp and hair roots, and rinsing leaves the hair sweet, clean and fluffy. After a canthrox shampoo the hair dries quickly and evenly and if these shampoos are employed when required the hair will come in long and thick."—Advt.

WINS FIGHT ON MOTIONS.

Opposes Paying for Work He Thinks Gerhardt Should Do.

Several "spats" enlivened the county board meeting yesterday. Charges of political motives were freely exchanged. One cause of discussion was the proposed payment of $187 to William Feeney for surveying the site of the new county hospital. Commissioner Busse voted "No."

"You ought to leave your politics outside when you come into a board meeting, commented Commissioner Gleeson.

"That's what I say," assented Mr. Busse.

The proposed payment of the bill was lost. Mr. Busse contended it was a duty of the county architect to do the surveying without extra compensation.

Bartzen Digs Busse.

The board voted to open a relief station for the county agent's department at Kensington to supply the poor with assistance in cold weather. Mr. Busse voted for this after being assured it was to be only a temporary station.

"If you want to be reëlected, vote 'yes,'" advised President Bartzen of the board, addressing Mr. Busse.

"You don't need to tell me what to do," flashed back Mr. Busse.

Busse Opposes Contract.

A similar exchange of words was had over the approval of the bond of S. Krug, who has a contract for wrecking the old buildings at the county hospital. Mr. Busse opposed this, not liking details of the contract. The motion to approve was lost.

Four attorneys asked $280 as pay for defending the murderers of Fred W. Guelzow, truck gardener. The attorneys were A. J. Bedard, E. B. Esher, George Dreiske, and E. J. Carey.

Louisiana Supreme Court Holds That a Negro May Occupy Seat in the "White" Section.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The Supreme court of Louisiana, in a decision handed down today, held that a negro has a vested right to a seat in a street car, despite the "Jim Crow" law in effect in New Orleans and other Louisiana cities, and that he cannot be moved from a seat in the white compartment of a car provided there is not a seat in the negro section.

JURY SEES DYNAMITE CODE; "PING" LETTERS DIRECT ACTS.

Federal Body at Indianapolis Told by McManigal About Blowing Up of Certain Structures by Gang.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 15.—Telegrams and letters signed "Ping," purporting to contain a code giving instructions about viaducts, bridges, and buildings that were to be blown up, were read before the federal grand jury today in connection with Ortie McManigal's confession regarding the dynamite conspiracy.

This signature, according to McManigal, was not that of the McNamaras, but was used by another person whom he named. McManigal said in response to a telegram from "Ping" he went to Cleveland in June, 1910, and there blew up a viaduct, for which "Ping" paid him $125 in Toledo. McManigal's movements in Pittsburgh and his arrangement to have a supply of nitroglycerin stored in an old shop at Rochester, Pa., also were arranged by "Ping."

Because of his belief that "Ping" was receiving $200 for each "job," and was giving him only $125, McManigal says he refused to work with him, and later arranged through John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, to do "jobs" with the aid of James B. McNamara.

P. W. Murphy, a merchant of Springfield, Ill., is expected to testify tomorrow concerning the dynamiting of his plant on March 8, 1911.

A Home Recipe for Removing Wrinkles

Who will blame the modern woman for trying to look as young and attractive as she reasonably can? Why should she be placed at a disadvantage in numerous ways by wearing wrinkles, if she can avoid these hateful marks of advancing age?

Few women, however, know what to do to effectually rid themselves of wrinkles or sagginess. None of the advertised preparations is satisfactory and most of them are very expensive. But a very simple and harmless home remedy, which any woman can make, will work wonders where all the patent preparations fail.

Buy an ounce of powdered saxolite at any drug store. Dissolve the whole ounce in a half pint of witch hazel and use it as a wash lotion. The results are practically instantaneous. Marked improvement is noticed immediately after the very first trial. Wrinkles and sagging are corrected and the face feels so refreshed and snug-like.—Advt.

CHAMPION TRAPS N. Y. COMMISSION

Johnson Will Bar Those Who Fight There Unless His Ban Is Removed.

CALLS WAGER OF BRADY.

Curley Goes East After Saying Flynn-Palzer Bout May Be Declared Off.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Jack Johnson is going to try to get even with the boxing commission of New York, which recently handed down an edict that the champion would not be allowed to box in the state. Jack says he will place on the blacklist any fighter who boxes in New York. Johnson is bitter toward Tom O'Rourke and the boxing commission and beleves the stand he has taken will keep a number of fighters from boxing in the Empire state.

If Johnson sticks to his new stand the Flynn-Palzer fight will be called off if the Pueblo fighter wants to get a chance at the title. The champion is aware of the fact the bout between Flynn and Palzer will draw a large house and, in taking his stand, will knock O'Rourke out of a neat little sum.

The champion said the talk of William Brady wanting to wager $10,000 that Johnson cannot stop Palzer inside of ten rounds was rot. If Brady is sincere in his statement, all he has to do is to put up some real money, Jack says, and it will be covered as quickly as it is put up.

Jack Curley received a telegram from Gardbridge, Nev., which has offered $100,000 for the Flynn-Johnson fight, saying the western club will place $100,000 in any reliable bank as soon as the fighters put up their forfeits. Curley believes the offer is reliable, and he is going to give the matter serious consideration.

Johnson's new edict has thrown a scare into Curley, who is Flynn's manager. Yesterday Curley said he is going to wait a couple of days before doing anything definite. If Johnson will retract his statement, and if he does not the Flynn-Palzer fight will be canceled. Curley left for Toronto, Canada, last night, where Flynn has been matched to meet Al Kubiak in a ten round bout tomorrow night.

Harry Forbes put in a strenuous day at Gilmore's training for his bout with Johnny Coulon at Kenosha, Wis., Monday night. The former champion boxed with Ole Olson and Freddie Whittingham, and finished with a lot of gymnasium exercise. Harry is doing all his boxing under the watchful eye of Harry Gilmore Sr., the veteran boxing instructor, and the teacher is doing everything possible to have Forbes in the best of shape when he steps into the ring. Forbes is close to the stipulated weight, 116 pounds, and Gilmore asserted he will fight better at this figure than he would if the weight was a few pounds heavier.

Champion Johnny Coulon is doing all his work at the Shakespeare police station, in Logan square. Johnny is not saying much, but he will be in the best of shape on the night of the fight. His quick and decisive victory over George Kitson showed he has not lost any of the speed or hitting power which have made him king of the bantams.

Willie Ritchie and Eddie Murphy, the Boston lightweight, will be matched today to fight twelve rounds at Cleveland, O., on Jan. 26. Managers Thirty and McBride held a long conference yesterday which will result in the signing of articles and posting of forfeits today. The weight will be 135 pounds at 3 o'clock.

George "Knockout" Brown, who is in training for his fight with Frank Klaus at Pittsburgh on Jan. 27, took a strenuous workout at O'Connell's. He boxed two rounds with Jack Johnson and four with Walter Monahan.

Charley White, who has been matched to meet Battling Schultz at Windsor, Canada, tomorrow night, will leave for the Canadian city today. White boxed eight rounds with some of the boxers who frequent the State street gymnasium, and he will do a little work before he leaves today.

Jack White did a lot of work at Gilmore's in preparation for his ten round contest with Tommy Dixon on Jan. 26 at Kansas City. White and his manager, Fred Gilmore, will go through to the coast after the Dixon fight. The local boxer has been promised a match with Joe Rivers some time in February.

Jack Herrick finished hard training for his ten round go with Steve McGinley at Peoria on Thursday night. Jack boxed eight rounds four of which were his brother, Harry, and the other four with Fred Gilmore.

"Chuck" Larson, the Grand Crossing lightweight, yesterday received an offer to meeet "Knockout" Brown of New York in a ten round bout at the eastern metropolis the latter part of the month. Larson accepted the terms and the match is expected to be closed today.

AUTO MISHAP COSTS RIVERS $25

Pugilist Fined in Los Angeles for Not Reporting His Accident to the Police.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Joe Rivers, the pugilist, was fined $25 today by Police Judge Fredericksen for not having reported to the police that, while driving an automobile on Friday night he struck and seriously injured José Sanchez. Sanchez is in a serious condition and may die. It was not known until twenty-four hours after the accident that it was Rivers who struck Sanchez. Sanchez was crossing the street and Rivers was racing at a high rate of speed, it is said.

KLAUS HAS SHADE ON HOWARD.

Chicago Boxer Worries Pittsburgh Man, but Is Knocked Down in the Second Round.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 15.—Jimmy Howard of Chicago and Frank Klaus of Pitsburgh went six fast rounds here tonight and the fight on popular decision was given to Klaus. In the second round Howard was knocked down and all but took the count. In the remaining rounds, however, he worried Klaus, landing freely but lightly on the Pittsburgher. Klaus was never in great distress throughout the bout.

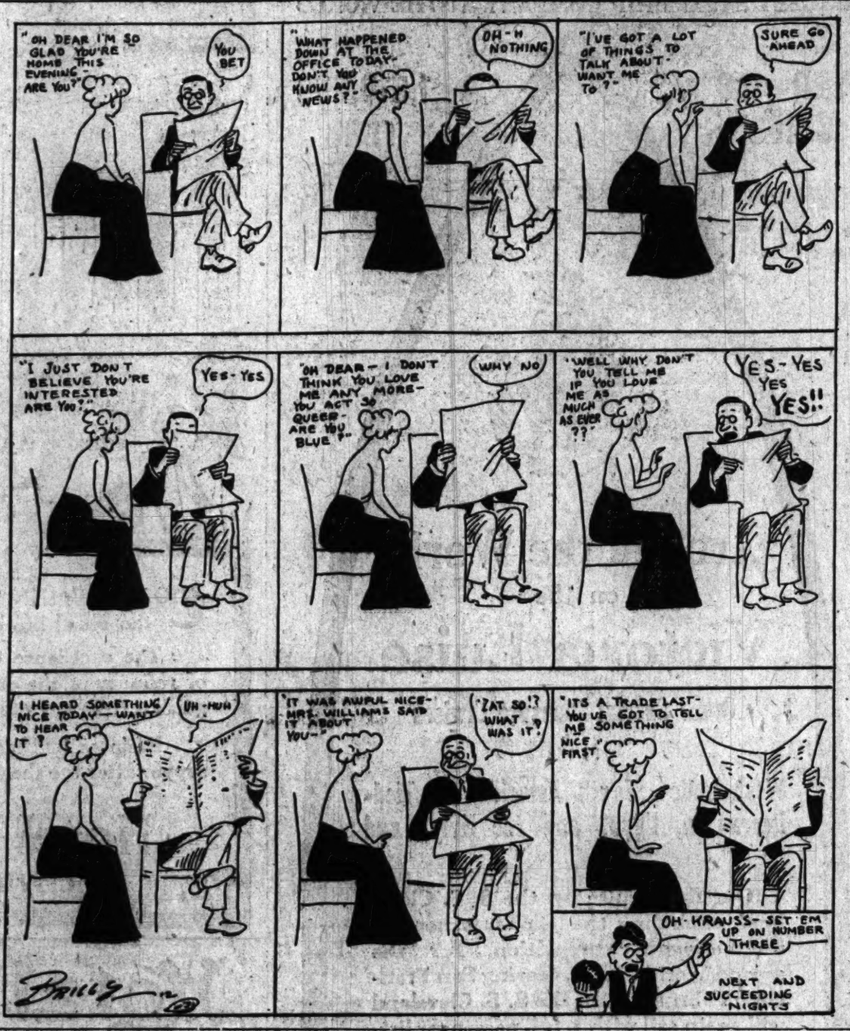
Indoor Golf Match to Gardner.

Stewart Gardner, the Exmoor professional, defeated Al Naylor, the Idlewild expert, in a match at the indoor golf school yesterday afternoon, winning 1 up. There is a strong rivalry between the men and the contest was for a substantial stake. Naylor was not satisfied with the outcome and challenged the tall Troon player for a return match, which will be played tomorrow. Members of the Idlewild and Ravisloe clubs will compete in a tournament tomorrow night.

WHY SOME MEN LEAVE HOME.



WINDSOR CURLERS DEFEATED

Locals Trim Canadians Twice at the Wanderers' Club.

TOTAL SCORE IS 25 TO 21.

Skip Kelso Wins in Afternoon and Skip Murray in Evening.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Local curlers won both of their matches played against the Windsor Curling club at the Wanderers' club, at Parkside, yesterday. The Canadians brought two rinks and played against rinks from the Chicago and Wanderers' clubs in the afternoon and evening.

The Wanderers won their match, 25 to 21, Skip Kelso defeating Skip Stewart, 12 to 11, in the afternoon, and Skip Murray defeating Skip McKay 13 to 10, in the night game.

Sam Nelson and his men gave the Chicago club a good lead in the afternoon by defeating Skip Anderson, 18 to 10, and at night George Wool defeated Skip Bowlby, 15 to 12. Scores of the night games:

The match between the Wanderers and Windsor rinks was finely contested, the score being tied five times. On the final head Bowlby, the third player for the visitors, raised an opponent's stone on to the pot 16, beating out one of his own rocks by an inch, and this gave the Wanderers their winning point.

The Chicago men took a big lead over Windsor, the count at the end of the eleventh head being 17 to 2. Then Anderson and his men counted seven, the skip making a clever wick in for his seventh count. The rinks:

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS.

BY HEK.

Revising the Code Feudello.

"As a means to end the practice of 'gun totin'" in Kentucky, the students of the state university are to be taught boxing."—News note.

There were murmurs in Kentucky when from Lexington there came
A notice that the varsity would try the boxing game;
That the highbrows had decided that the rule of fisticuffs
Was better than the cannon and the chiv for calling bluffs;
That they thought it was more manly to be handy with the mitts
Than to pot a hated rival with a gatling while he sits.
And the murmurings grew louder when the rumor hit the trail
That winds up through the mountings where such notions don't prevail.
And the old man in his cabin, with his arsenal at hand,
Waxed furious on hearing that the code was to be canned
By the pale, anemic critters in the city teaching school
Who had the crass audacity with feudal rights to fool.

"What baleful heresy is this?" he asked (to put it mild).
What kind o' foolishness is that to pound into a child?
How can he carry on the feud that's left from sire to son
If they deprive him of his chiv and take away his gun?
How can the vengeful son uphold the cause he dearly loves
And wipe out entire families with them durned boxing gloves?"

With charming naïveté, as one might say, Jack Johnson objects to Jim Flynn's picking up a piece of change for himself and manager in taking on the sub-hops, Al Palzer, in a limited round bout in New York. Johnson's reason for objecting is, of course, not the one he states. That's what makes it naïve. Jack is nettled at the contemplation of Jim's trading indirectly on his (the smoke's) reputation, while he (that is Johnson again) is deprived, by restrictions, limitations, and the want of a crafty manager, of the opportunity to get something out of it for himself. Johnson matched with Flynn is no better than Johnson without a manage or a mission, while Flynn matched with Johnson is immeasurably a greater "card" than Flynn without that attachment. That being the cause of the peeve, the peevishness will be aggravated by every move Curley and Flynn will make. For it is obvious that in matching his man with the champion Curley's primal purpose was to create a situation or condition that would multiply Flynn's value as an "attraction" for the next four months.

Johnson has made his bargain. He is to get $30,000 his own figure, win, lose, or draw. Curley has visions of three times that amount, fight or fizzle—if he can only keep the match on its feet until July 1.

If the charm of sport is its power to thrill, ski-jumping should be given a prominent place in the catalogue. Its proponents assure us that it is a riot of shudders. It ought to prove attractive to the old time steeplechase bugs, who haven't had a chance to throw a good fit since Hawthorne was abandoned.

According to Jim Callahan, there is nothing so conducive to putting on of hampering tissue as keeping union hours. He has noticed himself getting "high" since attacking his managerial duties, and that's how he accounts for it.

It is not apparent to a casual observer how a town that does not support one club adequately can be expected to furnish profits for two, but that may be because a casual observer has no casual imagination.

We have to give it to Harry Steinfeldt for trying. We don't know what he is trying for, but he's trying.

F. C.—We know nothing of the "status of the Brown case." We get taway from any disturbing doubts by holding the thought that Brown will be back pitching ball for the Cubs when the time comes, and "wondering how that rumor (about his quitting) got out."

Sometimes one wonders how Frank Chance can come east at all with that glorious and bountiful orange orchard tugging at his heart strings. He all along has been proclaimed a "game man," but he must be more than that. He must be a stoic. Contrasting what we hear of his state of mind during the ball season with the blessed tranquillity that pervades his soul in the winter, managing a ball club must be martyrdom to him.

A. A. A. GIVES 1912 MOTOR DATES

Chicago Awarded Four Contests for the Coming Season.

ABBOTT CAR IS SUSPENDED.

Premier's Ban Lifted; Oldfield Barred Until Next July.

BY KEENE GARDINER.

Action just taken by the contest board of the American Automobile association has an important bearing on the sporting events of 1912. The suspension of the Premier car which followed the row over the Glidden trophy in 1910 has been removed. Barney Oldfield will stay on the blacklist until the suspension expires next July. The Abbott Motor company of Detroit is suspended for six months and the tentative list of dates for 1912 contests gives the Chicago Motor club four. Two of them are not the ones asked for.

The suspension of the Abbott was caused by the advertising of that company following the Vanderbilt cup race when, it is claimed, statements were published to the effect that the two Abbotts that competed in that classic were stock machines. Under the ruling no Abbott can compete in an A. A. A. event until July 11, 1912.

Dates granted the Chicago Motor club are: Commercial vehicle run, May 15, 16, and 17; Algonquin hill climb, June 20; Elgin road races, Aug. 23-24; reliability, Oct. 7-11. The Motor club asked for June 8 for the hill climb and Aug. 16-17 for the road races. It is believed there has been some mistake which can be cleared up.

Another action on the part of the A. A. A. is to demand that promoters put up their sanction fees at the same time they file their applications for dates.

WITMAN NAMES SEVEN CITIES.

Eighth Berth in United States League Likely to Go to Baltimore or Cleveland.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—President Witman of the United States league was in this city today, in conference with Capt. Marshall Henderson and W. T. McCollough, who have the local franchise in the new league. President Witman said that seven cities in which the United States league will have clubs have been decided on. They are: Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Reading, Washington, Richmond, Brooklyn, and New York.

The eighth berth is between Cleveland and Baltimore. Witman is in favor of Cleveland, but the magnates of that city have not been able to satisfy him in reference to grounds. He said that in Baltimore the backers have grounds. Witman also said:

"In Cincinnati the new ball park is to be within a few squares of the National league grounds, and the man who owns the grounds is to be one of the owners of the club. I own the Reading grounds. In New York the grounds are located in the Bronx. Applications for franchises have been received from twenty-two cities."

JIM SCOTT SIGNS; TELLS REAL AGE

Callahan, Finding the Senator Is Only a Kid, Predicts Great Future.

CATCHER KREITZ IN LINE.

Walsh to Report Early and Help Coach Young Sox Pitchers This Spring.

BY SAM WELLER.

Jim Scott, some baseball pitcher as well as motorcycle speeder, has signed the papers to twirl for the White Sox another season. Jim has been in town several days, coming from his Wyoming ranch accompanied by his mother and sister. Yesterday he called on Manager Callahan at his office in Comiskey park and, after a brief business conference, put his name to a contract.

Incidentally Callahan learned Jim's correct age. He supposed the tall slabbist was 28 or 30, and was much surprised to learn he will not be twenty-four until after the season of 1912 has begun. Scott has been a member of Comiskey's team since the spring of 1909, and has shown flashes of rare pitching ability. His best stride was that of last year, but he didn't get into it until the season was more than half over. From then until the finish he was almost invincible, and because of his youth Callahan thinks Scott may turn out to be one of the great pitchers of the game.

Visions of Minneapolis.

There was a time last summer when it looked as if Scott would draw a railroad ticket to Minneapolis, providing Minneapolis would agree to take him. When the season opened Jim was in no condition to work. About the middle of May he was tried out against the Athletics, a team against which he had always been effective. It was just after he had fallen down miserably in a series at Cleveland. Against the Athletics he was like himself again and held them to three hits. That was when Mack's champions were going badly.

After that game Scott slumped terribly and on the first trip east when Roy Corhan was injured in New York, Scott was left there to take care of him and later sent home because it was thought he was of no help to the club. Things continued this way until near the close of the second trip east, when on Aug. 7 the Sox hit Philadelphia. At this time the Athletics were going at a terrific pace. Scott was sent against Bender in the first game and it went for fourteen innings. Scott outpitched the Indian that day, an error losing the game for him. From that day to the close of the season Scott was considered almost the equal of Ed Walsh on the slab.

After signing his contract Scott announced he would stay a few days longer in Chicago, then return to Wyoming to await reporting time.

Hears from Kreitz and Walsh.

Callahan received by mail yesterday the signed contract of Ralph Kreitz, the young auburn haired catcher, procured in the middle of last season. Kreitz is wintering in Oregon, where he operates a butcher shop. He made himself famous with the south side fans that fall by slamming out a timely ninth inning single that won the first game of the series with the Cubs.

A letter from Ed Walsh was received by Callahan yesterday in which the big spitball star wrote that he was feeling in fine shape and would report early for the spring training. Callahan had written his star asking if he would go down south ahead of the main squad, and Walsh answered that he was ready to go any time he could do any good for the club. Cal wants the big pitcher there to teach the young twirlers a few tricks of the slab, mainly the art of holding runners close to first base. Walsh has a half balk motion that has caught many a one and keeps them all guessing.

King Cole and Reggie Richter, two tall, rangy guys, who will pitch for the Cubs, called upon President Murphy yesterday. Cole has been out at Toledo, Ia., where he owns a farm, and is on his way now to Bay City, Mich., to spend the balance of the cold spell. Richter lives in Chicago and has taken on eight pounds of flesh since October. Eight more will do him no harm.

President Murphy yesterday presented a visionary prospectus of a new baseball plant he contemplates building on the west side at some future time. He declared he was going to wait until all the others had built, then profit from their experience.

"When I build," he said, "it will be a million dollar plant that will be something for Chicago to be proud of. I'll have a place on the roof for automobiles and flying machines. There'll be a room full of curiosities pertaining to baseball, and the fans can spend a bit of their spare change there. There'll be a swell cafe and a lot of life sized statues of the heroes of the game. When visitors come to town they'll go out to see my ball park the first thing, and then go back home and talk about it."

ISBELL GOING TO DES MOINES.

Former Sox Star and Tom Fairweather Take Western League Club Off Comiskey's Hands.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The Des Moines Western league franchise, players, and property today passed into the hands of Thomas Fairweather and Frank Isbell. Fairweather is the former owner of the Sioux City franchise and Isbell until today controlled the Pueblo club. An option, secured from Charles A. Comiskey of Chicago ten days ago, was exercised and the deal completed. Comiskey bought the club last summer from John F. Higgins for $15,000.

The new deal means that the local franchise, for the first time in a decade, will be owned and operated by Des Moines men. Isbell today sold out his interest in the Pueblo club, which will go back to Wichita. Isbell also has sold all of his property in the latter city, where he has resided many years, and will make his home permanently in Des Moines.

Fairweather already has disposed of all his interests in Sioux City. His personal property will be shipped here and he will become a bona fide resident of the city. He has a boat for the coming match, while America will be obliged to build one, and that the Richardson cup was donated by an American.

It was suggested and tentatively agreed to that the first race be held on Aug. 10, which is the same date on which the first Canada cup race was held here in 1901. The date was fixed so that boats competing in the Mackinac race will have time to get back here for the Richardson trophy races, and so that the series will not conflict with the Lipton cup races, to be held later.

Patricia to Represent Canada.

The Royal Canadian Yacht club committee had been instructed to hold out for Toronto as the scene of the races, and it took considerable arguing to make it change its mind. Norman Gooderham, owner and skipper of Patricia, which will be the challenging boat, fell in line with the Chicago representatives. The R. C. Y. C. has called a directors' meeting for today to approve the action of its committee.

Harry Grabiner, a representative from Comiskey, called upon Borton and the latter agreed to sign a contract. Borton had been holding out. Tex Jones also states he will sign a White Sox contract when he goes to Chicago late this month.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 15.—Elmer Strickett, who violated a rule of organized baseball by refusing to report in 1909, to the Brooklyn club, which had title to his services by reservation, and by joining an outlaw organization in that year, was reinstated to good standing by the national commission today on the payment of a fine of $100.

CHICAGO SECURES BIG YACHT RACE

Royal Canadian Club Agrees to Hold First Contest for Richardson Cup Here.

TENTATIVE DATE AUG. 10.

Atkin and McClurg Present Convincing Arguments in Favor of Local Waters.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

Local yachting fans will be able to see an international series of races off Chicago next summer. The news was brought yesterday by G. H. Atkin and Ogden T. McClurg, the two representatives of the Chicago Yacht club who went to Toronto for the purpose of conferring with a committee from the Royal Canadian Yacht club regarding the contest recently arranged between the two organizations.

The landing of the international event for this city was somewhat of a surprise. The Royal Canadian Y. C., in the set of conditions forwarded here for approval, specified that the first contest for the Richardson trophy should be held in Toronto. Messrs. Atkin and McClurg went to the Dominion city with instructions to make a bid for this city as the scene of the opening races. They not only did this, but presented the arguments so forcibly that the Canadians agreed to meet their rivals in local waters.

Race Will Boom Sport Here.

By inducing the Dominion sailors to come here, Chicago is assured the greatest yacht races seen on Lake Michigan since the memorable meeting between Invader and Cadillac in 1904. That contest was for the Canada cup, and was won by the Canadians. The series marked the last appearance of the Chicago Yacht club in an international match, and the return of the local organization to such competition means a big boom for the yachting game during the coming season.

The arguments advanced by Messrs. Atkin and McClurg for bringing the races here were that the Canada cup to be replaced now is held in America; that this country has taken it three times straight; that Canada now has a boat for the coming match, while America will be obliged to build one, and that the Richardson cup was donated by an American.

It was suggested and tentatively agreed to that the first race be held on Aug. 10, which is the same date on which the first Canada cup race was held here in 1901. The date was fixed so that boats competing in the Mackinac race will have time to get back here for the Richardson trophy races, and so that the series will not conflict with the Lipton cup races, to be held later.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

Cash sales of wheat reported here were 35,000 bu. The general demand was moderate, although there were intimations that negotiations were pending for much larger quantities. In the southwest the tone of the markets was easier, and one message said cash wheat at Kansas City was ½c to 1c lower, while another one said it was unchanged. St. Louis was unchanged. Kansas City wired that more liberal receipts of red wheat were expected this week. Minneapolis wired there was a fair demand for wheat there with No. 1 northern about May price. Flour trade at Minneapolis does not show much, if any, improvement.

Standard oats here are selling in the sample crowd at about 1c premium over the May. This is unusual and is one reason for the persistent buying of May oats on the weak spots. Other markets are said to be bidding over Chicago for both oats and corn, and barley is way above any level where there could be any substitution of this cereal for corn and oats. Bulls in coarse grains are again directing attention to the high prices for hay prevailing at all points.

Heavy selling of provisions has been a noteworthy feature of the market for several days, and it has been possible to buy large quantities of product without disturbing or lifting values to any extent. This has given rise to the belief that there has been quiet, but extensive liquidation of long lines. Tietgens, Clement-Curtis, Canby, and Knight-McDougal have been free sellers for several days and it has been this selling part that has started comment.

Broomhall now estimates the Argentine surplus of wheat at 96,000,000 bu, or 8,000,000 bu less than his last previous estimate. Last year actual shipments were about 88,000,000 bu. The surplus of oats is placed at 55,000,000 bu, against 37,000,000 bu a year ago.

Cash corn and oats were without much change in the sample market and there was no urgent demand for either. Shipping sales were 60,000 bu corn and 130,000 bu oats. Offerings of corn from the country were a little larger. Oats offerings continue light.

President McCormick of the International Harvester company says in his report to the stockholders: "Recent cable advices from the Argentine indicate serious damage to one of the best crops in the history of the country."

The acreage under winter wheat in France is officially placed at 15,600,000 acres, against 15,531,000 last year. The condition Jan. 1 is 79.4, against 69.1 May 1 last year.

Exports of wheat and flour for the United States during the first six months of the crop year were 50,494,000 bu, against 36,511,000 bu.

Estimated receipts for today: Wheat, 12 cars; corn, 502 cars; oats, 133 cars; rye, 2 cars; barley, 33 cars; hogs, 30,000 head.

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were ¼@½c lower; corn, ¼@½c higher; oats, steady to ¼c higher; rye, ¼c higher.

David A. Noyes and Harry Halliday leave today for a trip to Panama.

Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 65,000 bu for two days.

LEHIGH VALLEY SPECULATORS WARNED BY N. Y. EXCHANGE.

New Rule Compels Those Short of Stock to Purchase Before Jan. 17 or Go on the Curb to Buy.

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The plight of the speculator who "sells what is not his" was made irksome by a ruling of the New York stock exchange today.

The ruling concerned trades in Lehigh Valley stock, which for many weeks has been one of the most active mediums of speculation on the board, and on many days of late an even more active stock than Steel common, Union Pacific, and Reading, the three great speculative favorites of recent years.

The ruling so far as it could be construed by officers of the stock exchange compels speculators short of the stock to buy in the stock on the stock exchange before next Friday, Jan. 19, or go out on the curb and purchase at the curb market price contracts for the delivery of the stock of a company not yet organized and whose only assets as far as at present announced will be intangible.

The ruling was the cause of great confusion among brokers, speculators, and officers of the stock exchange and of greater trepidation among bearish speculators in Lehigh.

WEATHER RULES LIVE STOCK MART

Cold Curtails Shipments; Receipts Show Smallest in Many Months.

ALL PRICES MOVE HIGHER

Prime Beeves at Year's High Mark; Hogs Reach $6.50; Colorado Lambs Arrive.

Reflecting the stormy and extremely cold conditions prevailing in the west and northwest, live stock receipts at Chicago yesterday made the smallest aggregate of any previous Monday total in many months. Buyers had expected such an outcome to a certain extent and most of them were in a position to curtail their purchases, but still there were some urgent orders to be filled and firmer prices obtained in all branches of the market.

Beef cattle sold at prices that were strong to 10c higher than at the close last week, with prime beeves at $8.60 reaching a new high mark for the year. Cows and heifers sold on a firm basis, and calf prices were rigidly maintained at recent gains, assorted vealers selling up to $9.75.

Hogs opened at an advance of 10c from Saturday's best figures and the average price for the day was advanced 11c, to $6.38. A top of $6.50 was attained, several loads reaching that level, and the market closed in a healthy condition despite packers' efforts to bring about a late break.

First Colorado lambs of the season were received and disposed of at $7.15. Western lambs reached $7.25, while yearlings topped at $6.00 and wethers sold up to $5.00.

MARSHALL FIELD ESTATE SUES FOR MONEY INVESTED IN COAL.

Charges That Syndicate Has Rendered No Accounting of $600,000 the Dry Goods Man Paid for Shares.

New York, Jan. 15.—An accounting of an investment of $600,000 alleged to have been made by the late Marshall Field of Chicago in the Virginia Coal Purchase company, a $6,000,000 concern organized to develop coal lands in the Clinchfield district of Virginia, is sought in a suit filed here today by the executors and trustees of the dry goods merchant's estate against Thomas F. Ryan, Norman B. Ream, T. Jefferson Coolidge, and the New York banking firm of Blair & Co., who, with Field, it is alleged, were members of the syndicate which raised the $6,000,000 capital.

The complaint sets forth that Field completed payment of $600,000 as his proportion of the capital in 1906, and that in June of that year the defendants, without authority, formed a new syndicate, called the Cumberland syndicate, with a capital of $15,000,000, and sold the assets of the Virginia Coal Purchase company for $6,000,000.

These assets, the complaint alleges, were not distributed, nor was any payment made to the Field estate, although demand was duly made.

PUT ELECTRIC ON NEW BASIS

Milwaukee Bondholders Name Reorganization Managers.

SEEK ACCESS TO DOWNTOWN.

Negotiate Agreement with Northwestern Elevated Railway.

Settlement of all existing difficulties among contending forces of the Chicago and Milwaukee electric railroad bondholders was effected at a protracted meeting on Saturday afternoon. This was announced yesterday from the office of A. C. Frost, formerly president of the company and owner of $2,000,000 in bonds, hypothecated during the road's recent troubles—and Mr. Frost's.

By the settlement the Illinois and Wisconsin bondholders' representatives accede to the demands of John R. Thompson, specifically, for a place on the committee and payment of his obligations for the litigation of his claims. Mr. Thompson's refusal to let the reorganization proceed without these concessions was responsible for the delay of the last few months.

Reynolds Chairman of New Board.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National bank, is chairman of the new reorganization committee. Other members are as follows: Ernest A. Hamill, W. E. Stavert, George A. Somerville, Miller Lash, Robert Cassels, R. F. Clinch, E. A. Shedd, John R. Thompson, and H. S. Osler.

Mr. Hamill and Mr. Osler represent the Illinois division bondholders and the others the Wisconsin division. W. E. Stavert is manager of the Bank of Montreal and Mr. Somerville, Mr. Lash, and Mr. Cassels are concerned with the Toronto interests.

To Get Access to Downtown.

A tentative operating agreement already has been in negotiation with the Northwestern elevated railway as a part of the Chicago Elevated Railways. Its consummation will await the return from Europe in February of Samuel Insull, chairman of the elevated merger executive committee, but no doubt is expressed that it will be carried through.

LIGHTERAGE COMPANY GOES INTO A RECEIVER'S HANDS.

Pioneer Concern Assigns Action to Lack of Capital—Officers Say Reorganization Is Under Way.

The Central Trust company was appointed receiver for the Chicago Lighterage company by Judge Landis in the United States District court yesterday. The receivership followed the filing of involuntary bankruptcy proceedings by creditors. The company's liabilities are estimated to be $75,000. Its assets are fixed at $25,000.

The company's failure is attributed to a lack of capital. The concern was the pioneer in the lighterage business on the Chicago river. It was organized four years ago. Reorganization is under way, F. D. Silber, the concern's receiver, announced last night. The creditors beginning the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings and the amount of their claims are the Pugh Terminal company, $6,794; F. L. Bateman, $600; and the Fair, $36.

BOARD OF TRADE "HOME" UP AGAIN

President Bunch Urges New Building in His Inaugural Address.

DECISION WITH MEMBERS.

Wants Movement to Take State Grain Inspection "Out of Politics."

The project for a new building on the present site of the board of trade was given encouragement yesterday by Frank M. Bunch, the new president, in his inaugural address yesterday afternoon.

"The new building proposition is well worth consideration by the members of the board," said Mr. Bunch. "The present value of our property is conservatively placed at $4,000,000, and it is reasonable to suppose this value will increase in the coming decade. I have no pet theories on the subject. It is a condition and not a theory that is before us. I advise the reference of the matter to some other committee of members competent to investigate the matter thoroughly."

Practically the board of trade is as far from a new building as it was two years ago, as it rests entirely with the members as to whether steps shall be taken to start a new building project.

Many Brokers Attend Meeting.

A large and representative assemblage of members was present at the annual meeting to hear read the annual reports, as well as the address of the retiring president, J. C. F. Merrill, and the inaugural message of President Bunch.

Mr. Merrill called attention briefly to the work done the last year, particularly the organization of the custodian department, which now makes the private warehouse receipt when accompanied by the custodian's certificate practically as good collateral as public warehouse receipts. He also referred to the anti-corner rule and the supervision of market letters and private wires.

Praises State Grain Inspection.

The state inspection department came in for a compliment from Mr. Bunch, who said it had reached the maximum degree of efficiency under the present system.

"The board of trade should start a movement to have the inspection department taken out of the realm of politics," said the new president. "Every member of the department from top to bottom should be selected on the merit system."

The annual reports of the directors, secretary, and other departments were read and adopted unanimously.

Concentrated Advertising
IN Philadelphia
TO Philadelphians

The Evening Telegraph
Philadelphia's Home Newspaper, gained more than twice as much display advertising in 1911 as that gained in the same period by all other Philadelphia daily newspapers combined.
Our increase was 1,401,936 agate lines, or approximately 4673 columns. The next greatest gain by a Philadelphia paper was only 755¾ columns. Doesn't that show you that advertisers are beginning to realize that greatest results come through "concentration," and are selecting their mediums to this end?
Advertising in Philadelphia NEWSPAPERS and advertising to PHILADELPHIANS are different propositions.

90 Per Cent. of Our Circulation Goes Direct Into Philadelphia Homes

"The Evening Telegraph" is read by the same class of readers—but more of them—that used to pay three cents for it before its price was reduced to one cent.
The net paid average circulation for 1911 was 116,373 copies.
It is neither sensational nor silly; nor is it dignified to the extent of being dull.
It is THE medium known in the financial district for its trustworthy reports; it is THE medium of the baseball "fans" as well as THE welcome guest in Philadelphia's best homes, because of its clean methods of presenting all the news.

READING DIVIDEND PUZZLES TRADERS

Company Changes from Semi-Annual to Quarterly; Last Payment Ex. July 14.

NEXT RETURN EX. JAN. 23.

Brokers Ask, "Where Is Dividend Due in October or November?" Short Contracts Affected.

There is considerable inquiry concerning the position of traders in Reading common stock. The company changed its dividend periods from semi-annual to quarterly. The last semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent was paid Aug. 1, 1911, the stock being ex-dividend July 14. The directors then announced the change to quarterly, and have now declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable Feb. 8. The stock will be ex-dividend Jan. 23. The question with brokers is, what has become of the 1½ per cent which they think should have been paid last October or November? They figure that 1½ per cent is missing out of the regular 6 per cent dividend rate. The maker of short contracts does not know where he stands.

Disturbed Over Foreign Outlook.

Henry C. Hackney returned yesterday from New York. Speaking of the market situation there, he said:

"There is an undercurrent of uneasiness because of the foreign situation. Some of the large houses fear that there may be some trouble in the spring involving Germany, Great Britain, and France. In the meantime, Germany is a heavy borrower in this country, and at high rates. It is estimated that foreign borrowings amount to nearly $150,000,000.

"As to the continued selling of Union Pacific, brokers are unable to explain it. In some quarters, however, it is thought that Mrs. Harriman sold all she could of the stock when the price was around 180. Meanwhile the talk is that the dividend will be reduced from 10 to 8 per cent."

Northwestern to Issue Bonds.

The following was wired from New York:

"The Chicago and Northwestern Railway company will do some new financing at once. This will take the form of a new issue of divisional bonds of the Milwaukee, Sparta and Northwestern Railway company, controlled by the Chicago and Northwestern, and generally known as the Sparta division. It is proposed to bring out about $15,000,000 of these bonds, which will bear 4 per cent interest. They will be guaranteed, principal and interest, by the parent corporation. Proceeds of the new issue will be used for improvements, part of the money going to complete the construction of the Milwaukee, Sparta and Northwestern road, which has not yet been entirely finished. When completed it will form part of the route over which the passenger train recently put on to run from Chicago to the Pacific coast over the Chicago and Northwestern and Northern Pacific lines runs. At present this train is being operated over another part of the Northwestern system.

"It is not improbable that the Chicago and Northwestern will be the next important railroad to come into the market for any considerable amount of money, following closely after the announcement of the Norfolk and Western issue of $14,000,000 convertible bonds. The New York Central will issue $30,000,000 to $35,000,000 short term notes or debentures in connection with the purchase of the New York and Harlem, but it is not expected that these will be brought out until about the middle of February."

Rock Island's Big Bond Issue.

Announcement also was made from New York that the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company sold to Speyer & Co. $20,000,000 twenty year 5 per cent gold debentures. The following statement was authorized:

"The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company has sold to Messrs. Speyer & Co. $20,000,000 face amount of twenty year 5 per cent gold debentures. The proceeds will be used for terminal properties at Omaha, new terminals and a bridge across the Mississippi river at Memphis, for various additions and betterments, and for paying at maturity securities falling due in the calendar years 1912 and 1913. The first and refunding bonds and any terminal securities issued during those years will be taken into the railway company's treasury."

The following statement, put out along with the above notice, was described as "official":

"The management of the old Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company, in which the First National bank and Phelps-Dodge interests are represented with W. H. Moore and D. G. Reid, has decided not to avail itself of its right to sell any of the company's first and refunding mortgage bonds or any other bonds for two years. All these securities, as they become issuable for money spent, will be retained in the company's treasury as free assets, the company having decided to create an issue of $20,000,000 gold debenture bonds, the proceeds of which will be ample to meet the company's requirements for betterments, improvements, new terminals, etc., for the next two years.

"The new debenture bonds will bear 5 per cent interest and will mature in twenty years. They are secured by a trust indenture to the Bankers' Trust company, which provides that if the company should create any other mortgage on its railroad while these debentures are outstanding they will be entitled to share in the security of such mortgage in the same fashion as is provided for in the case of the New York Central-Lake Shore debentures."

Stock Exchange Rulings.

The law committee of the New York stock exchange announced yesterday that its rulings in the matter of contracts affected by the fire in the Equitable building have been continued until further action is taken by its members.

The committee on securities of the New York stock exchange ruled that all transactions in Lehigh Valley stock on Jan. 19, 1912, shall be ex the dividend of 10 per cent and ex the privilege to subscribe for Lehigh Valley Coal Sales company stock.

American Stogie Reorganization.

It is announced that the plan for the dissolution of the American Stogie company and the reorganization of the Union-American Cigar company has been issued.

The assets of the American Stogie company are represented by the issued stock of the Union-American company, 12,500 shares, of the par value of $100. The American Stogie company has $976,000 of preferred stock outstanding entitled to 7 per cent cumulative dividends. There are in arrears unpaid dividends up to Feb. 1, 1912, amounting to 46½ per cent, or $453,840. The stogie company also has $10,879,000 common stock outstanding. It is proposed that the Union-American company authorize the issue of $1,500,000 preferred to be issued as of Feb. 1, 1912. This is to entitle the holders to receive cumulative dividends of 7 per cent to be paid semi-annually.

Dividends Declared.

The International Harvester company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on the common stock, payable Jan. 15 to stockholders of record Dec. 23, 1911.

Directors of Sears, Roebuck & Co. have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the common stock, payable Feb. 15 to stockholders of record Jan. 31.

STOCKS LOSE AND GAIN IN NEW YORK

Market Opens Heavy, but the Close Sees a Number of Bracing Activities.

LEHIGH VALLEY STRONG.

Wall Street Pays Little Attention to Proposed Plan of Taking Over Telegraph.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Enough strength developed in the market today after a period of heaviness in the early trading to wipe out the first losses in most stocks and in some instances to bring net advances of fair proportions. Irregularity was the chief characteristic of the operations, which were smaller even than the moderate volume of trading ruling since the beginning of the year.

Lehigh Valley was one of the conspicuously strong issues, and the other anthracite shares participated in this strength in varying degrees. It was plain today from the stock market point of view that the belief prevailed that we are still a long way from embarking on a plan of government ownership of the telegraph companies.

Continued ease in the time money market and the greater pressure of funds upon call money rates reflected the heavy inflow of cash revealed in last Saturday's bank statement. Growing ease is likely to pave the way for the flotation of new security issues.

Bond Market Continues Quiet.

The general bond market has not yet developed along the broad lines some had hoped for, but the continued inflow of idle funds to the local banks adds constantly to the incentive of the management of those institutions to seek more profitable employment for funds at their command than can be had in the time or call money market.

Discounts abroad were easier at London and a trifle firmer in Berlin. The easier tone in the English market was helped by the fact that the Bank of England obtained the major portion of the $4,000,000 new gold laid down in London today.

Better Rates Found Abroad.

It appears, however, exchange rates permitting, that profitable use can be made abroad of surplus American funds in the English as well as in the French market, where money for special use is commanding much better rates than call loans here.

Money on call steady, 2¼@2½ per cent; ruling rate, 2⅜ per cent; closing bid, 2⅜ per cent; offered at 2½ per cent. Time loans easier; sixty days, 2¾ @ 3 per cent and ninety days' lending at 3 per cent; six months' lending at 3½ per cent. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 3¾@4¼ per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8375 for sixty day bills and at 4.87 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.83. Bar silver, 55⅛c; Mexican dollars, 47c. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds irregular.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Money was in strong demand today. Discount rates were easy. The Bank of England secured most of the $3,875,000 new gold offered in the open market. The stock market was quietly cheerful. American securities opened steady and a fraction higher, but later in the forenoon fears of labor troubles induced realizing and the market declined. A slight rally followed, but New York offerings caused another setback in the afternoon, and the closing was easy with prices near the lowest point of the day.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—Prices were higher on the boerse today, mainly on the better international political situation and favorable industrial reports.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Prices were notably firm on the bourse today. The strength was due to the passing of the cabinet crisis.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—After an early period of weakness, stocks steadied today and held dull. In the final hour little activity developed, and some of the early losses recovered, but final prices were generally lower than Saturday. Hancock was the most active issue, and in early dealings rose smartly, only to lose all its gain, though buying was confident on decline. Rails and industrials inclined to heaviness, and bond houses reported good business due to ease in money. Call money 3@3¼ per cent; time loans, short dates, 4 per cent; time loans, six months, 4@4½ per cent; time loans, year, 4¼@4½ per cent.

BUYERS FORCE CHEAPER EGGS

Refuse to Pay Famine Prices; Mart Declines ½@2 Cents.

CREAMERY BUTTER HIGHER.

Expected Shipping Demand Caused 1 Cent Advance; Potatoes Steady.

Buyers' convictions that the egg market at Chicago was in an unsound position were proven well founded yesterday when another reduction of ½@2c was made in prices in an effort to revive the consumptive demand. Receipts were only 762 cases, among the lightest in the history of the trade, but with most dealers lacking faith in the maintenance of present values, there was little buying and the supply was more than ample for all requirements.

Butter values continued to work upward, extras in creamery being advanced 1c a pound in anticipation of a bulge at Elgin and as the result of a reported increase in the eastern shipping demand. Receipts for the day were 7,768 tubs, against 6,064 tubs a week ago.

Potato prices were supported on a steady basis, with the trade of small volume on account of the cold weather. Receipts were only 48 cars and there was little stock pressing for sale.

Poultry trade was of fair volume, with prices of both live and dressed offerings on a steady basis.

TO HOLDERS OF

WABASH RAILROAD COMPANY:

The undersigned, owning and representing large amounts of the above bonds, have formed a Committee for the protection of the holders thereof. No one of the undersigned Committee is in any way connected with the present management of the Wabash Railroad, under which the recent receivership and default have been brought about.

To the end that co-operation of all of the bondholders may be secured, the undersigned Committee requests the holders of the above bonds to deposit their bonds, with coupons maturing on and after January 1, 1912, with the Central Trust Company of New York, 54 Wall Street, New York City, as Depositary, which will issue its certificates of deposit therefor under the Agreement of Deposit dated December 30, 1911, under which this Committee has been formed.

The Committee has arranged to advance to the bondholders who may deposit under this agreement the amount of the unpaid installment of interest defaulted January 1, 1912, but it should be clearly understood that such advance constitutes a loan secured by the bonds and coupons deposited. Depositors who do not care to accept will be at no disadvantage, since any reorganization terms must apply equitably to all depositors under the agreement.

Copies of the agreement of deposit may be obtained from the Depositary. The agreement provides opportunity for depositing bondholders to withdraw in case the plan of reorganization formulated by the Committee is not approved by them, and limits the contribution to the expenses of the reorganization of bondholders who so withdraw to one per cent of the face amount of their bonds. Application will be made in due course to list the certificates of deposit on the New York Stock Exchange.

FLATS SOLD UNDER TORRENS SYSTEM

Transaction Involves Property at S. E. Corner Kenmore and Lawrence Avenues.

WEST MADISON ST. DEAL.

Half Interest in Premises at N. W. Corner of Ogden Avenue Brings $50,000.

An interesting transaction in north side apartment house property was closed under the Torrens system yesterday. It covered the property at the southeast corner of Kenmore and Lawrence avenues, which was sold by Charles E. Cooley to Andrew J. Pruitt and Charles W. Moore, the builders.

It is a three story and basement building containing eighteen apartments of five to eight rooms each on a lot 100x143 feet, and the consideration was nominal, the purchasers assuming an incumbrance of $32,000. The building is said to have an annual gross rent of about $11,500 and to have been held around $90,000. The purchasers gave in part payment about 1,000 feet of frontage in Wilmette, also a residence there and two residences in Chicago at a total valuation of about $50,000.

Apartment House Sold.

Olof F. Olson has sold to Samuel F. Warwick the ten apartment building with 77x124 feet of ground at the southwest corner of Sangamon and Seventy-sixth streets, for $27,000, subject to an incumbrance of $12,000, and a seven room dwelling at 7648 Carpenter street.

The purchaser gave in part payment the four flat building with 49x120 feet of ground at 414-416 West Sixtieth place and the three story store and flat building at 5931 Wentworth avenue with 24x125 feet of ground. Samuel Burns was the broker.

Deal in Wabash Avenue.

Morris M. Jones of Thomas A. Hall & Co., who recently took title to the property at 1125-1127 Wabash avenue, 40x171 feet, west front, 200 feet south of Harmon court, with two story brick improvements, has conveyed the same to William T. Hall for a consideration of $10, subject to an incumbrance of $17,000.

Record has been made of the conveyance by Louis Webster Wicker of Los Angeles, Cal., to Ida Hamlin Webster of his half interest in the property at the northwest corner of West Madison street and Ogden avenue, known as the Illinois hall property, with 40x161 feet of ground, for $50,000.

More Deals in Flats.

The apartment house property in Center avenue, [illegible] feet south of Taylor street, 48x100 feet, west front, has been sold by Emelie Eastman to Leon [illegible] for $24,000.

Mrs. Margaret A. Collins has purchased from William R. Linn the 60x253 feet, south front, in Sheridan road, 477 feet west of Lake Michigan, for nominal consideration. The purchaser will improve with a modern apartment building.

Standard Oil Sells Property.

The Standard Oil company has sold to Simon [illegible] the triangular shaped lot bounded by Twenty-[illegible] street, Canalport avenue, and Sangamon street, containing about 17,000 square feet, for $[illegible]. The property is connected with the Burlington tracks on Sangamon street. W. A. Merigold & Co. were the brokers.

The property at the northwest corner of Twelfth street and Central Park avenue, 100x100 feet, has been purchased by Morris Hirsch of Belfeld, [illegible] & Co., real estate operators. It is planned to improve with a store, office, and flat building to cost about $50,000.

To Talk on Referendum.

Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic federation, will talk on the initiative and referendum at today's weekly luncheon of the Cook county real estate board.

Through a typographical error in "The Tribune" on Sunday the Chicago real estate board was made to appear as having at a recent meeting [illegible] a former indorsement of the Torrens [illegible]. It should have been the Cook county board.

FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT OF EXTENSIVE CLEARANCE PRICES:

Fur Coats, Neckwear and Muffs Reduced in the Season of Their Greatest Service.

Fifth Floor.

We are ending one of the most unusual, as well as the most successful seasons in the history of our Fur business. The demand has been for Furs of every description—some that have not been worn for many years. To meet this demand our varieties in styles and kinds have been and are still the greatest we have ever shown at any time in any previous season. Our purchases were small and frequent. We found conditions unusually fortunate in these purchases, resulting in the unusually attractive prices.

As a result, the remaining lots to be closed out are not only more widely varied, but are more desirable in every respect than are usually to be found at such reductions. There is a notable absence of styles that could in the least be classed as undesirable. All lines are represented—Scarfs, Pelerines, Shawls, Stocks, Ties and Jabots. The reductions in Fur and Fur Lined Coats are especially attractive.

FOUR SPECIALS AT $1.00 IN THE JANUARY UNDERMUSLIN SALE:

Night Dresses, Combinations, Chemises, Petticoats

These values are the strongest instances that we can give of the savings afforded in this sale. Fifth Floor.

At $1—Night Dresses—Nainsook, three slipover styles, yokes of embroidery, short flowing sleeves.

At $1—Combination Corset Cover and Drawers—Nainsook trimmed with lace or embroidery insertion.

At $1.00—Chemises—Nainsook, trimmed with lace insertion and embroidery beading and ribbon.

At $1.00—Petticoats—One of the new straight models with embroidery or lace insertion above hem.

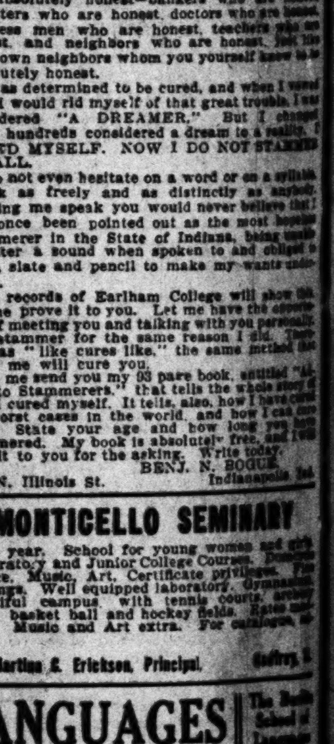
20 Years Ago I Was Laughed at Because I STAMMERED



Not only hundreds but thousands can and will tell you this. I mean people of good reputation who are absolutely honest—bankers who are honest, ministers who are honest, doctors who are honest, business men who are honest, teachers who are honest, and neighbors who are honest, just like your own neighbors whom you yourself know to be absolutely honest.

I was determined to be cured, and when I vowed that I would rid myself of that great trouble I was considered "A DREAMER." But I changed what hundreds considered a dream to a reality. I CURED MYSELF. NOW I DO NOT STAMMER AT ALL.

I do not even hesitate on a word or on a syllable. I talk as freely and as distinctly as anybody. Hearing me speak you would never believe that I had once been pointed out as the most hopeless Stammerer in the State of Indiana, being unable to utter a sound when spoken to and obliged to use a slate and pencil to make my wants understood.

The records of Earlham College will show this. Let me prove it to you. Let me have the opportunity of meeting you and talking with you personally. You stammer for the same reason I did. Therefore, as "like cures like," the same method that cured me will cure you.

Let me send you my 93 page book, entitled "Advice to Stammerers," that tells the whole story of how I cured myself. It tells, also, how I have cured the worst cases in the world, and how I can cure you. State your age and how long you have stammered. My book is absolutely free, and I will send it to you for the asking. Write today.
